INAUGURAL DINNER MEDICAL STUDENTS

Boys of the College Have a Merry Old Time, But Not Boisterous.

The medical students held their inaugural dinner last evening at a downtown restaurant. There were nearly 100 students and graduates present, and the event was one of the most successful of its kind in the history of the college.

Prior to the banquet the students attended the performance at Bennett's Vaudeville Theater, where they spent a most enjoyable time. The theater was decorated throughout with the colors of the school, which were also worn by the different performers, some of whom worked off jokes at the expense of the medics.

After the performance they adjourned in a body to the restaurant, where a dainty banquet had been prepared for them. After doing justice to the spread, they participated in a programme of music and speeches. In past years it has been customary for the students to initiate the freshmen on the evening of their inaugural dinner. This year there was an initiation, but not of the strenuous sort of the good old days, when the "freshies" were put "over the jumps" in good style.

The following was the programme at the banquet: "The King," chairman, J. D. McKay; "The Profession," Drs. J. D. Campbell, J. J. Mason, D. Amott; violin solo, E. L. Jeffries; "The Graduates," G. C. Smith; solo, R. McLean; "The Ladies," A. R. McMillan; violin solo, Arthur Wood; "The Sophomores," N. George; "The Freshmen," Gordon.

The following freshmen were initiated: G. E. Butterwick, G. L. Jepson, W. H. McGuffin, W. M. Lancaster, A. E. Shore, W. H. Taylor, T. B. Ramsay, H. Robinson, E. Bolton, W. A. Burgess, F. H. Fetherston, T. R. Pickard, W. F. S. Macpherson, W. P. A. Manabe, W. P. O. King, Calvin McCullum, John McAlpine, Rufus Skinner, W. E. Johnston, Charles F. Riley, T. B. Brandon, J. C. Wilson, W. E. Fraser.

Among the second, third and fourth year students and guests present were: F. S. Macpherson, A. R. McMillan, A. L. Campbell, John E. Kidd, Robert C. Carroll, H. Roy Stanford, E. Brown, Paul Poisson, R. B. Shier, J. R. Gordon, L. A. Richmond, V. C. Francis, L. A. Douglas, James M. Taylor, A. T. Stockwell, Roy Childs, J. H. Birch, W. G. Hutchinson, H. C. L. Lindsay, G. O.
