Just issued, a valued and much needed work, being

"The time has gone by when mere compilation of facts, however accurate, and collections of undigested material will be taken as history. History must be a picture of the working out of human life under its conditions of infinite variety and complexity."
"His extensive acquaintance with the various parts of Canada, and his connection with learned circles in Britain and the United States, have given him exceptional opportunities in consulting useful manuscripts and original documents."

STANDARD WORKS.

A NEW ENGLISH DICTIONARY on Historical Principles, founded mainly on the materials collected by the Philological Society. Edited by JAMES A. H. MURRAY, with the assistance of many scholars and men of science. Now ready. Parts I, II, III. A—Boz (to be completed in 24 parts), each $3.25. "This monumental work. . . Never before has the English language been treated lexicographically in a manner so truly comprehensive and scientific, and rarely has the University of Oxford lent the resources of its celebrated Press to a work more worthy of its ancient renown."—Times, March 12, 1886.

THE DICTIONARY OF NATIONAL BIOGRAPHY. Edited by LESLIE STEPHEN. Now ready. Volumes I—X. 8vo., Cloth. Each, $3.00.

* Further Volumes will be issued at intervals of Three Months, and it is expected that the Work will be completed in about Fifty Volumes.

The Dictionary of National Biography is intended to supply a want which has, for more than half a century, been generally felt.

Each nation should have its own biographical dictionary. The German and Belgian Dictionaries, now in progress, are instances of such work abroad; and it is intended to provide a dictionary for our own nation worthy to take a place beside them.

The first aim has been to give biographies which shall embody with sufficient fulness the latest results of historical research, and be founded upon an examination of original documents. A clear indication will be given in each article of the authorities which have been used, and from which further information may be derived.

"An examination shows that the expectations which have been formed concerning it will not be disappointed. In fulness, in thoroughness, and in general accuracy it leaves little or nothing to be desired. If all of them are compiled with the learning, the intelligence, and the general accuracy evinced in the first part, the place they will hold is not likely to be disputed for many generations."—London Athenæum.

"The most thorough and reliable biographical dictionary in existence. . . No public library will think of omitting this work from its list, and the number of subscribers among those who know the value of a good private reference library will undoubtedly be large. The importance of the work demanded the ablest writers, the most laborious and assiduous literary tact, the most accurate and clearest judgment that English scholarship could supply. These demands have been met in the most completely satisfactory manner, and the result is a model work of historical biography."—Christian Union.

"In fulness, general accuracy, conciseness, and simplicity of treatment, with not infrequently an infusion of literary quality, the biographies of this first volume are certainly superior to those of any literary work of the kind in English."—G. W. S., in New York Tribune.

"Open where we may, we meet with the perfection of scientific scholarship in this noble, this monumental work."—Mail and Express.
