W. S. HOVEN. The Sudbury mines of the Canada Copper Company are believed to be not only among the richest in the world in copper, but unrivalled in wealth of nickel. They have become of unexpected value, says the Globe, by the remarkable invention of nickel alloy, by virtue of its strength, flexibility and resistance to corrosion, promises to supplant for many uses not only steel, but copper, brass and several other metals very extensively used. Hitherto the demand for nickel has not warranted its production in great quantities, nor was it known to exist anywhere in such amounts as would enable it to be produced so cheaply as it may be from the Sudbury mines. But for the invention of nickel steel these mines could not be worked to their full capacity, and but for these mines the alloy probably could not be produced so cheaply as it may be from the Sudbury mines. In reading the above, it is strengthened my belief in the medicinal virtue of the poison from the bee-sting in other things as well as rheumatism. I had a swelling come on my hand which was very painful. I thought it would result in a felon. One day a bee stung my hand about one half inch from the center of the swelling and left its stinger. Immediately after my hand began to get better and in a short time the pain and swelling had disappeared without any suppuration or medicine. I firmly believe the bee poison cured my hand. I have been in the bee business about nine years. Some days I have been stung seven or eight times. During the period of my labor with the bees I have not been troubled with rheumatism. There is a poisonous gas or vapor which escapes from the bees, or rather the bees throw it off in defence when we are handling or disturbing them to get the honey or otherwise, and this we inhale. I think and believe it is exceedingly healthy for the lungs, and would recommend any person who has rheumatism, or is afflicted with consumption, and even weak females, to take exercise in the bee yard and inhale as much of such poisonous gas

INTERESTING LETTERS FROM OUR STAFF OF CORRESPONDENTS. A Budget of News and Gossip - Personal Intelligence, - Little Bits of Every-thing, well Mixed up. ELGIN. THE APART. The Tide is Rising - A hopeful future for this industry in Leeds County. It is with pleasure many recognize a hopeful feeling among the patrons of this youthful industry - youthful, because it is only in this part of the country, two or three years since began to be taken up in earnest by their aid in operating the spary. Before this department, beginners were moving at random and all was doubt and uncertainty with no profit to the owners. Now he has a pretty clear idea that it will pay to observe the little nectar fountain in each variety of flowers, when and how long the flow may continue. He has also observed that his honey must be only vigilant, but have his honey extractor and other appliances on hand and in order, and at the right time step into the work heart and hand and help the bees in their labor to harvest and store away the flow. I hope every young beekeeper from this day on will devote an idle hour he may have to planning or doing something for his hobby, and continue until his hives are ready-painted foundations in, sections prepared and all complete, ready to lay your hand on at a moment's notice. If you do this, beekeeping will be pleasant, profitable and inspiring. If you omit this preparation, you will regret it. Your name will be registered under the head of "Folow Hopes," and you will have to be sold cheaply next fall. Mr. Benj. Derbyshire from 30 stocks, spring count, had nearly 1,500 lbs. of honey. He took it from half a dozen colonies, and divided it into three grades. The first class was pure and beautiful. He had 250 lbs. of comb honey. The honey netted him $140; and he had also an increase of 30 colonies worth $20. Mr. William McLaughlin, from two stocks I transferred in spring, extracted 200 lbs. good honey with an increase of six swarms, united in four colonies. Mr. Milton Mansell, of Temperance Lake, from one stock, very full and heavy, obtained a fine lot of honey and three good colonies. These also were divided into three grades. MONDAY, JAN. 13. - Our municipal election in this village for 1890 was held on the 11th inst. and the result was the departure of our political fire-eaters. Every one appeared to work with their full view to attain their object in view. Much credit is due the hon. Mr. R. N. Parker, who presided at the meeting, as it showed and their judgment in marking their ballots as they did. The council are as follows: - Reeve, John Paul; Councilors, J. P. Tait, B. Bell, Wm. Spicer, Geo. Lyons. The Baptist coffee social, held in Victoria Hall on Jan. 6th was a decided success. Dr. Preston, M. P., presided at the organ. The program consisted of the following: - Duett, In the starlight, by Mrs. J. L. Webster and Miss C. McDonald; address by Rev. Stairs; song, The balance of the scale, by Miss Maud Singleton; address by Rev. Geo. Bonfield; song, She can win and fool you all, by Miss Lizzie Wallace; political harangue, by John Bell, moderator elect; recitations; song and chorus, Good-bye Mavourneen, Mrs. Webster and Miss McDonald; song, My laddie far away, Miss Lizzie Wallace. Mr. Emerson, the pastor, gave a short and eloquent address touching on the increasing friendly relations which are existing between different denominations of this section. It is hoped the harmony may still increase. Much credit is due Mrs. Wm. Bresse for the zeal she has manifested in the Baptist cause in Newboro. The proceeds amounted to a few dollars. Geo. Brown paid on a flying visit last week. He talks of going to Kansas city shortly. My prosperity at
