COOMBS, A FIND.

The Boston Journal says—Probably the greatest pitching find of the 1906 baseball season is John W. Coombs, of Combie Mack's string, who was secured by that famous manager without cost.

Coombs was captain of his college team last year, and pitched fine ball. His batting was also a big factor in his team's success.

Coombs is ideally built for a pitcher, standing six feet tall and weighing all of 185 pounds.

This season he has pitched in six games for the Athletics and has won four out of six.

He pitched his first major league game against Washington in Philadelphia on July 5, allowing only two hits.

He pitched his second game against the Athletics on July 7, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his third game against the Athletics on July 9, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his fourth game against the Athletics on July 11, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his fifth game against the Athletics on July 13, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his sixth game against the Athletics on July 15, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his seventh game against the Athletics on July 17, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his eighth game against the Athletics on July 19, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his ninth game against the Athletics on July 21, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his tenth game against the Athletics on July 23, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his eleventh game against the Athletics on July 25, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his twelfth game against the Athletics on July 27, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his thirteenth game against the Athletics on July 29, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his fourteenth game against the Athletics on July 31, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his fifteenth game against the Athletics on August 2, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his sixteenth game against the Athletics on August 4, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his seventeenth game against the Athletics on August 6, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his eighteenth game against the Athletics on August 8, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his nineteenth game against the Athletics on August 10, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his twentieth game against the Athletics on August 12, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his twenty-first game against the Athletics on August 14, allowing only one hit.

He pitched his twenty-second game against the Athletics on August 16, allowing only one hit.

A SEVEN MILES' SWIM

An Englishman Wins the Great Race on the Seine.

(St. James Gazette.)

Jarvis won the swimming race through Paris with great ease. Out of the seven starters he was the only Englishman, and finished 10 minutes ahead of everybody. The course, which follows the winding of the Seine through Paris from the Pont National to Auteuil, is nearly seven miles long, and Jarvis covered the distance in 34 minutes less time than Douglass, the Frenchman, who beat Billington on the same course a few weeks ago by one minute. On that occasion, however, the competitors started in boats, and swam against the clock. There was no racing, strictly speaking, because the men behind had no means of knowing how fast the competitors started together, and there was a race in which the fastest and most enduring swimmer won. Jarvis led from the start, and finished quite fresh. He was given a splendid reception by a very large crowd, Ooms, a Dutchman, was second, and Maas, a Belgian, third. Jarvis, a beating, Swiss girl, swam against, finally, beating Miss Kellerman's record for the distance by 24 minutes.

ATHLETIC

MANY INDIAN ATHLETES.

It was only a few years ago that the American Indian was unknown in an athletic way. An Indian trying to do anything as well as a white man in the line of sport was regarded as a novelty worth seeing. Nowadays it is different. We have our Indian athletes here in all parts of the country. Several real wonders have turned up in various branches of sport, and the success of the red man can be laid to the door of the Carlisle, Pa., Indian

Training School, which annually sponsors a football team that compares favorably with the best in the country.

Cincinnati team sign. Frank J. ... the sun field at League Park there has been much attention given to the subject of Indian athletes in this city. Jude has made a big hit with the ball cranks and is showing up as good as any of the other two Indians now in professional baseball. Besides Jude there is

Charley Bender, the crack pitcher of the Philadelphia American League team, and Charles Roy, another twirler, with Hugh Duffy's Philadelphia Nationals—Boston American.

THE TURF

Lost Valuable Horse.

Stellarton, N. S., Aug. 16.—James D. Keith had a black Standardbred named

Blackie, which had the misfortune of being one of his legs while he was in the free-for-all race at the exhibition in Halifax. Poughkeepsie Race.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Aug. 15.—The drivers, George, the grand event of the season, continued to draw large crowds on the third day of the Poughkeepsie meeting. Geens won the 218 pace with Ardele and the latter was the favorite in the first heat until the last eighth, when Geens made one of his famous starts and took the lead on an exciting finish with

HOUSEHOLD RECIPES

This is the time of year when the family that enjoys desserts can have them served to their heart's content, for the bracing air counteracts any after effects which in less invigorating weather are apt to wait on nervous digestions. It is a splendid opportunity, too, for the housewife to offer a variety of hot desserts which top off a Winter's dinner so satisfactorily and for which the following are reliable and appetizing recipes:

New England Pudding—Mix together one cupful of pastry flour and one heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and sift them twice. Now cream together one-half cup of milk and one tablespoonful of butter and when they are smooth add one egg. Thin this mixture with one-half cup of milk and season with one saltspoonful of salt. Make a cake batter by adding the flour and baking powder and turn into a rather deep oblong tin. Bake in a moderate oven for twenty-five minutes and serve hot with the following sauce:

Lemon Sauce—Mix one tablespoonful of cornstarch in a little cold water and stir into two cups of boiling water. To this add three-quarters of a cup of sugar and stir until the mixture is smooth. It becomes clear. Next put in one teaspoonful of butter and one teaspoonful of lemon juice and push the modern one ready for use. This sauce should be served hot, and if it becomes too thick, dilute it with a small quantity of boiling water.

Apple Cornstarch—Pare and core half a dozen apples and boil until tender in one quart of water and strain a cupful of the juice into this the juice of half a lemon. Before the apples lose their shape, but with care that they are cooled through, lift them from the juice and when they are boiled and place on the dish on which they are to be served. Boil down the syrup which is left to half its original quantity and mix with one teaspoonful of cornstarch moistened in a little cold water. Allow this to cook until clear and after removing from the fire add one teaspoonful of almond flavoring and pour over the apples. Sprinkle this with sugar and brown in the oven for a few minutes. The apples should be a sufficient quantity of good clean figs to make half a cupful and mix together thoroughly with half a cup of flour and half a cup of chopped crumbs to make in one cup of milk
