There is no doubt as to its sterling qualities for the relief of pain; and the range of its action is very wide and general. For cramps, muscular and otherwise; for sprains, bruises, fresh cuts; for chest and throat affections, it is a very valuable and reliable remedy. No sooner should you get North this year without a bottle or two of Red Cross Oil on hand. Price, 25 cents a bottle. Tollef Lanolin will be found useful to prevent or relieve sunburn and windburn. As a general emollient it has no rival, because it approximates to the natural oil of the skin, and is therefore easily assimilated by it. Price, 20 cents a pot.

SUNLIGHT SOAP

TRY THE SUNLIGHT WAY.

Our Agricultural Society.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Mr. Editor.—Sure I know you will be interested when I tell you that I can get no good entirely out of Jim, for it's off to the agricultural meetings he is every other night and draming of bulls, rams, potatoes and Sable Island ponies till I have the bit of breakfast ready for him, the apoplexy. Yesterday mornin' I says to him, says I, Jim, what's come over ye, anyway? Not long since ye used to be a decent boy and spoke well of that darlint man, Sir Robert Bond, and now ye mix with the Tory heeler talking cauger and cabbage seed and whitewash. What's the matter wid ye at all, at all? Whist! Peggy, says he, whist! It's all turnin' out foine, and it's great fun I have entirely at those same meetings, for every man that don't get a bull or a couple of pigs and a $13 cheque a quarter in the bargain, swears vengeance on the Picnic Party, so he says, and those same meetings, bless your heart, will be the downfall of the gobbiers. But Jim, says I, do they let wimmin in? I'd like to hear thim myself berate this scurvy crowd that has charge of this dear old land of ours. It would do me more good, says I, than a cup of Payne's best tea, and that's sayin' a lot. Well, says Jim, to tell ye the truth, Peggy, wimmin ain't admitted, for ye see no decent man likes to swear before a lady; but I'll try and give ye the prosaydins, as they call thim.

First and foremost the Codner taylor gits up and reads something nobody understands but himself, and a foxy-headed chap that they call "Sammy the Sly" bawls out "carried!" But niver a thing can I see carried but his own cheque of $13 for keeping alive a bull for a few weeks. Then, begor, another sucker proposes Sammy for vice-chairman, and a one-handed man that's paid board for feeding his own horse sings out "carried!" Then a row commences about pigs, and the jawin' and shoutin' they had would make that poor beate choke with fun instead of fat. A man called "Lawyer John" wanted his pig to make money out of, and the other faction wanted theirs to multiply and run to and fro in the place and wear collars with Morris's picture hangin' to their collars. Some wanted Irish Cobblers for seed potatoes and more of them wanted flower seeds for Coronation Day; and not a few wanted to know who was payin' Morris's trip to the Old Country. It was foine, I tell ye, to hear "Lawyer John" spake so 'illigent.

But, Jim dear, say I, phwat about the lime? Didn't I hear Iverybody was to have a full barrel of lime for the askin'? Yes, Peggy, and it's meself that's goin' to have a barrel of that same lime to whitewash the tracks of the men Morris is sendin' for it's off to the agricultural meetings he is every other night and draming of bulls, rams, potatoes and Sable Island ponies till I have the bit of breakfast ready for him, the apoplexy. Yesterday mornin' I says to him, says I, Jim, what's come over ye, anyway? Not long since ye used to be a decent boy and spoke well of that darlint man, Sir Robert Bond, and now ye mix with the Tory heeler talking cauger and cabbage seed and whitewash. Skin Like Velvet.

Is greatly to be desired and is very attractive. There is one sure way of making your skin like velvet, and that is by using Snow Cream. It is neither sticky nor greasy, and the general verdict is "it makes your skin like velvet." W. T. COURTENAY, the Prescription Pharmacy, corner Duckworth and Prescott Streets, sells the Cream at 25c. per bot.—t.

First-Inter-Collegiate Cricket Match.

The St. Bonaventure's and Felldian Cricket teams met in the first inter-collegiate match yesterday afternoon when an interesting game resulted. The Felldians went first to the wicket and after a comparatively short innings were relieved for the score of 20 runs. The St. Bonaventure's put up a fine game and the last wicket fell for a score of 93. The B. F. C. boys made a better show in their second innings; ran up 46 before the last wicket fell. The St. Bonaventure's thus won by an innings and 27 runs. The game was a good one though the Felldians were slack in bowling and evidently required more practice.

The St. Bonaventure's and Methodist teams compete on Saturday afternoon when a good game is looked for. The games will be played during the season on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons.
