

READY FOR THE BIG EASTER TRADE

A New Season means New Goods for you and New Stocks for us. It means a setting aside of the Winter for Spring attire.

This store is ready with splendid stocks of new, crisp, wearable articles such as a good trade demands. We buy the bulk of our goods direct from manufacturers and only buy from firms with a reputation for Quality.

We figure on "Volume of Business" at a "Minimum of Cost." By actual figures our selling expense is from 10 to 15 per cent. below any city store's.

We buy direct from mills in quantities to get lowest prices and we pay "spot cash" for every article entering the store, taking advantage of all "cash discounts."

When a lower price is quoted from any other store you look well into quality. If you are offered more for produce at any time, take the cash in preference to trade. The same in cash will purchase much more at this store every time. No merchant ever won "success" until he had first given "service" in full measure. This is why our staff is always busy. One satisfied customer brings another.

The construction at every point provides for rough usage such as every truck is bound to get.

MAKING THE BEST OF IT

This isn't an ideal world and life always has its drawbacks and limitations. State it at its best and living is only getting along as best we may, overcoming and succeeding where we can, and making the best of the situation where we cannot. And even the triumph and the success often leave something more still to be desired. It is wisdom to reckon with life after that fashion, but it makes a great deal of difference as to the spirit in which we reckon with it. We may accept the pessimist's philosophy which says that in a world like ours there can be nothing much that is really worth while, or we may stand firmly and heroically by our faith that even in this present somewhat topsy-turvy situation to make the best of things is a splendid achievement and worthy of our finest struggle and endeavor. And the one attitude will cut the nerve of all high planning and noble endeavor, while the other will keep us working away hopefully and earnestly and cheerfully, at the task of making the best of things and putting into life all the good that is possible.

A letter from the income tax inspector says:—"Persons engaged in business are all being requested to file under section No. 8 of the Act. There are so many businesses in which the income is difficult to describe and derive that it has been decided that all business men shall file returns whether assessable or not, in order that their assessability may be determined at this office and that their records may be kept from year to year for the purpose of comparison with regard to such matters as capital employed, annual inventory, depreciation, bad debts, etc."

A bunch of travellers were standing around Scotia Junction waiting for connections when a rural youth, who had been sizing them up, picked a likely one, winked mysteriously, and tapping his hip pocket whispered: "Want to buy some tea?" He did, and a consultation behind the station resulted in the exchange of $3 for a promising-looking bottle. He popped off four others, and four other deals were put through. That night at Parry Sound they prepared to make merry. The cork was pulled in No. 1, and at the first "swig" a look of anguish came over the "swigger." "Great Scott!" he roared. "It is cold tea." And it was.

If a mere man were to ask the ladies what they are to do now that the war work is almost completed, he might hear something like this: "Don't you worry. We had quite enough to do before the war, and we shall welcome a respite now from the extra activities of wartime." If the men should persist, however, he might win an acknowledgment that the labors of war-time had developed qualities which some of the ladies would not possess and which they will be loath to allow to drop back into disuse. We don't want another war, but even peace times have their tasks for women's practical minds and busy hands—and the men will still be glad to have some women's organization upon which to unload some of the jobs they don't like.

Different nations have had their own methods of punctuating time. Our calendar follows the Romans in beginning the day at midnight; for all practical purposes we reckon it from sunrise to sunset. The Athenians and the Hebrews, however, began their new day at sunset. "And the evening and the morning were the first day," This Hebrew habit of beginning the day at sunset has survived even to our own time in regard to the day of rest. The whole significance of Burns' "Cotter's Saturday Night" is lost if we forget that to the Scotch Presbyterian Saturday night was a part of the Sabbath. The week's cares were thrown aside when the peasant saw, in the evening shadows, the beginning of the Lord's Day.

An exchange says:—"We presume there never was a newspaper in any locality that gave all the local happenings. It is often that some one comes or goes that the reporter does not see. It happens that the family is missed several times. They get the impression that the editor does not care to mention them. This is a mistake. In most country towns the local work is the hardest work connected with a newspaper. A man may be a good editorial writer, but a flat failure in the local work and vice versa. Editorial material is obtained by study, by reading newspapers, sometimes by using scissors. Persons and local happenings can't be read and clipped from other papers, not by a jugful. It takes physical as well as mental exertion to get out five or six columns of local news in a town of this size. Most people take a local paper to get the local happenings. Don't be afraid to tell the editor or reporter that you have friends visiting you. There are lots of friends who are interested in your friends. You owe it as a duty to them to let your friends know their doings. Perhaps you think the paper shows partiality, but just see if the paper doesn't treat you right if you give it a chance."

THE NEW SPIRIT OF EDUCATION

An entirely new spirit in education, as indeed in nearly all else, is abroad since the war. For one thing, the old idea was very largely to learn to know and very frequently without any bearing on the value of the knowledge acquired. The new idea is much more largely to learn to live, or to make a living, and in this sense is more practical, although it may not bear as directly on the quality of the life to be lived as some moralists might desire.

The day has gone past, however, since parents or, indeed, young people themselves, will be satisfied with courses of learning which may involve academic and intellectual distinction, but furnish no means, when they have been gained, of sustaining the honors won. The most pathetic sight in the world is the scholar turned loose on an indifferent society with no ability to do enough for his next meal, and a hopeless outlook as far as having a home and rearing a family is concerned.

Society on this score has failed entirely, both as regards the scholar who cannot make a living, and the wage earner who has been allowed a mere living wage, whether he be married or single. These blots on society are sufficient to condemn it as unfit for restoration in the pre-war sense. The wage earners have taken their cause into their own hands, and it is clear in Britain that the worker is henceforth to be a partner with the owner and the degree of partnership is under negotiation. On this side of the ocean an attempt is being made to modify or head off this arrangement, but the tide has begun to move, and it is idle to attempt to stem it.

In education another step is being taken. It is directed towards making the educated man an indispensable member of society, instead of an encumbrance or a parasite. He must henceforth become a man of action as well as a man of words and a man of ideas.—The Toronto World.
