

66 OPPORTUNITIES IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

similar to the valleys east of Vancouver. The land has been carefully selected. The Inspectors' reports show that in a large portion soil is a rich volcanic ash. The greater part is timbered, generally in scattered clumps, easily cleared, in some parts running as high as 5,000 to 6,000 ft. to the acre, and practically every part has sufficient timber for building purposes. The land is eminently fitted for mixed farming and dairying, and is situated near the Coast, so that with railway connection it will have cheap and easy access to important markets. This part of the province is unsettled, so that nothing definite can as yet be said about fruit growing, except that settlers on land in this part of British Columbia no more advantageously situated, are successfully growing and marketing apples, potatoes and small fruits. The Syndicate proposes to offer land to first settlers at low prices, and to take them into partnership in a comprehensive scheme of colonization.
