CBC rejects CAUB

From HARVEY SHEPHERD

TORONTO — The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has flatly rejected current proposals for a national university radio program.

The proposals were made at a two-day conference in Hart House at the University of Toronto. Barry Yoell represented UNB at the discussions.

Despite the CBC's rejection, the student broadcasters decided to form their own organization anyway. It is to be called the Canadian Association of University Broadcasters.

CBC representatives termed the project "impractical because of regional loyalties."

E. G. Hallman, a director of the CBC's national network, said that "the contents of any such program must appeal to the public in general and not only to students."

He stated that the government-owned CBC entertained doubts about the quality of material which would be submitted and about the percentage of students who would actually listen to such a program.

At the same time, he left the door open for future negotiations.

CAUB has decided to go to its individual member student councils to get approval for the organization. If it is approved, the association would then concentrate on building up its operations on the local level.

CAUB plans to hold a conference next October at the same time as the annual meeting of the National Conference of Canadian University Students. At that time, it will make another approach to the CBC.

To aid in this scheme, CAUB has elected a slate of officers to hold office until next October's conference. Dave Warren of Memorial University, St. John's, Nfld. was elected president.

SCM SPONSORS SERVICE

Dr. Desmond Pacey stated before the Universal Student's Day of Prayer held last Sunday that he was glad to see a growing religious interest on the campus. Conducting the service was Craig Neylan, Gen.-Sec. of the SCM. The sermon was delivered by Rev. John Farmer of St. Anne's Church.

Members of the UNB Choral Society also took part in the service, organized by the UNB SCM.

ELECTIONS TOMORROW THREE SEEK PRESIDENT'S POST

For President . . .

by Peter Kent

RICHARD ALEXANDER

TED BOSWELL

ARTHUR VANWART

With the three candidates for the presidency of the SRC — Richard Alexander, Ted Boswell and Arthur VanWart — stepping up their campaign for tomorrow's SRC elections, The Brunswickan conducted separate interviews with each of the candidates.

The candidates were each asked the same three questions, and none of them were informed of the answers that their opponents had given.

The three questions asked and the replies of the candidates follow:

(1) What do you feel is the most important matter with which the SRC will have to deal in the coming year?

Alexander: Mr. Alexander feels that the most important matter facing the SRC is the participation of the student body in the university's fund raising campaign. He also feels that some revisions in the constitution of the SRC are necessary, as he has heard quite a few complaints of the existing constitution.

Boswell: Mr. Boswell gave a similar answer. He said that the most important matter is "working together with the Administration in connection with the building program." He added that the students have already been asked by the Administration to co-operate.

VanWart: Mr. VanWart outlined the three functions of the SRC as being (a) maintaining good relations between students and administration, (b) co-ordinating the activities of the student body, and (c) administering the SRC fees. He declined comment when asked what was the most pressing matter, stating that he felt there were a fair number of things which would have to be dealt with.

(2) What can be done about student apathy in nominating candidates for campus elections?

Alexander: Mr. Alexander feels that people should be encouraged to attend meetings of the SRC. He believes that this can be done if the SRC class representatives keep "on their toes", and inform their friends of the problems of the SRC. Mr. Alexander also feels that the matter of student apathy should be handled in a different way in The Brunswickan, stating that some students don't even know the meaning of the word, "apathy".

Boswell: "This is a job which is directly connected with the executives of each of the different classes", said Mr. Boswell. He believes that the executives should "scout around for good candidates". The executives should be more active, but, then again, what about apathetic class executives?

VanWart: "The activities of the SRC must be kept before the public," was Mr. VanWart's solution. He believes that this should be done through The Brunswickan. He also said, "It is the duty of the President and of the members of the SRC to discuss problems with the people they represent." On important matters, student opinion on the campus should be sounded, so that all the students feel that they are contributing something.

(3) What is your reaction to the recent developments at Acadia when the editor of The Athenaeum and one of the staff members were taken to task for an article which appeared in their newspaper?

Alexander: Mr. Alexander believes there must be some limitations on what is published. He feels that the persons involved should have shown some restraint, since they were attending a denominational university. He stated that the article would not have caused such a furore at UNB, as it is a non-denominational institution. Although he hasn't read the article in question, Mr. Alexander believes that if it was in poor taste and proved nothing, there was no reason for publishing it.

Boswell: Mr. Boswell, commenting on the expulsion of the author of the article by the university administration, said: "This type of thing could easily happen at UNB unless student discipline is strongly controlled by the students as it is now". Mr. Boswell also feels that the editors of the newspaper were at fault for printing such an article.

VanWart: Mr. VanWart believes that religious prejudices don't hold such a sway at UNB as at Acadia, and thus feels that this incident would not occur at UNB. He declined to make further comment, saying that this was an Acadian affair, and not directly related to UNB.

Tomorrow is election day!

Over 1,500 students will vote for candidates offering for nine positions. Every registered student is permitted to cast his ballot, from freshman to postgrad. However, Seniors are asked to take note that they may vote only for the SRC Executive (President of the SRC, Treasurer of the SRC, and President of the AAA).

(The manifestos of the three candidates for President of the SRC and of the two candidates for Treasurer appear on Page 3).

Elections for representation in the annual Model Parliament will be held concurrently.

The Juniors, Sophomores and the Freshmen may vote for the SRC Executive and their respective class representatives and executives at the following polls

Arts Building: All Arts, Bus. Ad., Phys. Ed., and Science students with the exception of the Freshman. Civil Engineering Building: All Engineers with the exception of the Freshman.

Chemistry Building: All Freshman Engineers.

Forestry Building: All Foresters and Geologists (2nd-5th year), and all Freshman with the exception of the Engineers.

These polls will be open from 9.15-12.30, and 1.45-4.30.

Voters are asked to read the bottom line of the ballots very carefully to see whether to mark the ballot with an X or with numbers. Preferential voting, that is marking the ballots with numbers to indicate the voters preference where election of the President of the SRC and Class Representatives are involved, is used in this election. In voting for the President of the AAA, Treasurer of the SRC, and the Vice-President, and the Secretary-Treasurer of the Sophomore Executive, an X is to be used.

The ballots will be counted immediately after the polls close by the returning officers, Earl Carpenter and Dave Irvine and appointed clerks, in the presence of the President of the SRC, Ron Manzer. Any candidate who wishes to do so may have a scrutineer present at the counting of the ballots, and any candidate may call for a recount within 48 hours after the count has been made. Results of the election will be announced officially on Friday.

Tories, Grits, C.A. offer

The three parties seeking seats in UNB's third annual Model Parliament have released their platforms. Full texts appear on Page Three.

The parties go before the voters tomorrow. The balloting is being held in conjunction with the SRC election.

Seats will be distributed on the basis of proportional representation. Voting will be by party only, and no individual's name will appear on the ballots.

The parties have the same leaders as they had last year. Dick Steeves heads the Progressive Conservative Club, Joan Proudfoot leads the Liberal Club, and Terry McCluskey is chief of the Christian Atheist Party.

In last year's election, the PCs won 22 seats, but were outnumbered by an opposition of 12 Liberals and 11 Christian Atheists. The Tories formed a minority government, but were overthrown when the Liberals and CAs coalesced late in the session.
