If La Verité should succeed in annihilating the Knights of Columbus, where in the world would its compositor go for copy?

La Verité's latest is an objection against the reciting of a "Hail Mary" in English for HistExcellency the Delegate. A column and a half of good space is devoted to abuse of the Knights of Columbus in last week's issue, Judging from this. the society in question must be doing well.

> One of the poorest services any co-called Catholic paper can do religion is to use the moral failure of any unfortunate non-Catholic mi-nister of religion as an argument against his sect, except in the case, perhaps, of a bigot doubled with a calumniator. We believe in attacking heresy, and in crying down the blasphemous utterances of anti-Chrisblasphemous utterances of anti-Chris-tian preachers to Christians. One thing is to "seorch" a preacher for his ridiculous methods of church conduct and procedure; another thing to rake up a minister's fail-ings, when the like altogether con-cerns his private or family life. We lately came across a piece of the seandal news we denounce, in a so-called Catholic paper, one no bishop could or would stand for; and, in that selfsame paper, there is ne ver an editorial worth the price of a cat's supply of milk for one breakfast, even if the money-maker in charge once declared that he is not that is all; and shows a man up in lines altogether independent of doc-trine. We'll come back to him.

It is unfortunate that so many of our boys are turned out of school with no love for reading. Many of the others, who feel such a love, ar forced to be their own guides in th literary field. Why has the good old system of circulating libraries been done away with? We remember that in our younger days, at the fine old Brother's school to which we first went, you could It is no compliment to Eng- get some of the best books read, by paying only two cents each can gather into Parliament. Back to the old ideals! But, then, the pupil must notice that his teacher is a wellread man. The daily newspaper can never make up for literature. The Brothers have done more for good reading than any others we know; of course, or priests excepted. Why shouldn't every parochial school have a good little library? If you do not teach the boys to read Father Finn or Canon Sheehan, they will teach themselves how to read Nick Carter!

Church uses Latin as her official language, and they are all reducible to the plea of common sense. That is why so much objection is taken to her stand, in some minds and around some corners. Let us give but one of the reasons. There is such a thing in the Church as a General, Oecumenical, Council, made up of Bishops and priests, with the Holy that order. Father at their head, from all the nations of the world. It is the greatest of all parliaments, and parliamentary members must have common tongue. Thus when the (save the mark) told his congrega- land, Canada, Germany, Italy, meet of Rome. He, of course, meant the are freighted with eternal significance, they must understand and have said so. It may be that the speak a common tongue. For insular churches, such as the Church of provincial joke-sects, which bodies may easily do without any claim to universality, there is no need of Latin: the one tongue spoken by all the members of the narrow little fold or denomination more than suffices Europe's diplomats are agreed on a common tongue, the French, Europe's best and most chastened language; common sense calls for the like, and so does it explain why the Church speaks, reads, and writes Latin. The Bishop of Barcelona furnished Mgr. Santol with a full list of the convents.

ACTED IN BAD FAITH.

Again comes the obviously false despatch from Paris that the Vatican permitted a second religious ceremony of marriage in that city lately. Arturo de Heeran and Miss Fernanda Wanamaker, it is reported, had a civil and two religious ceremonies before their marriage was complete. In these days of loosening matrimonial bonos, the proverbial triplecord seems necessary to make the bond strong. Again, too, our Ambassador at Paris presisted. make the bond strong. Again, too, our Ambassador at Paris persists in misrepresenting the action of the Church authorities. It is perfectly well known that such permissions are never given. Indeed, before granting dispensations for marriages between Catholics and non-Catholics, the express stipulation is made that there by but one religious care. between Catholics and non-Catholics, the express stipulation is made that there be but one religious ceremony and that this take place before a priest for witness. Whenever this stipulation is not kept, the parties are acting in bad faith to conceal or condone which it is useless as well as unjust to talk about Vatican favoritism or inconsistency. In Nor 3 of America. page 73, we In Nor 3 of America, page 73 showed how egregiously Mr. erred on this point at the of his daughter's marriage. or his daugater a marriage, con-firming our statement by special cable information from the Arch-bishop of Paris. The Vatican does not interfere in these matters; they ot interfere in these matters, the only promulgate the law regulating them, the Ordinaries of the diocese apply the law, and the Vatican authorities invariably support them. The Catholic who, after marriage before a priest, chooses to go through a ceremony before a minister, knows very well the guilt and the serious penalty of the act.—

"TREATING."

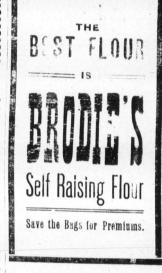

The German Catholic Journeys men's Society is one of the moet prosperous in the world. It is divided into diocesan groups. That of Rottenburg has 2800 members, and owns property to the amount of $200,000. Its 52 local branches have established libraries which aggregate in all twenty thousan books, with $40,000 deposited in their savings banks. The American habit of "treating" is ridiculous and harmful. Many who fully intend merely to "take a drink and then let it alone," find that they do not insist on buying each other sugar, tea, coffee and grocesties. Were that done the implied insult would be resented, but it is accepted before the saloon bar.

The best and highest resolve is to stay out of the saloon. If in it, resolve at least not to treat—not to spread the evil. No man is benefited in name or in his social or business standing by frequenting the saloon. A word to the wise should be sufficient.—Catholic Universe.

THE PRESS HYSTERIA OVER FERRER

Notable among the events of the past week is the hysterical attitude of the press abroad and at home to the Spanish Government for the anarchist's death. In general, it is anarchist's death. In general, it is admitted that he was a revolutionary propagandist, that he was intimately connected with the enemies of his Government, and that he had been frequently under suspicion of having instigated or taken part in the use of bombs, particularly on the occasion of the attempted assassination of the king and Queen. Incriminating documents were found in his possession, among them a program for the overthrow of the Government and the seizure of bank deposits and funds for the benefit of the revolutionary forces, with handwhole of the twenty-six religious communities have entered a case of libel in the law courts of Toulouse against the "Depeche." The Bishop of Barcelona furnished Mgr. Santol with a full list of the convents, asylums and schools of the Sisters that were entered by the 'ncendiaries during the riots. The whole of the nuns-664 in number—have signed the requisition for the action of shander, and they are all prepared to appear in court in defense of the good name of their convents. Thus the newspaper will not be able to evade the issue. It made general statements against all the religious of a city, and they all in general, as well as in particular, are calling upon the journal to substantiate its statements or pay the penalties of the law. the revolutionary forces, with handrials as rabid as anarchists sould wish. A significant communication from the Paris correspondent, dated as early as October 1, exposes the scheme of utilizing Ferrer's death as another Dreyfus affair; but this considered to the best the scheme of the property of the scheme of the property of the scheme of the property of the property of the scheme of the property is considered futile by the very men who suggest it. Ferrer was not a who suggest II. Forei was not a-law, and Spaniards have a keen sense of proportion, which works for proper submission to authority. There has been no commotion in Spain, and the press is daily grow-ing less hysterical.—America.

THE WANAMAKER WEDDING.

Catholics well-grounded and well-instructed in the Faith are so used to the one-sided accounts of things Catholic they read in the daily press, that they pay no attention to reports such as that of the tripple wedding ceremony. Civil. Catholic and Protestant, that united John Wanamaker's grandleughter to the Wanamaker's granddaughter to the scion of a noble house.

Despite the rejoicings of Ambassa-dor White, whose conscience this time permitted him to attend all three ceremonies "because the Vatican had in this case permitted the Protestant ceremony as well as the Catholic one"—we know that the Vatican permitted nothing of the kind. We know furthermore that if it were known to the Catholic authorities, that a Protestant cere. it were known to the Catholic authorities that a Protestant ceremony would succeed the Catholic ceremony—there never would bave.

THE FERRER EPISODE.

Why is it that in every American newspaper the Church is being drag-ged into the question? It is well known, and has been reported the world over, that the authorities of the Church were the first to petithe Churchi were the first to peti-tion for elemency towards Ferrer. We have yet to learn that any offi-cial of the Church figured in the whole proceeding. Why this deli-berate falsification of the truth? Why is it copied from pean whole proceeding. Why this deliberate falsification of the truth? Ye why is it copied from paper to paper without a question being asked or answered? That the anarchists all over the world would destroy every church in christerdom we know very well, but that reputable journals should ascribe every "evil that comes upon the earth to the Church, or at least echo these sentiments of anarchy, when they must know that they are absolutely false if they use their reason at all, is a cause of profound wonderment.

This attitude of the secular press can be explained only on one supposition; that whether they know it or not, they are controlled by the same influences which create anticlericalism and anarchy in Spain and in France and in Italy—Bostom.
