

the abolition of the Court of Chancery, at the age of seventy one. His remains were taken to Amherst where they lie in the English Church yard, alongside of which twenty-eight years later were placed those of his well beloved wife.

In a kind and sympathetic letter to his only son, Lt. Colonel Charles J. Stewart, the late Mr. Justice Dodd conveyed to the family the feelings of the Judges and the Bar. As this address expresses in eloquent terms the opinion of those who were familiar with his public, and judicial career, and were best qualified to judge his merits it is given in full. Mr. Justice Dodd who was appointed to convey the address, and resolution says, "I may add that in the loss you have sustained I have been deprived of a dear, and valued friend, whose memory I will long respect and esteem." It is worthy of note that the Chief Justice Young, one of his bitter opponents, the Judge in Equity Johnston, his formidable rival, and the late Judge Henry, of the Supreme Court of Canada, then Attorney General, all took part in and endorsed the sentiments therein expressed.

All these former opponents in political life joined with his warm friends in placing on record the proudest eulogy of his character and learning which any man could desire.

"At a meeting of the members of the Bench, and Bar of Nova Scotia held at the Law Library in Halifax on the third day of January, A. D., 1865, on the occasion of the decease of the late Judge Stewart, C. B.

His Lordship the Chief Justice in the chair. The object of the meeting having been mentioned addresses eulogizing the character of the deceased having been delivered by the Honorable Judge Johnston, Bliss, and Dodd, Honorable Attorney General, the Prothonotary, and other members of the Bar, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted.

RESOLVED unanimously, that this meeting has with deep regret to record in its minutes the death of one of the oldest
