

S E R M O N, &c.

ISAIAH, c. lx. v. 5.

The abundance of the Sea shall be converted unto Thee, the forces of the Gentiles shall come unto Thee.

THE encrease of the kingdom of Christ seemeth to have ever been in the divine purpose. No remoteness of place,—no diversities of manners,—no inequalities of natural or acquired endowment appear to furnish any exception to this great plan of Providence. Whatever difficulties may occur in the interpretation of many parts of the Prophetic writings, and whatever period, human