SECOND DAY'S RACING. Great Improvement Over Friday's-Fannie Putnam in the Trot.

Another large crowd witnessed the driving park on Saturday ifternoon. These were a great improve ment on those of the previous day's, although it was generally regretted that the trotting and pacing event for gentlemen's driving horses could not be completed owing to darkness. The judges awarded the race to Holly Bird, owned by H. G. Wilson, who had won the greatest number of heats. The programme for the second day's races was all that could be desired. The entries, description, colors, and owners were plainly noted and the spectators were enabled to follow their various courses, without confusion.

There were, he said, some nice peas shown by H. A. King, of Cedar Hill, who captured first prize. In autumn wheat A. H. dustrial event was terminated on Saturday night about 10 o'clock amid the strains of 'Home, Sweet Home," by the Fifth Regiment band in the main building. It had lived a life brief but full of asefulness, and is bound to produce the most beneficial results commercially and educationally.

From the commencement a very high standard was set which the management were compelled to sustain to the very end. Royalty presided at the opening and gave the event an impetus which sent it whirling along the course of time to the last post. Their Royal Highnesses by their august presence crowned with distinction the result of tireless efforts and much self-sacrifice, gave to its very first day all the glow of a pageant, and made it stand out in industrial enterprise the most distinguished of all.

At times there may have been confusion; there were circumstances which the management now see might have been avoided; some of the arrangements were not as satisfactory as desired, but the directors themselves are the most unsparing in their criticism, and they promise that the next exhibition, which will be next year, shall be happily free of all such defects.

She broke not far from the judges' stand on her second round, however, and jerossed the wire in the air. Meteor trotted very gamely and came in strongly. The time in the three heats was 2:40, 2:42 and 2:34.

The next race, running mile dash, brought out three entries, J. J. Bott-ger's Duty Free, with Rainey up; W. Marshall's Barnadillo, ridden by Thad Williams, and J. Cain's Dr. Marks, with J. Millington in the saddle. The start was a good one, Dr. Marks, with J. Millington in the second round. The finish was the position throughout the race, pressed by Barnadillo. "I will give you the full particulars to the best of my ability. I have no connection whatever with the Sunrise people, but own property on Willow creek, which is entirely dependent upon the company for the supply of water for the working of my claims. In 1899 leases of water rights were quoted to Ruffner and Griffths, and were transfered afterwards to Mr. Blink, a comfrom and Griffths, and were transfered afterwards to Mr. Blink, a company being formed, known as the Sunrise Company. The company spent $150,000 in construction, but operated a short time only. The indiners were more than pleased when they heard the price for water was decided upon, but were afterwards cruelly disappointed. It appears Mr. Ruffner, who was in charge of the works, was approached by the Willow works, was approached by the Willow Creek Company with a proposition which was indignantly refused by Mr. Ruffner.
