LADY LEOLINE.

By May Agnes Fleming.

To detach from the city of Montreal all the territory bounded to the south by the Lachine Canal, to the east, by a line which, starting from the Lachine Canal, and passing by the middle of Canning street, extends itself by the centre of Edge Hill Avenue till Dorchester street, to the north by the middle of Dorchester street, in Edge Hill Avenue, till the west limits of the city of Montreal, to the west by the limits of the said city, and to annex it to the municipality of Sainte Ounegonde, in the County of Hochelage, for school purposes. CHAPTER XIV.-Continued. sinuated Sir Norman, unutterably repelled.

"Did they ?" she said with a cold sneer "he is, too-at least as far as church and state can make him; but I am no more his wife at heart than 1 am Satan's. Truly of the two I should preter the latter, for then I should be wedded to something grand-a fallen angel ; as it is, I have the honor to be Legislature, at its next session, for an Act be amend and consolidate the laws respecting the Dental Assocation of the Province of Quebec. wife of a devil who never was an angel !" At this shooking statement Sir Norman looked helplessly round, as if for relief; and Miranda, after a moment's silence broke into another mirthless laugh. "Of all the pictures of ugliness you ever saw or heard of, Sir Norman Kingsley, do tell me if there ever was one of them half so repulsive or disgusting as that thing ?" "Really," said Sir Norman, in a subdued tone, "he is not the most prepossessing little man in the world ; but madame, you do look and speak in a manner quite dreadful. Do let me prevail on you to calm yourself, and tell me your story, as you promised.

"Calm myself !" repeated the gentle lady, in a tone half snappish, half hareh, "do you think I am made of iron, to tell you my story and calm ? I hate him ! I hate him ! I would kill him if I could; and if you, Sir Norman, are half the man I take you to be, you will rid the world of the horrible menster before morning dawas !"

"My dear lady, you seem to forget that the case is reversed, and that he is going to rid the world of me," said Sir Norman with s sigh. "No, not if you do as I tell you; and when I have told you how much gauge I have to abhor him, you will agree with me that killing him will be no murder ! Ob, it there is one above who rules this world, and will judge us all, why, why does He permit such none ors to live ?"

"Because He is more merciful than his oreatures," replied Sir Norman, with calm reverence, "though His avenging hand is heavy on this doomed city. But, madame, time is on the wing, and the headsman will be here before your story is told."

"Ah, that story ! How am I to tell it, I wonder, two words will comprise it all-sin and misery-misery and sin ! For, buried alive here, as I am-buried alive, as I've always been-I know what both words mean; they have been branded on heart and brain in letters of fire. And that horrible monstrosity is the cause of all; that loathsome, mis shapen, hideous abortion has banned and cursed my whole lite! He is my first recollection. As far back as I can look through the dim haze of childhood's years, that horrible face, that gnarled and twisted trunk, those devilish eyes glare at me like the eyes threating, terrible looks and denunciations, and tace of a wild beast. As memory grows and I qualled and shrank like a coward, but

" This rascally orew of out-throats, whom his villanious highness headed," said Miranda were an almost immence number then, being divided in three bodies-London out-nurses Hounslow Heath highwaymen, and assistant coiners, but all owning him for their lord and master. He told me all this himself, one day when, in an after dinner and most, gracious mood, he made a boasting display of his wealth and greatness ; he told me I was growing up very pretty indeed, and that I was shortly to be raised to the honor and dignity and bliss of being his wife.

"I fancy I must have had a very vague idea of what that one small word meant, and was besides in an unusually contented and peaceful state of mind, or I should, un-doubtely, have raised one of his cut-glass decanters and smashed in his head with it. I know how I should receive such an assertion from him now, but I think I took it then with resignation he must have found mighty edifying ; and when he went on to tell me that all this richness and greatness were to be shared by me when that celestial time came , think I rather liked the idea than otherwise. The horrible creature seemed to have woke up that day, for the first time, and all of a sudden, to a conviction that I was in a fair way to become a woman, and rather a handsome one, and that he had better make sure of me before any incident interfered to take me from him, full of this laudable notion, he became a daily visitor of mine from thenceforth and made the discovery, simultaneously with myself, that the oftener he came the less favor he found in my eight. I had, before, tactitly disliked him, and shrapk with a natural re-pulsion from his dreadful ugliness; but now, from negative dislike, I grew to positive hate. The utter leathing and abhorrence I have had tor him ever since, began then-I grew dimly and intuitively conscious of what he would make me, and sbrank from; my fate with a vague horror not to be told in words. I became strong in my fearful dread of it. I told him I detested, abhorzed, loathed, hated him:

that he might keep his riches, greatness, and ungainly self for those who wanted bim ; they were temptations to weak to move me. "Of course there was raving, and storming

"It quiet turned my brain at first ; and my eyes were so dazzled by the pitful glistening of the pageant the sham splendor of the sham court, and the halfmocking, half serious homage paid me, that I could see nothing beyond the shining surface, and the blackness and corruption and horror within, were altogether lost upon me. This feeling increased when, as months and months went by, there were added to the mock peers of the Midnight Court, real nobles from that of Charles. 1 did not know then that they were ruined gamesters, vicious profligates and desperate broken-down roués, who would have gone to pandemonium itself, nightly, for the mad license and lawless excesses they could indulge in here to their heart's content. But I got tired of it all, after a time : my eyes began slowly to open, and my heart-at least, what little of that article I ever had-turned sick with horror within me at what I had done. The awful things I saw, the learful deeds that were perpetrated, would curdle your very blood with horror, were I to relate them. You have seen a specimen yourself, in the cold-blooded murder of that wretch half an hour ago; and his is not the only life crying for vengeance on these men. The slightest violation of their oath was punished, and the doom of traitors and informers was instant death, whether male or female. The sham trials and executions always took place in presence of the whole court, to strike a salutary terror into thom, and never occurred but once a week, waen the whole band regularly met. My power continued undiminished; for they know either the dwarf or I must be supreme and though the queen was bad, the prince was worse. The said prince would willingly have pulled me down from my eminence, and have mounted it himself; but that he was probably restrained by a feeling that lawmakers should not be law-breakers, and that if he set the example there would be no end to the insubordination and rebellion that would follow."

WHEN CANADA IS LARGEST.

IT INCREASES ITS TEBRITORY IN WINTER AND SHOULD THEN BE ANNEXED.

"If you fellers want to annex Canada," said a fur clad traveller from Manitoba to an interested crowd the other day, "you wanter accomplish the augmentation in the winter. That had the same effect in increasing the area of the country as if the diameter of the earth were increased by thirty feet. Canada is about 3,000 miles in length from east to west. The fifteen feet of snow, as a simple calculation shows, increased the width by about twelve feet.

The difference from the northtren to the southern, boundary of the Dominion is about 1 500 miles. Making the same calculation as before it is found that the snow increases that distance by six feet. By an easy calculation it appears that these increases augment the total area of the country by some thing over six square miles. The mathematicians who listened to the strangers discourse are still pondering over the stranger's figures. His haste prevented them from being quite exact but they have the effect of making one think.

CARE OF FEVER PATIENTS. PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS OF AN EXPERIENCED

PHYSICIAN TO TRAINED NURSES Dr. W. M. Gibson, in a talk to a school of nurses at Utics, says the Herald of that place, said :--The generally accepted definition of the word "fever" is a rapid elevation or the natural temperature of the body-981 degrees Fahrenheit. We have in the human system organs which are termed vitals-namely, the heart, lungs, liver, spleer and stomach, which are governed by the nervous system. Tissues cannot remain for any length of time in an absolutely healthy condition without throwing off the old material and taking up fresh It is the breaking down of the tissues and the attempt to repair, continually going on in the human system, that forms the chief centre of animal heat. Fever may result from two causes. First, there may be an over-production of heat in the system; and, secondly, the system may be incapable of throwing it off. Fever robs the body of the fat and degenerates the organs. The heart probably suffers the worst. It is a muso organ and is soon weakened and bro down, and in most fevers there is a gi

But there was an inward life, fierce and strong, as it was rank and morbid, lived and brooded over alone, when Margery and her master fancied me sleeping in idiotic content. How were they to know that the creature they had reared and made over had a thought of her own-ever wondered who she was, where she came from, what she was destined to be, and what lay in the great world beyond? The crooked little monater made a great mistake In teaching me to read ; he should have known that books sow seeds that grow up and flourish tall and green, till they become giants in strength. Miranda having shook off her crawling acquaint-ances, watched them glancing along the foul floor in the darkness, and went moodily on. "It was three years ago when I was fifteen years old, as I told you, that a great change took place in my life. Up to that time that miserable dwarf was what people would call my guardian, and did not trouble me much with his heavenly company. He was a great deal from our house, sometimes absent for weeks together; and I remember I used to envy the freedom with which he came and went far more than I ever wondered where he | the first, the reinging bells and queen. There spent his precious time. I did not know then that he belonged to the honorable profession of highwaymen, with variations of coining when travelers were few and money scarce. they allow convalescent typhold patients eat. The disease is frequently accompani by ulceration of the bowels, and by the troduction into the stomach of certain kin of estables a rupture of an intestine is lia to occur, which is surely fatal. If you serve a suddan change in the temperatu send for a physician immediately, as chances are that there is a hemorrhage of complication is approaching. Also report the physician if there is any change notic after medicine is administered. The sh should be kept clean in all cases. Nur should not hesitate to bathe their patients they deem it necessary I have put patier in a bath and placed cakes of ice about the to cool them down. It did no harm, and should not hevitate to do it again. In bat ing a fever patient it is better to wash a smi portion of the body at a time and then wir it thoroughly dry, and then proceed unit the whole surface is bathed.

Bed sores should be guarded against. relief for these sores can be found by making a bag and filling it with some soft substan and wrapping it about the afflicted parts. nate would be a good deed, and no murder | mursing typhoid fever patients the ey I would do it myself if I could take him off should be kept free from all accumulation his guard; but he never is that with me; and The nose frequently becomes clogged an then my arm is not strong enough to reach should be relieved by the insertion of his black heart through all that mass of camel's hair brush dipped in vasaline. Th mouth and tongue need much attention. Th coating which forms on the latter should removed by a tooth brush dipped in a solution of a teaspoonful of borax, a tablespoonfo of glycerine and a cup of rain water. Th gums and teeth may be kept clean by th use of a small linen cloth. So long as th room in which a typhold patient is confine is kept well cleansed, there is very littl danger of a person contracting the diseas
