Ready for

New Year's

ow, Dec. 30.—The Times' Paris, condent affirms that he has infortrom an undoubled source that and Germany signed a direct a fortnight ago. "The Casr" is correspondent, "was decided in this course by the attitude manipowards Russis by Count Kalnoby, trian Minister of Foreign Affairs, the expectation that M. Floquet made Prime Minister of France. own" concludes the correspondent, he reported alliance between Rus-France was but a chimera."

The show constant and obvession and France was but a chimera."
The Vienna press is becoming convinced that Russia is determined on war. Reports of increased Russian arraments are continually coming to hand from various sources. The latest intelligence is that 30,000 Russian troops have been ordered to mass in Kieff, and that the cocupants of 10,000 houses received official notication that soldiers will soon be billeted in them. The Naue Freie Presse plainly hints that the best thing Austria can do is to submit to Russia's wishes in order to avoid a conflict. The Taphatt and other papers bitterly deplore the fact that Austria is compelled to abandon fier Balkan programme because she has been left in lurch by Bismarck, who has made peace

CRISIS IN THE BRITISH MINISTRY.

Martington Not to Join It.

ndon, Dec. 30.—Rt. Hon. Wm. Henry b, Secretary of War, is to take Lord cloph Churchill's place as leader of conservatives in the House of Com-the Conservatives in the House of Commons.

Lord Harsington, Joseph Chamberlain, and George J. Goschen had a conference to day. They found themselves equally averse to joining any Coalition Cabinet, and all three decided to support the Conservative Government. Lord Hartington's conference with Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Goschen proved that the Radioal. Whig alliance is unbroken. The return of Lord Hartington to enter the Cabinet gratifies the Tories, who strongly objected to the infusion of Liberal blood into the Ministry. A majority of the members of the Carlton Club, preferred the return of Churchill, even at the cost of the submission of the Government. The efforts to reconcil's Lord Randolph promise better. Lord Rowton, acting on behalf of Lord Salisbury, and Sir Henry Drummond Wolff, for Lord Randolph, met at the Carlton Club to day. Lord Randolph in the club denied that he was moving to effect a reconciliation, but expressed his willinguess to entertain proposals, if they tended to strengthen the party.

The Post continues to urge that the Government effect a reconciliation with Lord Randolph Churchill.

SIR JOHN AND HIS ORGAN

The "Matt's" No Popery Cry Part of a Tory Plot.

Everybody now understands the Toronto Mail's affected independence, its mild advocacy of prohibition, and its "No Popery" howl. The whole thing is a putup job to casten votes. We never had any other opinion and even those who were inclined to hold a different view see through the trick now. Mr. Blake unmasked the tricksters in his own inimitable style the affect evening. Speaking of the Mail's attitude at the present time, he said:

It has provoked the race prejudices of the English speaking Canadians against their French brothren, and so done its best to arouse like feelings on the other side. It has preached a Pierson war; it has preached a French war; it has proced revolutionary changes in the constitution, in order to help the Quebec English against the Quebec French against themselves. It has sought to raise the spectre of Roman the Quebe Frence; and forscore to may the Quebe Frence against themselves. It has sought to raise the spectre of Roman-Catbolic aggression and French domination. It has called aloud to all the Protestants and all the English speaking races to band themselves together against the French and the Catholics. It has invoked the aid of the Liberals as well as others in this new departure. And all to what practical end, I ask you to night? Why, just to help Sir John Macdonald and the Tory party! That is the be all and the end all of the new policy! (Great applause.) You know the old proverb. "All roads lead to Rome." The Mait evidently has for some time understood that, proyerb as applying not to the locality of the Imperial City, but to the religion of which Rome is the centre. (Laughter.) But the Mail has also been diligently setting upon the spirit of the proverb, and reflecting that it may be read to mean "All roads lead to the hallot box—yeu go one way, I'll go the asio coen diagently acting upon the spirit of the proverb, and reflecting that it may be read to mean "All roads lead to the ballot box—yen go one way, I'll go the officer way; you wear one color, I'll wear the other; you go by day, I'll go by night; you take one pass word, I'll take the other; it's all right; we will meet at the polls and bring our sheaves with us!" (Fremendous applanse and laughter.) But, says Sir John, "for form's sake you must, allow me to say one deprecatory word. It shall be mild and apologetic, it shall be accompanied by, may it shall be overshadowed by praise and acknowledgments, it shall, on the whole, help you and not laurt you—but one little word I must say. Jou know, else——" "Certainly," says Mr. Bunting, "and I must have the same Heense, and I will use it in the same way. It's all right. Even hard words break no bones, but we won't do each other any harm; we understand each other thoroughly." And so the comedy is played, so the actors make their bow, and so you are all to believe that he is not responsible—he will take the profit, but will not share the loss. But what is the reason which he gives for the distinction between us? His reason, as he declares, is because the proprietor of the Mail is wealthy and independent. It may be so; but I believe that is wealth and numbers and independence that of the Globe beats it hollow. (Loud applause.) Why, who founded the Mail! Sir John Maodonald. (Great cheering and laughter.) He, their first Minister, promoted the subscriptions to its stock, took stock himself, and got his contracting and expectant friends and hangers on to take more.
