GIRL'S DRESS.

The dainty little frock illustrated in No. 8819 is quite new and distinctive in design, and yet it is simple enough to be in good taste for the little schoolgirl. The upper section of the dress extends below the normal waistline at the sides to form the under part of the pockets. The waist buttons at the back and the neck is cut in a slight V-shape, which is relieved by a pretty round collar and a tiny silk tie The long sleeves are gathered into turner back cuffs, but the three-quarter length may be used if preferred. The skirt is the attractive feature of the dress, for it is gathered at the high waistline at front and back, with a heading extending above the narrow belt, and the sides are cut down to form pockets. The girl's dress pattern No. 8819 is cut n five sizes, 6 to 14 years. The 8 year size requires 2% yards of 36 inch, or 21/2 yards of 44 inch and % yard of 36 inch contrasting material.
