VARSITY TAME THE WOLVES: HOLD SUDBURY TO A TIE

Students Checked Northern Team Into the Ground, But Failed to Win Thru Loose
Work Around the Net—
Theiling Rattle

Passes was loose and the shooting at the short range below the mark.
Sudbury got the only goal of the first period. Varsity had the Wolves snarling in their own corner for the biggest part of this period, but the fair goddess of luck was out having a bracer and the goals were just as cov.

The old dope pot got the dint that kicked it all out of shape last night. Sudbury Wolves, after licking their chops from the dainty Granite morsels, went into the Allan Cup semi-final last night lop-sided favorites, some of the something always went wrong and they were unable to pick it up. Sudbury checked and poked away, but still the students rushed up. It was 20 minutes of hot stuff and the crowd the season, were always better than the Wolves, and the only place they fell down was in scoring. Each club got two goals, but Varsity had dozens foolish even laying two to one that the sible for a team to be an on top of the goal with such regularity and fail to get the counters. On the play, Varsity should have had at least a three-goal margin to carry into the second goal margin to carry into the game on Wednesday night.

It was another case of too much ockey. Sudbury didn't have the dash of their former games, and they never stepped into checking like the students handed out last night. Varsity smothered their team play with the closest kind of checking, and carried a de-termined attack that worried the nor-

If Sudbury broke away, Ramsay, the Varsity defence man, was as big as a whole team. It was just about the best defensive article peddled this winter, and he was in front of the incoming forwards, shoving the puck away and breaking into a rush that carried him well in each time.

The whole student team were great. They went out with the idea to batter down their checks and they kept it going for the sixty minutes. Varsity always looked fresher than their opponents, and it was just the brand of hockey that will stop Sudbury every crack out of the box.

A Dizzy Pace. It was the pace that kills and Var-sity stood up under it with a determination that spells victory. Sudbury failed to work with some of the blue and white crowd taking a good realthy hand at it themselves. Varity refused to take a back seat at any phase of the great tussle, and the Poronto fans had the most glorious night of a rousing season.

The return game will be played of Wednesday night, and with the local Allan Cup hopes revived the teams start even and the wagering will be in about the same spot. Varsity deserved to win on the play last night. and will go into the next game with confidence that they can turn the trick. Surely it should be a great bat-

Ramsay was the outstanding Istar on the ice last night. He was the man behind the Varsity works His great blocking and checking broke up doz-Sudbury plays, and Ramsay was also to be reckoned with when it came to the attack. Carson took a lot of abuse all night, but bravely along with his checking and rushing tactics, and was very useful. Olson was a great five-minute man and put pep into the attack, while Wright terned in his best effort of the year and handled his check masterfully. Gouinlock was a busy boy. but had trouble in picking up the passes at close quarters. Sullivan passes at close quarters. Sullivan checked nicely, but also fell down inside. McIntyre was good on the defense and I ongtry never better

The Green brothers were closely watched at all times, and not nearly so effective as in former games. Shorty got hard and useful checking, and had to retire a couple of times. McKinnon found the close spoiled his stick-handling specialty, but was dangerous many times. Sud-bury forwards checked away in their old-time style, but Varsity broke fast and it was a tough job to hold them. Langlois poked the puck away many times with Varsity piling in and showed speed and good boring in tactics on the attack. Boucher worked like a beaver all thru, and Duncan, in the net, pulled off some hair-raising Club old players and members are re-

A grand and glorious chance went a a-glimmering just after the second set to opened. Two Varsity men were at the net mouth, the two Sudbury defence were lying on the ice after a sandwich failed and Wright was sailing behind the net with the puck. orew Langtry out and netted it.

Olson brought the fans up roaring by taking a pass from Carson and closing fast to score. Two minutes later with the Varsity team cut down to four man thru panalities. to four men thru penalties, Olson broke the rules by going with Ramsay and leaving only one man back. Ramsay slipped it over and in raced Olson to score the tieing and last goal of the game.

The third was desperate hockey with no scoring. Sudbury tried their best to get another, but the Varsity checking barrage was still being put over and the attack wilted away under it. End to end rushes featured. The weak-hearted ones expected sudden-death at every minute. Shorty Green opened up rush after rush but two Varsity. up rush after rush, but two Varsity men trailed him and poked away until the danger was over. It was a fitting climax to a great game and sent the fans home vowing to get into the rink Wednesday if they had to tear the bricks out of the side wall to make it

In the special class Rosenfeld won from Goad after three very fast rounds. The flyweight final, which was won by McLaren, furnished a very good exhibition of scientific boxing.

Hewitt and Curbelo, who met in the bantam final, provided a great contest. An extra round was necessary before Hewitt was declared the winner.

The featherweight final fought by Smith and Wilson resulted in a victory for Wilson, who used a straight left with very telling effect.

The bout between Drynan and Slaght in the lightweight final brought forth some scientific boxing, Drynan being awarded the decision after three close rounds.

The middleweight final brought together Huckvale and Lamport. The former gained the decision after four rounds of fast, hard boxing. The winner used a straight left repeatedly and finished very strong.
