"The volume is not an unworthy companion of Dr. Buchanan on the same book,"—The Homilist (London), April 1871. milist (London), April 1871.

"A series of charming Essays. . . . Each chapter branches out into innumerable topics of a secondary and collateral nature, giving to the work a boundless diversity enriched with stores of ethical as well as of spiritual wisdom, evinoing at once acute observation of social life and of human character, and containing the noblest lessons for practical guidance. Our author's style is remarkable for its free, unconstrained flow, almost collequial at times, but invariably signalized by elegance, force, adaptation to the subject, and not seldom by originality of thought in combination with terseness and beauty of expression . . There is about it a freshness, as well as a fullness of practical teaching, rarely to be met with in ordinary Biblical commentaries."—Londonderry Standard, Feb. 15, 1871.

"So plain yet so suggestive, so practical yet so profound are these Lectures that while you read them you feel their deep truth and reality; that you are in contact with realities both visible and invisible; that you are in close contact with the beating heart of nature and humanity, and that all their life and hope flow full and free from God alone."—Fredericton Head Quarters, March 1st, 1871. Insolvent Act of 1869. GEORGE N. ROBINSON, Junior, and JAMES H. ROBINSON, associated in business under the name and firm of Head Quarters, March 1st, 1871.

"The writer is evidently well acquainted with the literature of his subject, and that acquaintance reveals itself almost unconsciously in every page. There is no ostentation of reading or learning, but there is everywhere the gleaming forth of light which cannot be hid.

The style is simple, intelligible, graceful. It shows at once that Mr. Bennet is a man of literary culture, who can express his thoughts with scholarly chasteness and good taste. We could not open a page without meeting some thought vigorously expressed. The work is eminently fresh and readable."—Pres. Witness, Halifax.

"He reveals in the treatment of his themes strong common sense, a firm gresp of thought, a logical acumen and a clear insight into human character. Even when dealing with trite ideas he imparts to them a novelty and interest by which they are lifted into an importance they scarcely deserve. The style throughout is lucid, pure, compact, forcible,—and it is his own—the garb of his own thinking. We have met in our perusal of the book with numerous paragraphs of finished and brilliant rhetoric—fine specimens of pulpit oratory. He is never tame nor tiresome. We have not found one slip shod sentence in the volume."—Christian Visitor, (Baptiet) March 6th, 1871.

"We were not nrepeared to find him writing." 'A Friend's Knowledge FRIEND." THE LIFE OF DICKENS, BY JOHN FOSTER. "We were not prepared to find him writing in such a finished style and issuing such a volume as 'the result of certain preparations made for an evening lecture to his congregation.' If all his pulpit perfermances are equal to these, his people have reason to rejoice in the Providence which guided his steps to them."—Example to the Winness, May let. 1871. The above Desirable Book Evangelical Witness, May let. 1871.

"This is a remarkably thoughtful, solid book" Mr. Bennet is evidently at home in Metaphysics and Ethics, and he is a shrewd observer of human nature in its ordinary manifestations; consequently he ranges over the lessons of the Preacher with a power of illustration which shews his mastery of the subject. The style is close and direct, and yet so lucid, that any reader may understand every sentence in the volume. . . . It will, we doubt not, take its place, as it ought to do, among our household expositions of this treatise of observation and Jewish wisdom "—The Presbyterian (Philadelphia), May 20, 1871.

"The Wisdom of the king is well worth careful reading. Indeed you cannot read much of it at once. There is a constant play of fancy about the thoughts, and ofen the very words, that is admirably suited to the Scripture book, of which this is an exposition, but which demands such constant attention on the reader's part that be gets tired, for he does not know where it is to end. The style is compact, lucid, often sparkling and epigrammatic, the sentences cut sharply, but with a poetic fullness of original illustration that redeems them from all hardness."
