WOMAN: As She Appears for the Public Eye in the News of the Day

Woman's Suffrage.

LONDON, July 2.—Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the novelist, in a letter to the Times recently, described the position of the women's suffrage movement in the United States, where, she said, despite the keen agitation, woman's position was less advanced than in England.

Mrs. Millicent Garrett Fawcett replies in a letter to the Times this morning admitting this fact, but contending that this was not due to the anti-suffragette movement, but to the corruption of American municipal and state politics and difficulties with the negro and alien problems which impeded Americans to do their utmost to keep their women out of politics.

A Stylish Blouse.

The simply modish shirt-waist here illustrated is an ideal one for general wear and suited to many fabrics. Three wide tucks are laid in each side of the front, attached to poke depth. The closing is in the back under a simulated box-pleat. The tab extending on the lower edge of the three-quarter sleeve is a pretty feature of the mode, that adds greatly to the style of the garment. Buttons form the only decoration. Linen, madras, plique, silk, mohair and pongee are suitable for reproduction. For 38 inches bust measure 2 3/4 yards of 36-inch material will be required. Ladies' Shirtwaist, No. 5871. Sizes for 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure.

MONARCHISTS INVOLVED IN REGICIDE AT LISBON

Chief of Progressive Dissidents Reveals Story of Crime—Assassins Lost Their Heads.

LISBON, July 2.—Dr. Jose Maria De Alpoim, chief of the progressive dissidents, smarting under the insinuations that he was implicated in the assassinations in Lisbon last February of King Carlos and Crown Prince Luis, created a sensation in the house of lords to-day by revealing what he declared to be the true story of this regicide plot.

He said that the assassinations had been decided upon at a meeting of the leaders of the Progressive and Regenerator party a few days before they were carried out. A number of Republicans also were present at this meeting. Dr. Alpoim charged further that the Republicans proposed to obliterate the entire royal family, with the exception of Maria Pia, the mother of King Carlos, but that the Monarchists insisted that such a general slaughter would be useless.

Finally Manuel Silva Bulesa and Alfredo Costa were given $20,000 and $10,000 respectively to kill King Carlos and Premier Franco. Arrangements were made by other men to cover the flight of the assassins, but when Bulesa and Costa fired their friends lost their heads and opened fire also.

These shots resulted in the death of Prince Luis.

FARE WAS PAID.

Two Witnesses Who Declare That Conductor Is in Error.

Mrs. Janet Baker, 92 Gould-street, who was accused by Inspector Nix of the Street Railway Company of not allaying her fare on a Church-street car, will press the matter.

In court Mrs. Baker explained that the transfer had been wrongly marked—something which has happened to others—and that during her explanation to the conductor afterwards a woman beside her paid the fare. The conductor swore that the fare had not been paid.

Mrs. Baker yesterday received a post card from the woman who had paid the fare, stating that there was also another witness to the affair.

Mrs. Baker has been a resident of Toronto for 26 years, and is well known and highly respected.

Something Different in Week Ends.

It seems reasonable to believe in the existence of a society for making people lazier, when one recalls how much bother it used to be to get ready to go a-fishing and how simple and easy it is nowadays. If one goes to Lake Temagami, that is, last Friday, for instance, a Toronto broker decided that the sun-scorched city didn't look good to him as a place to stay over Sunday. Ten minutes with the phone discovered two friends who held the same view. Then arose the question of outfitting, of overhauling the tackle, mending the line, getting a close, of assembling duffie scattered through three houses, and the prospective joys of the fishing-trip seemed to grow dimmer. The broker thought, in a flash, of some comments he had heard about Lake Temagami, and the splendid hotel service as soon as they got there. He seemed dubious, but his pals left that night on the 9 o'clock G.T.R. with no more left than pyjamas and a few toilet things. Long before bank hours next morning the three, their staid guides amiably regarding them, and their anglers with a splendid lake trout of which the smallest weighed 13 pounds. Their outfit had been provided for them down to the smallest detail at the hotel. Lake Temagami certainly has become a lure for people who hate to bother, but who love to catch game fish. The fish are there, bass, trout, pickerel, etc., less than twelve hours from the Union Station, and the best part of it is that one needn't bring an outfit unless one wants to. Any of the three hotels (Ronoco at Temagami Station, the Temagami Inn, half way up, and the Lady Evelyn, at the end of the lake, 38 miles away) are a positive delight to those who are tired of the indifferent service and lack of comfort of the ordinary summer resort hotels. The broker is going again to-night; he says he has found something different in week-ends.

CANADIAN HISTORY IN READABLE STYLE

"The Tercentenary History From Champlain to Laurier is Quite Interesting".

Tercentenary History of Canada. Special Review by Edward V. Thomson.

The "Tercentenary History of Canada from Champlain to Laurier," by Mr. Frank Basil Tracy of Boston, Mass., published by P. F. Collier & Son, Toronto and New York, possesses a merit rare in historical writing. It is an interesting, lively narrative.

This affect is produced partly by a vigorous, clear style, which evinces the ease and skill of an eminent journalist, much practiced in the popularization of material, and not afraid to employ colloquial forms in dealing with grave subjects. Mr. Tracy never writes as from stilts; never talks over the heads of the general audience, he has meant to entertain as well as to inform. But this manner of expressing himself would have availed little had it not been employed to set forth the view taken by an uncommonly sound, impartial, versatile, and widely experienced mind, concerning not merely the events of the past, but the present, and the future of the country.

It was in the Hall of Oratory, William and Mary College, 1776. Patrick Henry stood on the platform; eloquently, passionately, convincingly he spoke of human rights, constitutional guarantees, Personal Liberty.

A young student, tall and blonde, with eyes of blue and heart of fire, listened intently. Tossing aside cap and gown, he buckled on his sword, saying, "Words are good; deeds are better."

At Harlem, White Plains and Brandywine, he fought bravely; and on a bitter cold Christmas morning his blood splashed the frozen paving stones of old Trenton Town.

Step by step he rose to power; and today his name is inseparably associated with the most significant international Doctrine of modern times.

At three score and fourteen he died—a true Virginia gentleman—the descendant of an old family of Scottish Cavaliers—and at his hospitable home at Oak Hill, good ale was brewed and ever on his board.

causes of the cantakerousness of Washington at that time of the long the "old subjects". This can be inferred to-day by observation of the political inheritors of the notions of these English who, after the conquest, were heroes aided by the system which their race had developed, and heroes ruined by the system which their race had developed.
