A Creed.

Let me be a little kinder,
Let me be a little blinder
To the faults of those about me,
Let me praise a little more;
Let me be when I am weary,
Just a little bit more cheery,
Let me serve a little better
Those who I am striving for.

Let me be a little braver
When temptation bids me waver,
Let me strive a little harder
To be all that I should be;
Let me be a little meeker
With the brother that is weaker
Let me think more of my neighbor
And a little less of me.

Let me be a little sweeter,
Make my life a bit completer,
By doing what I should do
Every minute of the day;
Let me toil without complaining,
Not a humble task disdaining,
Let me face the summons calmly
When death beckons me away.

The Frances E. Willard Hall of Toronto.

It has been thought desirable that a more detailed description of the work of the Willard Home Department of the W. C. T. U. be given to the public.

Eighteen years ago the Unions of Toronto were urged by the Morality Department of the city to open a home for girls where they could live, free of charge, until they found employment. The work has grown so rapidly, and the quarters were so inadequate for the increased accomodation that a larger building seemed a necessity. Little by little the money required was collected and a site for a building secured, and plans were laid for erecting a house that would be an ornament to the city and furnish the plant necessary for carrying on the different departments of the W. C. T. Unions.

Nearly a year ago the handsome building now standing on Gerrard street, East, was formally opened by the Duchess of Connaught, and the enterprise is succeeding beyond the hopes of the different Unions of the city.

A Travellers' Aid is employed at the Union Station to meet the trains, and to be ready to help any young girls who are coming to the city, passing through it, or seeking situations. Sometimes these girls lose their ticket, their money runs short, they are detrauded or overcharged, they have wrong addresses or none at all, they miss connections and must remain over in the city, their expected friends fail to meet them, and so on. To these the Travellers' Aid is 'a friend in need' and stands ready to help in any emergency.

In order to assist in the work of the W. C. T. U. the proprietors of the Surprise Soap Company offered a premium of 50 cents on every hundred soap coupons returned to them. The number of coupons received at headquarters last year was 261 974. The salary of Miss Roberts, the Travellers' Aid employed by the W. C. T. Unions of Toronto, is met by the pre miums made on the soap wrappers They are hoping to place a Travellers Aid at the two other railway stations in the city, as their funds increase.

One instance may be given of the very efficient service rendered by Miss Roberts:

Not long ago she saw a young woman get off a train and talk for a while with some man who got off the same train. They went and had dinner together, the man telling her the train would wait for a couple of hours. It only waited an hour, she found to her sorrow when she got back to the station. He said he could get her good accomodations for the night, and that he would put her on the morning train. Miss Roberts was watching them, but the girl was wide awake now and asked for the Travellers' Aid. Very unwillingly the man found Miss Roberts, and she took the girl up to the Hall and saw her on the morning train. She is only one in the many thankful for such a home and the Travellers' Aid. You see what good work the Surprise soap coupons are doing in paying Miss Roberts' salary.

Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a trial and we are confident you will find it very effectual and continue to use it as occasion requires for years to come, as many others have done. The Home Link Unbroken.

The minister knew that his visitor had joyful news to tell, for his face fairly shone with happiness.

'I've got something to show you pastor,' the middle aged man began, as he reached his hand toward the pocket of his coat.

'Out with it, quick,' laughed the minister. 'I know by your looks that I want to see it.'

'It's a letter from my college boy written the day he was twenty one. Let me read you a little of it and see if you don't think his mother and I have reason to be happy over it. 'Dear Mother and Daddy,' that's the way it begins. Only think of his wanting to be a comrade enough with me to call me 'Daddy!' Then he goes on:

'Just like the little boy when asked, 'What are you going to be when you become of age?' I reply, 'I'm going to be twenty one, and am going to be the same boy, only, I hope a better one,' parents dear, you may not have a handsome, clever and brilliant young man for a son, but he is clean and honorable, if he does say it himself, and he is proud of it. I cannot, nor will I, enumerate some of the evil or harmful so called pleasures indulged in here in college. A good many fellows have asked me, Why? And in addition to the other reasons, I reply, 'My dad believes I am just as good away from home as I am under his roof: and I know he believes I wouldn't do anything dishonorable, for he told me so. He trusts me, and I would do anything rather than break trust with my dad,'

'Well, I am now twenty-one, and free from all legal disability, and have full contractual powers, but also full responsibilities. And now I am a man, and I will try to make good use of my manhood. I was always glad I was not a rich man's son, and I never was so glad I am a poor man's son as I am to-day. I have a very large degree of ambition, which is proper, but the crop of the brain must be grown to match, and that crop can't be forced, and needs great care and attention.

'This is a real serious epistle and a young lady told me I was a very serious minded young man. And, anyway, I am a man to-day and that is quite enough to make a fellow serious. Lovingly your grown son, Sunny Sunny.'

As the father finished the reading with a voice that troubled a bit, the minister clasped his hand and said:

'That is a fine letter! It has cost you something to keep that boy in college, but you feel paid.'

'The boy who lives up to his father's belief in him, and will not 'break faith' during his college course is not likely to break faith with his father later on.' Then the minister added, 'The time will come when he will know why his father and mother wanted him to do certain things, and abstain from others. And then he will be still more glad that he has kept faith with you and kept the home link unbroken.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

An Irishman and a Frenchman were disputing over the nationality of a friend of theirs.

'I say,' said the Frenchman, 'that he was born in France therefore he is a Frenchman.'

'Not at all,' said Pat, 'Begorra, if a cat should have kittens in the oven, would you call them biscuits?'

Tommy declared to his teacher that the word 'furlough' means 'a donkey.' 'Why no,' said the teacher. 'But I will show you that it does—In a book,' said Tommy. Next day he brought the book and pointed to a picture of a soldier riding on a donkey. Beneath the picture was the line, 'Going Home on Furlough.'

Skin Soft as a Child's.

'I was a great sufferer from eczema and salt rheum for years,' writes Mr. John W. Nass, Lunenburg, N. S. 'Five years ago three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me and the old trouble never returned. My skin is soft as a child's now, and I shall always say a good word for this Ointment.

Protection in Canada and the United States.

The following letter from the Boston Journal will be of interest to our readers:—

To the Editor of the Boston Journal:

My thanks are due to the The Journal for publishing in its issue of Feb. 13, the letters of Mr. Nichols and R. F. Porter, for the letter of the latter answers the contention of Mr. Nichols that foreign trade should be encouraged as the main source of national prosperity.

In the Porter letter it is claimed that hard times are now prevalent in Canada. How can this be, if Mr. Nichols' contention is true that foreign trade makes a country rich and prosperous, for Canada has had the benefit during the last fiscal year of the largest foreign trade in history.

Canada is suffering from the effects of several years of feverish speculation. It went wild over mining booms and land booms and at present is experiencing the natural reaction. Not even a phenomenal foreign trade could save it from the effects of an over extension of credit and over indulgence in speculation. The Conservative government is not responsible for the condition for Canada suffered in similar way in 1907, while the Liberal party was in office. The recovery, however, was rapid. In fact, it was so rapid that financiers at the time prophesied that there would have to be further liquidation and that such liquidation would come in 1913 or 1914.

This diagnosis has proved remarkably accurate, and, as the Halifax Herald on Jan. 19 said, Canada to-day is experiencing the aftermath of the hard times which occured under the Laurier regime in 1907-08. The simple truth is that in 1907, and 1913, the world ran far ahead of its available credit and the rest cure had to be prescribed.'

Under a protective policy, continued by both the Liberal and Conservative parties, Canada has enjoyed a remarkable development of manufacturing enterprises. One of the results of this policy has been the investment in Canadian plants of over $600,000,000 of American capital.

Because of this policy Canada is no longer dependent upon fishing, mining and agriculture. It has diversified its industries, increased the opportunities for employment and added vast sums to the wealth of the Dominion.

As the result of a policy of encouraging domestic industries it 'produces the goods,' and has thus become a factor in the world's trade. Without diversified industries neither Canada nor the United States would occupy the position they do to-day in the trade of the world, and without a protective policy neither Canada nor the United States would have developed the diversified industries which give to the Dominion and the republic their high place among the enlightened and prosperous nations of the world.

For Baking Success —This Oven Test

Success on some baking days can be expected no matter what flour you use. But constant success is rarer. It can be assured in only one way. The miller must select his wheat by oven test.

So from each shipment of wheat we take ten pounds as a sample. We grind this into flour. Bread is baked from the flour.

If this bread is high in quality, large in quantity, we use the shipment from which it came. Otherwise we sell it.

Constant baking success comes as a matter of course from flour bearing this name

A Humble Joker.

'Humphrey Ward, the husband of a well known novelist, likes to joke about his nonenity.'

The speaker was a magazine editor.

'Humphrey Ward, they tell me,' the editor went on, 'once entered his wife's study while she was out, and glanced over the manuscript upon her writing desk.

'He read the sentence, 'She swept the room with a bright, fresh glance,' and, taking up a pencil, he wrote on a margin of the page, 'if she would only sweep the room with a bright, fresh broom!'

'Reading on, he came to, 'She touched a button and a footman appeared.' His marginal note on this was, 'Alas, she had never touched a button.'

And now he came upon the sentence, 'She decided to mend her ways.' And again he wrote, 'Hopeless. She'll never mend anything.'

Strenuous Work Soon Tells on You.

BUSINESS MEN AND BREAD WINNERS THE VICTIMS OF NERVOUS EXHAUSTION.

When worry is added to overwork men soon become the victims of nervous exhaustion—neurasthenia—the doctors call it. Some have no reserve strength in their systems to bear the strain; others overtax what strength they have. If you find that you are nervous and not sure of yourself, that you sleep badly, and wake up tired and aching, your nerves are out of order. Other signs are inability to take proper interest in your work, appetite is fickle, your back feels weak and you are greatly depressed in spirits. One or more of these signs mean that you should take prompt steps to stop mischief by nourishing the nerves with the food they thrive on, namely the rich, red blood made by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pills have cured thousands of cases of nervous disorders, including nervous prostration, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance and partial paralysis. Here is an example. Mr. Jas. A. McDonald, Springhill, N. S., says: 'In the summer of 1912 as the result, I think, of hard work, I was completely run down, and found it necessary to quit work. I slept poorly, and what sleep I did get did not seem to rest me, as I was constantly tired. My appetite was poor and fickle and my nerves unstrung. I had treatment from a doctor for some time, but it did not seem to help me, and having heard a great deal about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I decided to try them. In the course of a few weeks after beginning the Pills I picked up wonderfully, and was able to return to work feeling like a new man. I have not had a day's sickness since, and naturally am now a firm believer in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.'

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will work the same beneficial results in any other tired, worn-out worker if given a fair trial. If you cannot obtain the Pills from your dealer they will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Breathing Impure Air Poisoning the System

Particularly during the winter season the blood becomes loaded with poisonous waste matter as the result of artificial foods and the breathing of impure air in stuffy, overheated rooms.

Elimination of poisons from the blood depends entirely on the condition of the kidneys, liver and bowels, and by awakening and invigorating these filtering organs, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are of inestimable value as a means of purifying the blood and thereby removing the cause of much pain and serious disease.

By curing constipation of the bowels and sluggish, torpid condition of the liver and kidneys this treatment removes the cause of indigestion, headaches, biliousness, backache, kidney derangements and liver complaint. Besides being a cure for the most complicated disorders of this kind Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are invaluable as a family regulator to overcome the annoying everyday ills which if neglected are sure to bring serious disorders such as appendicitis, rheumatism, and Bright's Disease.

One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, 5 for $1.00, all dealers. Sample box mailed free if you mention this paper. Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
