dismissed, and had a serious talk with him. Perhaps she was a little afraid that her admonitions were falling on stony ground. Anyway, she finally said, "I certainly will have to ask your father to come and see me."
"Don't do it," said the boy.

The teacher thought she had made an impression.
"Yes," she repeated, "I must send for your father."

"You better not," said the boy.
"Why not?" inquired the teacher.
"Cause he charges two dollars a visit," said the scamp.

His Florist.

Public school teachers in Little Italy are constant recipients of presents of various kinds from admiring scholars.
The presents vary all the way from ripe tomatoes to five-dollar bills. When the intrinsic value of an offering is beyond a certain limit the teacher usually institutes an inquiry as to its original source. One boy made frequent gifts of flowers. As long as they were somewhat faded the teacher accepted them unquestionably, but when Tony appeared on a certain morning with a large bunch of expensive white roses she felt constrained to ask the boy where he got them. Heaven and earth and the Madonna were called upon to witness that the flowers had been purchased, later that they had been a gift, and finally that Tony's mother had sent them as a token of regard. The teacher grew more stern in her demand for particulars in regard to Tony's getting the flowers.
There was a flower-stand on the Bovey, two blocks west, which she feared might have been looted.

"Tony," she persisted, "tell me the truth. Did you steal the roses? Then where did you get them?"

"Teacher, gracious lady," wept Tony, at the end of his inventive powers, "I gotta from da church on Brooma Street.
De man, he no care—he dead."

The Reason.

Helen was playing one day, when a little girl with a dirty face stopped to look on. Helen, being of an analytical turn of mind, thought she would ascertain the cause of this facial defect, and asked:

"Do you wash your face with your dirty hands, or do you wash your hands first and then wash your face in the dirty water?"

"Don't do neither," came the reply.
"I ain't no idiot."

He Knew.

A charming, well-preserved widow had been successfully courted by a physician.
The wedding day was approaching, and she thought it was time the children should know they were to have a new father. Calling one of them to her, she said:

"Georgie, I am going to do something before long that I wish to talk about with you."

"What is it, ma?" asked the boy.

"I am intending to marry Doctor Jones in a few days, and—"

"Bully for you, ma! Does Doctor Jones know it?"

His Modest Desire.

Father: "Was the show good, Tommy?"

Tommy: "Naw—nuthin' but a ol' elephant to shoot th' chutes."

Mother: "Dear me! What more did you want?"

Tommy: "I wanted t' see a live whale shoot th' chutes."

A Natural Product.

A teacher of a small district-school was one day recently, giving a language lesson on animals and their uses.

The pupils had named most of the domestic animals, and had told of what uses they were when some one suggested sheep.

"Yes," said the teacher, "sheep are very useful. Who can tell me what we get from them?"

A small boy eagerly waved his hand.

"Well, Willie, you may tell us what we get from sheep," the teacher said.

"Lambs," shouted Willie.

McKallor Drug Co., Binghamton, N.Y.

Dear Sirs—I am giving your spavin remedy a thorough test. Have been using it on a horse that had a spavin so sore that he could not go a mile. In fact I drove him two miles and thought I would not get back with him, it hurt him so. Since starting with your remedy have followed directions faithfully, keeping a strict diet so as to be sure.

Have also used it on a mare with side bone that made her lame. They are both good horses. The one with spavin is getting better fast and can go every day, and the one with side bone is sound.

The physician I write to, I am out of climent, and wish you to send me a box for I do not want to discontinue the treatment.

Yours,
J. H. GOULD, Jr.

Scientific Tire Protection

Woodworth Treads are the result of years of experience in the manufacture of tire protectors by the largest manufacturers of protectors in the world. More than one hundred thousand Woodworth Treads have been sold and every weak point has been eliminated.

The coil spring method of fastening holds them always absolutely tight on the tires. They cannot get loose to chafe and heat the tire even if the leather stretches.

The specially prepared leather never becomes hard or brittle and the extra hard rivets on the wearing portion will give more than double the wear of the soft rivets used on other protectors.

Woodworth Treads
are sold with a guarantee that they will not injure the tire in any way and the makers agree to repair or replace free any tire injured by them when used according to instructions.

If you wish to cut down your tire expense, to have freedom from tire troubles and skidding, order a set of Woodworth Treads.
