WALLACE OF SUSSEX WON INTERMEDIATE THREE MILES; A. D. SMITH WON FIVE MILES

In spite of the disagreeable weather of the evening the Every Day Club ran off its handicap track meet. The large list of entries did not produce as many competitors as had been expected, and the result was that the broad jump had to be cut out of the programme, and in the high jump there were only two competitors.

The Moncton athletes, with the exception of Lea, did not turn up, and Watling was the only Chatham runner in the meet. The attendance of spectators was fairly large.

The five-mile run was the last event on the card, and was also the most interesting of the evening. A. D. Smith was the winner with Stubbs second and King third. The race was Smith's from the start. Stubbs was the favorite of the crowd, but was unable to cut down Smith's big lead, although he tried hard. The time 28:07 4-5.

Three-mile intermediate. The three-mile race for intermediates also proved a most interesting event. The honors went to outsiders, Wallace, of Sussex, being first and Frederickson, third. Wallace, of the Brock & Paterson Association, was second. Time, 16:58 3-5.

Other Events. As usual Covey had his own way in the sprints, while "Jerry" Stubbs captured the half mile in 2:11 4-5, and Lea, of Moncton, won the high jump at 5 feet.

SCHOONER C. B. WOOD A TOTAL WRECK ON PARTRIDGE ISLAND

The three-masted schooner C. B. Wood, while feeling her way into the harbor early yesterday morning in the dense fog, ran aground off the Marconi station on Partridge Island, and is a total wreck.

The tide was high at the time of the disaster, and it was impossible to see more than one half of a cable's length ahead. Captain Mitchell, with his crew, which comprised six men, all in their power to avert the accident. The vessel had approached too near the rocks, and the heavy swell running, with so little wind, rendered the schooner practically helpless.

She struck hard, and when the tide went out and left her she fell over on her side on the sharp rocks.

The C. B. Wood is owned by Stetson, Cutler & Co. of Boston, and was on her way here in ballast to load for that firm.

A. W. Adams, her consignee here, as soon as the news of her disaster had reached the city, sent the tug boat Help to her assistance. But the tug found her hard and fast on the rocks, and all the efforts to haul her off proved fruitless.

When the tide came in last night the vessel filled with water, and although tug boats had been held in readiness to make an attempt to haul her off, the idea was abandoned. It was decided that the condition of the schooner's bottom made it impossible to free her.

The captain and crew had no difficulty in reaching the shore, which they did in one of the schooner's boats. Had they waited a little later they might have walked ashore when the tide went out.

The C. B. Wood is insured. She is 237 gross tonnage. She was built at Dennisville, N. J., in 1867, and named after her owner C. B. Wood. Her dimensions were 110 feet six inches length; 29 feet 6 inches beam and 9 feet 2 inches draft when loaded.
