

Baseball Ty Cobb Writes On Rival Teams

Note and Comment

You remember Robert Ferguson, the heavyweight boxer. His boxer Bob Day a final in 1907, losing in the second round, and is now a budding farmer in the northwest. In a quaint letter, asking for information concerning the boxing tournament, he writes interestingly of agriculture and other matters as follows:

I am quite a farmer now, I have 12 acres of flax that will turn 20 bushels to the acre; seven of oats, which I sold in the field at $19 per acre; 1 1/2 acres of sugar corn selling at 90c a bushel. We had a fine summer, except that the late crop got the frost. I will clean up soon and be home for the winter.

There is a family of McKinnies here who can scrap some. They came from near Toronto and may be back in time for the tournament. They want to go and try their luck. Write and let me know the dates and we will all go together. We have the gloves, but lots of work and fresh air is the best training for three round bouts. We are having a time getting a threshing machine. They are all busy and we must wait for our corn.

I saw in a Lathbridge paper where Bob Day got his from Kid McCoy. I am getting 50 to 75 acres "broke" that cost $4 per acre. I have all my work done, having no horses. I have one black tom cat that came to me in the summer. He is a good faithful friend. He follows me like a dog, but won't go out at night, as he is afraid of the coyotes.

Robert Ferguson, Sarnia, Alberta.

Joe Wolcott former welterweight champion who was known as "The Giant Killer" in the days of the Horton law, came back to the ring after several years of illness in Boston Tuesday night. He met another colored boxer named Bob Lee and put him to sleep in two rounds with a left hook to the jaw. Wolcott looked well and declared that he intended to meet other second raters in due time. He needs the money.

Miss Campbell Plays Final To-day

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19.—Miss Dorothy Campbell of the Hamilton Golf Club, Ontario, defeated Mrs. Ronald H. Barlow of Merion, the best training for three round bouts. We are having a time getting a threshing machine. They are all busy and we must wait for our corn.

RAM HAS HELPED BOTH GIANTS AND ATHLETICS

Ty Cobb Says He Wouldn't Be Surprised If McGraw Made Some Changes.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 19.—This world's series of 1911 has seen more rain and postponed games than any in the past, and if there should, by any chance, such a thing happen as the New York Giants winning, McGraw's men will have the advantage and position to thank—of course, that is if they should happen to win.

The postponements have given the Giants a bulge, but not over the Athletics. The most important asset to McGraw is the fast Mathewson on the mound. He may be in shape to "come back," and the Giants will not have to put in any other pitchers as satisfactory than "Matty." The less experienced men would have pitched to-day and McGraw would probably have used some of them.

A very important advantage gained is that while the Giants were inactive they have had time to think over their strategy and probably see many mistakes which may be rectified during their two days' time for thought.

On the other hand, the Athletics have one point in their favor, and that is a very important one. They have been limbering up, and the pitchers especially have gained the needed advantage. For a bunch of ball players can remain two days in and around hotels and go out to play in this rain, the big advantage is with the Athletics.

Looks Like Marquard and Bender. I look for McGraw to pick Marquard to lead off against the Athletics in the fourth game, with the possibility of his choice being Ames. For the Athletics the chances are better than for some who are familiar with Manager Mack's tactics, it would not be a surprise to see Cooney wear Jack in the most wonderful shape.

There are two switches that might be made by McGraw in to-morrow's game. One is putting the hard-hitting Devin on third, with Herzog at short, and the other sending the big slugger to the outfield. This, I believe, would be his strongest card on the "dope" of the last three games played.

Both Ames and Willase are anxious to go in against the local team, but McGraw is a splint so far as allowing his pitching plans to become known.

For the Athletics a surprise was Davis, who during the greater part of the season did not play and it looked like a sure thing for McGraw in the series, and Davis had practised hardy and possibly being a little weightier. But he has delivered, both in fielding and hitting in grand style, and has been instrumental in getting his team in two of the three games.

Giants Fell Down at the Bat. The noticeable feature of the 1911 series has been the inability of the New York batsmen to meet any kind of a pitcher, which was indicated up so far. They have tackled three different styles in Bender, Plank and Coombs, and all three had them at their mercy.

Forgot to mention in the features of the series the throwing of the latter, which was phenomenal. As for the outcome of the series, I sincerely believe the Athletics will win, as before stated. The day hitting is much better and their fielding is more sure than that of the Giants, and with the New Yorkers not feeling fit to run bases on the Athletics, and the two games won by two of the Mack well-rested pitchers, would indicate that they have the best chance of repeating. Besides, having a rest of six full days, could be of help.

Now, with these facts in favor of the Athletics, and playing their next game on their home grounds, the Giants' pitchers seem to be their only chance. I mean the men that are liable to work in this series, and the fielding and batting prospects in the Athletics.

This proves, as far as forecast-letting the outcome goes, that the Athletics certainly are the big favorites.

The rain will also help the Athletics, as the Giants' base runners will be hindered from using their speed by the wet grounds, not as base

Rough Riders Have Dropped Martin Kilt From Wing Line

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—(Special).—There has been another great shake up in the Ottawa football team. Martin Kilt and Charles Loney have been dropped from the wing line and McCue from scrum.

Edwin Elliott moves to middle wing to take the place of Kilt, while Dinsay's position will be filled by McLoughlin, an intermediate. Art Black and Dunning go into the scrum.

The executive is still trying to get Jack Williams for Saturday's game and may land him at the last minute. Jack Ryan has recovered and will again figure at outside left. The Ottawa College team is in great fettle and will make a big effort Saturday to take a fall out of Toronto University. The clubs were unable to agree on the appropriate rests with the president of the Intercollegiate Union.

Matty Used To Many Curves. As observed by the writer during the hard game of Tuesday, coming so soon after the equally hard one of Saturday, Mathewson used so many curve balls, when the Giants could not get him a lead so he could ease up for a rest, instead, the Athletics were pounding the ball very hard and were right after him all the game.

Argonauts are practicing hard and faithfully for their game with the Rough Riders of Ottawa at Rosedale on Saturday. Preceding the senior game there will be an intermediate inter-divisional game between Captains and Argonauts II. The intermediate game will start at 1 o'clock.
