Famous Boxer
Publishes BookGeorges Carpentier, Champion
Heavyweight Boxer of Europe, Tells His Own Story.

By London Daily Mail: Cross-Atlantic Service. Copyright, 1920.

London, October 22.—Georges Carpentier, champion heavyweight boxer of Europe, idol of sporting France, and favorite everywhere, has written a rousing good book, "My Fighting Life," and dedicated it to "all British sportsmen." And while he has told much that will be eagerly absorbed by followers of his art, he has told it in a manner that will entertain and charm all sorts of readers.

Earning a Franc a Day.

When "scarcely more than a baby" earning a franc a day as a bicycle messenger in his native town of Lens, he entered a travelling boxing booth and put on the gloves for the first time. And that was against an Englishman. Carpentier decided to go into the business. He was a scrapper and a fighter. All his passion was for boxing, and then he discovered in a street of Lens the academy of one "Professor Descamps, teacher of la boxe Anglaise."

New, the horror of his mother notwithstanding, Georges made a start. He "ate his boxing lessons greedily" and fostered his love of gymnastics at the same time under Descamps' care.

Hypnotic Touch.

Here he has something to say about the "hypnotic touch."

"We have all talked about the 'hypnotic touch,' the 'Indian sign' at some time or another, but what we strictly mean is personality. Well, is without what I call personality—the man-in-the-street will have as the 'Indian sign' or what one English critic suggested I possessed—the power to hypnotize. If we were to characterize the 'Indian sign,' the 'hypnotic touch,' and treat with and study psychology, the public who are bitten with the ring would come to have a better and deeper appreciation of the importance of these differences in fighters which are psychological and not merely physical."

Of his attitude towards the "unimagined" Beckett, he says:

"From the first time I saw Beckett, I wondered whether I would cause him to think I had the more towering personality. During my training at Stannemore and on the occasions when I went to the Holborn Stadium to see the weekly boxing shows, there I thought I detected a change in his demeanor. He needed no more confidence in himself, but the more polite I sought to be the more uncomfortable he felt. He became, but he wanted to get away from me."

"Gradually I forced whatever personality I had on him until he became irritable. The same with Mr. Bernard Morin, a Frenchman, and one of my friends to go to Southampton and say to him, 'Have you seen Carpentier at work yet?' The reply was, 'No. We are not troubling about him and Joe does not want to see him until he gets into the ring.'"

"Little feelings of this kind were most helpful to me, and I so got on to the mind of Beckett as to become an obsession. I neither employed the 'Indian sign' nor the 'hypnotic touch.'"

Eastern College
Football Contests

New York, Oct. 22.—Tomorrow's eastern college football contests include several second in interest only to the great games of late November. One of these will be the clash between Princeton and the Naval Academy, the first of the so-called "big games" of the year. Princeton tonight is the favorite, the navy having sustained one defeat this year, while the Tigers have been uniformly victorious.

At Cambridge the centre college eleven of Kentucky will try conclusions with Harvard. This event is being watched with great interest, the small Southern college having attained a remarkable reputation for the defense during the past two seasons. Harvard has not been scored on this year.

Other games are: West Virginia at Yale, Georgia Tech at Pittsburgh, Colgate at Cornell, Syracuse at Dartmouth, Tufts at West Point, Springfield at Brown, Wesleyan at Columbia, Union at Amherst, New Hampshire State at Connecticut State, Bates at Maine, Franklin and Marshall at Rochester, Mass. Aggies at Vermont, Swarthmore at Johns Hopkins.

CRICKETERS ARRIVE
AT FREEMANTLE

London, Oct. 22.—The members of the Marylebone cricket club team, which is to tour Australia, landed at Freemantle, West Australia, today, but will be kept in quarantine until Tuesday next.

The ship on which the team travelled, the Orestes, a case of typhus on board, was held in quarantine yesterday if the team would be allowed to land at all until the consequent quarantine delay had expired.

Man o' War Will Never Race AgainGreat Son of Fair Play Will be Retired to the Stud, Says Owner.

By WILLIAM H. ROOP, Sports Editor Public Ledger.

"You can tell the world that Man O'War will never race again. I am going to retire him to the stud. He will be my gift to the American turf," thus spoke Samuel D. Riddle yesterday afternoon standing under the shadow of the great Fair Play colt's stall at the Rose Tree track. "Trainer Louis Fustel was at his elbow. The decision was made after a long consultation with the faithful trainer. It came like a thunderclap out of a blue sky. There have been insistent rumors that Man O'War would be shipped to Europe and compete for the Astor Cup at its next running. There was another that the stout-hearted champion of the turf was being groomed for a race with Exterminator."

Again it was published that the colt would go to California and run a special race on Thanksgiving Day.

The climax came when it was reported that a syndicate of British turfmen were determined to get Man O'War at any price to grace an English stud. In order to set the public straight the writer asked Mr. Riddle the question in the presence of his trainer.

It was in reality a sad moment for both. Mr. Riddle loves his horse and also racing. Like all men, he likes to win. He was loath to make the decision, "but it had to be made," said Mr. Riddle. "I would never forgive myself were Man O'War to continue racing and meet with some mishap that would impair his value for breeding. The colt has done all that has been asked for him. He has gone down the line, and I feel that he has convinced the public and racegoers that he is the unquestioned champion of his class. What he could do if given his head no one but Trainer Fustel and I know. He and the colt have been chums. Man O'War has never been extended to his limit and he is being retired from racing possessing all the vigor, strength and stamina of a well and thoroughly trained colt."

Trainer Fustel, as stout-hearted as the colt which he has sent to the winning post so often in such superb condition, listened to the message from Mr. Riddle's lips. He could scarcely speak. His throat seemed to choke up. You know Man O'War and you have been made his daily companion. He was like a kid, but so sensible, what! He seemed to divine what was in the air, to do, and so well mannered, too. It will be a long day until you see his equal."

True Bills In The
Baseball ScandalFinding of Grand Jury Against Chase, Attell and Burns—
Chicago Players Indicted.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The Cook County grand jury investigating the baseball scandal today voted true bills against Chase, Burns and Attell, former major league players, expelled for alleged gambling; Abe Attell, former featherweight boxing champion, who is now in Montreal, and Bill Burns, ex-big league pitcher.

Players indicted.

The jury also again voted indictments against the eight Chicago American League players accused of throwing games in the 1919 world's series. This was done to overcome legal technicalities believed to have been located in voting the indictments previously. Announcement of the jury action was made by the state attorney's office.

The names of Chase, Burns and Attell have been frequently mentioned in connection with the investigation. Attell and Burns were said to have been mentioned by witnesses as some of the "fixers" of the series. An official of the state attorney's office said that the indictments were voted after testimony had been given to the jury that Chase was the "real fixer" of the 1919 world-series Chase was said to have approached Attell, asking him if he could place $100,000 in bets, and also if he could raise money for the scheme. Attell is said to have approached a New York gambler whose name has been given to a state official.

"Sport" Sullivan Mentioned.

The name of "Sport" Sullivan of Boston also was mentioned by witnesses who told of Chase's activities in connection with the series, times, the state official said. Sullivan was approached by Chase and his clique for financial support, he said. Claude Williams, White Sox pitcher, in his confession of accepting a bribe to throw games said he and other White Sox players were approached by men named "Sullivan and Brown," and the jury voted indictments against these men, although it could not identify them further.

Baseball Pools.

Grand jury investigation of baseball state officials will take a new turn today when the Cook County jurors begin an inquiry into baseball pools.

Several men, including Roy Clossman, a street car employee, have been called to tell about them. Clossman is reported to have won the ten thousand dollar prize in a baseball pool, but asserts that the pool operators refused to pay him and proposed he compromise his claim for five hundred dollars.

The state attorney's office announced that investigation of one pool has disclosed that 134,500 combinations were sold during the past season for one dollar each. Only $25,500 in prizes was paid, and all other expenses were met by the gamblers had a profit of $104,000.

Local Bred Dog
American Winner

Some dog gossip is always good reading to the fanciers, and they hear of the local lovers when they hear of what is happening among the favorites bred in the city.

Queensbury Revival, owned by W. L. Kendrick, of Wynnewood, Pa., won the prize for best specimen at the Toga Kennel Club show in Philadelphia, recently. This English bull terrier was local bred and was by International Champion Allie Alive, ex-Roseland Baby Doll and was sold to Mr. Kendrick about a year ago by R. L. Daniels, of this city.

Another litter of bull terriers by the sensational champion Haymarket Faultless ex-Roseland Nellie, a little sister of Revival is at present at the kennels of W. J. Hanlon, Fairville.

Thomas Kilfin, a prominent local fancier, has sold his black cocker spaniel "Flash" to Thomas Wase, of Lebanon, Pa., at a price that ranges into three figures. "Flash" is a daughter of champion Drumclough Baronet and was the cup for the best solid color cocker at the recent show of the New Brunswick Kennel Club.

Bliss Smith is mourning the loss of a cocker spaniel puppy who was a particularly promising specimen pup. The marks are white with lemon markings and can be identified by a growth on one eye. Mr. Smith's friends are hoping that he will be able to recover the dog, as it is a pup with excellent prospects. The pup strayed away and it is thought that someone picked him up and is awaiting information as to the dog can be returned to the rightful owner.

Sweeps, Ramblers, Thistles, Cubs and Nationals.

Many of the leading bowlers have joined the various teams and as they are all evenly matched many interesting games are assured. Arrangements have been made for the schedule to start on November second and the teams will roll on every Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Schooner Race
Grows InterestingGloucester Vessel Getting Into Shape—Lunenburg Skippers to Sail on Delawanna.

Boston, Oct. 22.—Premier Murray, of Nova Scotia, today acknowledged the telegram yesterday of Acting Governor Cox, endorsing the international fishermen's race to be held off Halifax next week. The premier reciprocated the wish that the contest would prove another link of friendship between Nova Scotia and Massachusetts.

The Esperanto, which will represent the fishing schooners of Gloucester, was in the hands of a swarm of riggers, caulkers, painters, carpenters and sail makers today rushing details of overhauling so that she may be ready for a test run in Massachusetts Bay Sunday.

Lunenburg Skippers

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 22.—All the skippers in Lunenburg are anxious to sail on the Delawanna of that port when she meets the Gloucester schooner Esperanto off Halifax harbor in a series of races commencing October 30 for the speed supremacy of the two fishing fleets. As there are more than one hundred skippers in Lunenburg, the owner and captain of the Delawanna have a difficult task in selecting the crew and are not yet ready to announce their choice.

The Delawanna

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 22.—The schooner Delawanna, Nova Scotia's representative in the big international schooner race, on October 30, will be ready for sea on Wednesday and will likely sail for Halifax on Thursday. Her officers and crew have been made up and will consist of the following:

Captain—Captain Tom Hummelman; Mate, Captain Roger Conrod; crew, Captain Albert Hummelman, Captain Angus Walters, Captain Albert Selig, Captain B. G. Smith, Captain Foreman Mosman, Captain Benj. Cook, Captain Newlan Bachman, Captain Collins Gerhardt, Captain Bertie Demone, Captain Irvin Gerhardt, Captain Adamus Schuare, Clarence Corkum, Albert Conrod, Edgar Winters, Kenneth Vilde, Paul Meisner, Maurice Berringer.

The announcement from Gloucester that the schooner Esperanto will carry pig iron for ballast is considered favorable for the American boat, as the Nova Scotia schooner Delawanna will be ballasted with rock, the same as is used by fishing vessels on the banks.

St. George Club
Meet Mill Owners

Special to The Standard.

St. George, Oct. 22.—The executive of the St. John Motor Boat, Fish and Game Club met with the owners of mills on the Magaguadavic River, tonight, for the purpose of devising ways and means to rid the river of that which has been an annoyance to members of the club, the plugging of the river with logs. Each season the river has had so many logs floating in it that motor boat enthusiasts were unable to enjoy trips up and down the river, as they were kept continually busy with a pole pushing logs aside to make a passageway for their craft. The nuisance was referred to Ottawa, and the authorities there have endeavored to find some solution of the difficulty.

At tonight's meeting it was suggested by the mill owners that a committee consisting of two from the club and two representing the mill owners be appointed and given full authority to provide means for the handling of river logs so as not to interfere with the measure and aims of the club. This plan will be placed before the club members at a later meeting and is expected to meet with their approval.
