

TELEGRAPHIC.

Boston, Sept. 19.
Sir Frederick Bruce, British Minister, died of apoplexy this morning about two o'clock, at Tremont House in this city. He arrived last evening about 9 o'clock and was taken suddenly ill.

As a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased all the United States Offices and Public Buildings are closed, and flags lowered to half mast, by order of the Mayor.

Quebec, C. E., 20th.
The troop ship "Himalaya" which sailed on the 4th with the 69th rifles on board is reported detained at Quanaque Islands from the prevalence of Asiatic cholera.

Toronto, 20th.
Dr. Blackburn, of Yellow Fever, not only left Canada for New Orleans yesterday, having obtained permission to return under the late amnesty proclamation.

London, Sept. 20.
Capt. Osborne, one of the Fenian prisoners, made his escape from the jail in Chelmsford last night. He was not recaptured at noon to-day, though the jail guards started immediately in pursuit. The police are searching for him in every part of the surrounding country, where it is supposed he is concealed.
Gold—142 1/2.

Montreal, Sept. 20.
Union Candidates are elected in West York North Middlesex, and Bothwell.

Elections are almost over; only four (4) more on list, which government candidates will carry.

Great topic of discussion all through Quebec and Ontario is the Anas of Nova Scotia will follow. Some hold that they will refuse to take part in the d-liberations of Parliament but the prevailing opinion seems to be that they will attend and take their seats.

Flour markets very quiet, buyers holding off. Superfine $7.25 a $7.30; Strong $7.40 a $7.75.

Washington, 19.
Mr. Howard of the British Legation proceeded to Boston this morning on reception of the news of the death of Sir Frederick Bruce. The Government and the British Legation communicated the intelligence to London. Arrangements for interment are deferred waiting instructions from London. Orders have been issued to pay all proper honor to the remains of the deceased at Boston. The flag of the State Dept is half-mast. The death of Sir Frederick Bruce in view of the present relations with Great Britain is looked upon as a serious calamity.

Quebec, Sept. 21.
The Mercury, Ministerial organ, this evening says:—It is expected that at the meeting of the Privy Council, which will be held at Ottawa on Tuesday, when Lord Monck and all the members will be in attendance, departmental arrangements of the Dominion will be completed, and the time fixed for convoking the Parliament of Canada. It is thought the session will commence on 24th October, the anniversary of the first British Parliament, and that it will last a month, when after organization, appointment of committees, and passage of supplies, adjournment will take place till after Christmas holidays.

During the recess of Parliament the Local Legislatures will meet probably at the end of November.

Manchester, 20th.
No market report of day yet received.

Everything is quiet.
The rioters appear to be satisfied with their success and there has been no more disturbances. No traces of the rescued prisoners Kelley and Deasy have not been discovered, and it is thought they have by this time succeeded in making their escape from the city.

The name of the policeman killed by the mob was Pratt.

London, 20th.
A despatch from Bradford reports that Kelley and Deasy were seen in that city this afternoon, but the police thought immediately on the alert, failed to arrest them, and they have again disappeared.

New York, Sept. 21.

Gold 143.

London, Sept. 22.
A despatch from Rome states that the Pope has publicly denounced sale of church lands in Italy, and declared the decree of the Italian Government to that effect to be null and void.

Corn 41s 6d. U. S. 5-20s 73 1/2.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.
The official Gazette to-day contains an order proroguing the Parliament of the Dominion until the 2nd of November. The Parliament of the Province of Quebec is prorogued until the 4th of November.

New York, Sept. 23.

Gold 143 1/2.

A special from the City of Mexico, Sept. 7, states that the remains of Maximilian had arrived there from Queretaro, and there was every probability that they would be delivered to Admiral Tegethoff.

Marquez was endeavouring to escape to the coast. The palace will be illuminated on the 16th, and the day generally celebrated.

$2,500,000 are on their way to Vera-Cruz. All contents are destined to public use.

Manchester, Sept. 23.
The funeral of policeman Pratt, who was killed by the mob on Friday, took place to-day and was largely attended by citizens.

Arrests continue of parties implicated in the riot.

Florence, Sept. 23.

Garribaldi has made his appearance at Arrezzo, forty miles from this city.

London, Sept. 23.

Later advices from Rio Janeiro state that the allied forces have made no further advances since their recent success, and that they were lying idle before the Paraguayans fortifications at Humaya.

Gen. Matre is in command of the Brazilian and Argentine armies.

Toronto, Sept. 23.
The reports prejudicial to the credit of the Commercial Bank are entirely unfounded; its notes are taken at all the banks at par.

Will persons indebted to this Office, have the kindness to liquidate their accounts. Some of them must imagine that printing material and labor costs nothing, and editors and printers live on the breeze—but it is a grand mistake. We have waited patiently for a long time, and should this reminder not have the desired effect, we will shortly try something more effectual.

The Standard.

ST. ANDREWS, SEP. 25, 1867.

Canvassing is being briskly carried on by those gentlemen who are offering for the seats in the local Legislature, recently vacated by Judges Stevens and Chandler. That each Candidate has his personal friends cannot be denied; and indeed the ballot box, which will decide the fate of the aspirants for Legislative honors, will prove the truth of this statement. One of the candidates, Mr. Stevenson, says in his Card, that there is—"No political question at issue in this Election."—it will consequently be a choice of men, and the Electors in their preferences, we trust, will select those who will discharge the responsible duties of Representatives for the benefit of their constituency.

We have always been of the opinion, that the less promises made, the better for both people and representatives, simply because no man however talented or faithful to his duties, can accomplish all he promises; true, he may be sincere, but unless he can by argument and facts convince the members, he is as liable to be defeated as he is to succeed. At the present juncture able men are required—men who will fearlessly and independently perform their duty—men who go to the Legislature to advance the interests and develop the resources of the Province, and not for personal aggrandizement. The electors should remember that the law and record, recognizes no section or locality, but a constituency, usage however, and custom has given some localities certain privileges; fair as this may appear to be, it has led us to say to local jealousies and sectional animosities, it should not be, but we regret to say it is so, and we trust the day is not distant when the interests of localities and Counties may be one. There is a scriptural illustration which aptly demonstrates the dependence of the parts, and which may be read with profit by those who from interested motives would create jealousy.

Quebec, Sept. 21.
The Mercury, Ministerial organ, this evening says:—It is expected that at the meeting of the Privy Council, which will be held at Ottawa on Tuesday, when Lord Monck and all the members will be in attendance, departmental arrangements of the Dominion will be completed, and the time fixed for convoking the Parliament of Canada. It is thought the session will commence on 24th October, the anniversary of the first British Parliament, and that it will last a month, when after organization, appointment of committees, and passage of supplies, adjournment will take place till after Christmas holidays.

During the recess of Parliament the Local Legislatures will meet probably at the end of November.

Manchester, 20th.

No market report of day yet received.

Everything is quiet.
The rioters appear to be satisfied with their success and there has been no more disturbances. No traces of the rescued prisoners Kelley and Deasy have not been discovered, and it is thought they have by this time succeeded in making their escape from the city.

The name of the policeman killed by the mob was Pratt.

London, 20th.
A despatch from Bradford reports that Kelley and Deasy were seen in that city this afternoon, but the police thought immediately on the alert, failed to arrest them, and they have again disappeared.

New York, Sept. 21.

Gold 143.

London, Sept. 22.
A despatch from Rome states that the Pope has publicly denounced sale of church lands in Italy, and declared the decree of the Italian Government to that effect to be null and void.

Corn 41s 6d. U. S. 5-20s 73 1/2.

Ottawa, Sept. 21.
The official Gazette to-day contains an order proroguing the Parliament of the Dominion until the 2nd of November. The Parliament of the Province of Quebec is prorogued until the 4th of November.

New York, Sept. 23.

Gold 143 1/2.

A special from the City of Mexico, Sept. 7, states that the remains of Maximilian had arrived there from Queretaro, and there was every probability that they would be delivered to Admiral Tegethoff.

Marquez was endeavouring to escape to the coast. The palace will be illuminated on the 16th, and the day generally celebrated.

$2,500,000 are on their way to Vera-Cruz. All contents are destined to public use.

Manchester, Sept. 23.
The funeral of policeman Pratt, who was killed by the mob on Friday, took place to-day and was largely attended by citizens.

Arrests continue of parties implicated in the riot.

Florence, Sept. 23.

Garribaldi has made his appearance at Arrezzo, forty miles from this city.

London, Sept. 23.

Later advices from Rio Janeiro state that the allied forces have made no further advances since their recent success, and that they were lying idle before the Paraguayans fortifications at Humaya.

Gen. Matre is in command of the Brazilian and Argentine armies.

Toronto, Sept. 23.
The reports prejudicial to the credit of the Commercial Bank are entirely unfounded; its notes are taken at all the banks at par.

Will persons indebted to this Office, have the kindness to liquidate their accounts. Some of them must imagine that printing material and labor costs nothing, and editors and printers live on the breeze—but it is a grand mistake. We have waited patiently for a long time, and should this reminder not have the desired effect, we will shortly try something more effectual.

The returns from Gloucester shew, that Mr. Anglin was elected by a majority of 400 over Mr. Meahan. The vote stood Anglin 1014, Meahan 614.

The Hon. A. R. Wetmore, was sworn in Attorney General on Saturday last. The writs for re-election were issued on Monday. He will be opposed by Geo. Symonds, Esq., who is a Confederate.

The death, in England, whither he had gone for the benefit of his health, of the Rev. Edward Medley of St. Stephen, is, we regret to say, announced; a lengthy obituary of the deceased gentleman is given in the St. Stephen "Courier." He was the youngest son of the Bishop of Fredericton, and was a pious and zealous pastor.

The weather since Monday morning has been cold and blustery. There was frost on Monday night which injured the vines in several gardens.

Our thanks are due Mr. Alexander, of the Eastern Express for late Boston papers.

Mr. J. R. Hartley, of Woodstock, was elected for the local Legislature by a majority of 500 over Mr. Leary.

MR. SMART FOR THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE.—We understand that N. Smart, Esq., of Oak Bay, is a candidate for one of Charlotte's vacant seats in the Local Legislature. Mr. Smart is known to the public as an energetic, pushing, business man. He was the contractor of the St. Stephen Branch Railway, a work into which he threw his whole energies and completed within the date named in the contract—a feat which comparatively few Railway men succeed in accomplishing. Mr. Smart has in him the elements of a useful legislator.—[Telegraph.]

ARREST OF BURGLARS.—Three persons have just been arrested at Portland, charged with burglary in Westbrook, Lewiston, Auburn, Augusta, Bath, Bangor and other places in Maine, and even in Massachusetts. The Portland Press contains a description of three of the robbers arrested, and of their modes of operation. The Press says of the parties:—On Saturday, Sept. 7th, he arrested a man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who had been educated to the housebreaking business in New York and who came to this city last winter, he has ostensibly been carrying on the business of painting, paper hanging and glazing. This business gave him opportunities to inspect the interior of houses where he was engaged, and to lay his plans for a robbery. One of his confederates, a young man about 18 years old, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Wentworth shortly after the arrest of White. The third and last member of the gang a young man named John White, about 35 years old, a native of St. John, N. B., who