LABATT'S BREWERY FIRE

The fire was confined chiefly to two of the Malt houses. The fermenting tuns and the vessels were not damaged, so that the Brewing Department will very soon be in complete running order. The fire did not reach the cellars and I have a large stock of draught and bottled Ale. Customers will be supplied as usual.

My Depots at HAMILTON, TORONTO, OTTAWA, MONTREAL, QUEBEC, ST. JOHN and WINNIPEG, have full supply for present demands.

GOOD LINENS

Are bleached according to the natural and harmless process—being spread on the grass for the alternate rain and sunshine to whiten and toughen the fabric. They wear much longer than the ordinary kinds—their great lustre, strength, purity and softness, as well as the absence of stiffness during wear, at once distinguish them from so-called linen goods—thus they speak for themselves.

WHEN NEXT

Requiring to replenish the linen chest, let us give you prices and show you samples of what real, lasting linen goods are like. The slight difference in price is nothing where the superiority of the genuine article is so apparent.
