The Abnormal Development of the GIRAFFE is remarkable, but the abnormal development of the demand for SUNLIGHT SOAP is still more remarkable. It is not known how many people have never seen a Giraffe, but it is known that there are millions and millions of careful house-wives all over the world using

SUNLIGHT SOAP.

These housewives no longer dread the advent of wash-day, for, with SUNLIGHT SOAP as their ally, they are assured of a quick despatch of all dirt and uncleanness. SUNLIGHT SOAP saves your clothes.

A Tribute From

SIR ROBERT BOND.

The announced retirement of Sir Robert Bond from the public life of Newfoundland gives an opportunity to estimate his services to the empire outside the contentious arena of partisan politics. Sir Robert Bond, during the more than thirty years of his arduous political activities, has acquitted himself like a knight of mediaeval chivalry—"Sans peur et sans reproche." A gentleman of the highest literary culture, he has never sinned the white plume of his knightly honor by stooping to those engineering schemes and tricks that men of less delicate sense of right and wrong seem to pride themselves on being proficient in. Many Newfoundland Liberals may not have been in harmony with him in every matter of public policy, but all whether Liberals or Tories gladly recognized his purity of purpose; his statesmanship; his courtesy and his inflexible insistence on party discipline. It is now a part of the history of Newfoundland that in a period of acute crisis he pledged every cent of his private means to raise a loan which aided his native country over a period of great difficulty when some not very enlightened politicians thought it best that the country should become a crown colony. And to the condition of a "crown colony" Newfoundland had descended if Sir Robert Bond had not gone to the rescue in London. For nearly all the years of his political life, Sir Robert Bond had been identified with the Liberal party, which its supporters have always called the "party of progress." Sir Robert Bond was amongst the first champions of railway extension in Newfoundland. He believed in railways, but on an economic scale, lest the country should plunge into such irretrievable debt as would prove a menace to its Home Rule system of government. He also maintained that all railway work should be put up to tender and advertised in the press of the empire, lest monopoly should prove an impediment to real progress. It was for years a slogan in Newfoundland elections: "Vote for the man who gave you the ballot box." This, being interpreted, meant, vote for Sir Robert Bond, inasmuch as he was very largely instrumental in getting a bill for private and, by consequence, independent ballot making, through the House of Assembly. But Sir Robert Bond's name will be especially treasured in Newfoundland as the slayer of the dragon of bigotry and intolerance in the Island politics. On that platform of British fair play for Catholics as well as for all peoples, he appealed to the Protestant electorate of the noble-spirited and intelligent district of Twillingate and the great Protestant district of Twillingate, to its eternal credit be it recorded—returned this genuine British statesman to power by the largest majority ever given to any public man in the whole history of responsible government in Newfoundland. Sir Robert Bond, beyond any public man that ever lived in Newfoundland, has this distinction, that he was absolutely trusted and believed in by opponents as well as by supporters; by Catholic electors no less than by Protestants. His talent and genius and wealth and eloquence and literary culture, but beyond everything else he gave personal integrity and elevation of character and purity of ideal, and it is because of this that he withstood the fiery ordeal of such an exacting political period of three decades of years.—The New Freeman, St. John, New Brunswick, Jan. 17th, 1914.

LONDON, Jan. 25.
Sir David Gill, the Scottish astronomer, is dead, aged 71.

LONDON, Jan. 25.
The European Powers have decided on an international demonstration in Albanian waters to enforce their demands that Essad Pasha give up his claim to the throne of Albania. Each nation will send one ship to Durazzo.

HALIFAX, Jan. 25.
The American schooner Selma, Captain Doniney, ashore at Mager's Beach, is likely to become a total wreck. The s.s. Lady Laurier took off 14 of the crew, the captain and three men deciding to stay by the ship till later. The Selma had no fish on board.

MONTREAL, Jan. 25.
"Well, many of them are dead," was the reply of Dr. Ethier, when asked as to the condition of the tuberculosis patients treated by Dr. Friedmann. The doctor said that the Royal Edward Institute had decided that the Friedmann treatment was of no benefit and had consequently resolved not to experiment with it any further.

LONDON, Jan. 25.
Some 200,000 men employed in the building trade in London are threatened with a lock-out by employers, who demand that the Trades' Unions sign an agreement to work without question, with non-union men or quit. The men refused to comply, and declared that employers would have to withdraw the order before they took up their tools again.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 25.
One hundred women and children, and 150 federal soldiers were massacred by rebels recently near Vane-gas, north of San Luis Potosi. The soldiers with the women surrendered to the rebels, and were taken to a ranch near Matcutueta, where the alleged butchery occurred. Major Re-baldo and Capt. Ramirez, with a handful of men were the only ones to escape. They arrived here to-day, bringing news of the affair.

GLASGOW, Jan. 25.
A bomb outrage attributed to the arsonettes, virtually destroyed an extensive conservatory in the Glasgow Botanic Gardens, known as Kimble Crystal Palace. The glass roofs and sides of the structure were blown into thousands of atoms and many valuable tropical and other plants were ruined. The caretaker succeeded in severing the fuse of a second bomb just before the first had exploded. He had a narrow escape from losing his life, by being struck by flying splinters of metal and glass. Foot-prints found near the bushes in the vicinity of the Conservatory indicated that the perpetrators of the outrage had been hidden for sometime, waiting an opportunity to set the fuses of the bombs.

LONDON, Jan. 25.
The fact that 10,000 coal carriers were on strike in London, was brought home to citizens to-day by the severe cold wave. The men left work on Tuesday, demanding an increase of two cents a ton for loading coal; so as to bring their pay up to 20 cents a ton. Their absence from work had not been generally noticed as the weather had been rather warm. Residents followed the example of Leeds' citizens and volunteered to carry on the work till the strike was broken. A hundred medical students dressed in white smocks lifted and carried many tons to the hospitals, while hotel employees in gold-braided uniforms, fatigue parties from several guards' regiments, tradesmen, and even women got to work. Some strikers have already yielded.

There is a revival of the old-fashioned tatting on linen doilies and centerpieces. One even sees collars of it.

Cured Diseases of the Kidneys

And is Depended On to Right Stomach and Liver Disorders.
Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ills arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:
Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee street, Toronto, Ont., states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders." One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Healthy and Unhealthy Lighting.

Gas, it may be said, vintates the atmosphere. True. But it also helps to purify it. Its purifying power is greater than its vitiating power. Electricity does not vintate, nor does it purify. Hear what three eminent men have said:—

Much evidence has lately been adduced to show that gas is more useful than the electric light in promoting efficient ventilation of air. It is for this, amongst other reasons, that gas is being frequently substituted for the electric light. The latest example is, perhaps, the Society of Medical Officers of Health, which has recently installed gas on its premises, after experience with the electric light.—Dr. Jamieson B. Hurry.

He would merely add that no member who had experience of their meeting room under the old conditions could deny the improvement that had taken place since gas had been substituted for the electric light and the new system of heating and ventilation had been installed.—Dr. Reginald Duffield, before the Society of Medical Officers of Health.

I have in my mind's eye, at the moment a hall which, in the old days, was lighted by gas, and in which a large audience could, with comfort, sit through an hour's lecture, or with pleasure through a three hours' dinner, but which, with the march of civilization, had its illumination changed from gas to electricity, the latter being employed with all the latest refinements to effect the lighting under the best conditions, with the result that any large gathering within its walls leads to a state little short of asphyxiation.—Vivian B. Lewis, Professor of Chemistry at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich.—Nov. 8, 11

Household Notes

Those who cannot eat pastry, yet require a nice baked apple pie, should prepare some apples in the usual way for stewing, and put into a pie dish with sugar to taste and the strained juice of a lemon. Then cover with fine, stale breadcrumbs, pour a little new milk over them and bake until the apple is soft and the top nicely browned.

To make pineapple marmalade, take the juice from a large tin of pineapple and put it into a preserving pan. Then cut up six pounds of good cooking apples and cook for a short time. Chop the pineapple small and add to the apple, allowing three-quarters pound loaf sugar to each pound of apple. Boil until it will set when tried on a plate.

A very handy pincushion for the sewing machine is made of two pieces of black velvet ribbon six inches long and three inches wide sewed together on their edges and stuffed with wool. This makes a long, rather flat cushion, very easy to stick pins in. Narrow black ribbons were sewed to each end and the cushion was tied to the sewing machine in a convenient place and stacked full of pins and needles. Thursday is generally set apart for cleaning windows and sweeping the living room and cleaning the bathroom—Thursday afternoon and evening being the maid's outing times. Friday is a general sweeping day. Saturday being baking day. There should be one day in every week when the housewife has not planned anything, but does the little odd things which have no name. But do not become a slave of routine; the best rules can be broken with impunity.

The piano case sometimes needs cleaning. For this, provide two basins of clean, lukewarm water, to be renewed as often as necessary and three good-sized pieces of cheesecloth. Wring one cloth nearly dry from the first basin, rub in ivory soap and clean about a square foot of the surface. Wring the second cloth nearly dry from the second basin and wipe off the soaps. Rub and wring the cloth again and wipe any moisture that remains. Rub dry with the third cloth, using quick, light strokes and little pressure. Proceed in this way until the entire instrument has been cleaned. Then go over slightly with a clean, soft handkerchief, or a very soft new chambray.

Having at last succeeded in getting an order out of one of the largest firms in the North, after months of hard work, he purchased a big box of costly cigars, which he intended to present to the manager as a token of his gratitude.

But the manager was highly offended. "Naw, naw, mon," said he, "I cannot tak' them; it's just bribery, that's what it is, and me one of councillors of the town, too!" "But surely," persisted the traveller, "you can accept a present from me?" "I couldna, mon; I couldna do it!" "Well, then, I'll tell you what—I'll sell the cigars to you for a purely nominal sum; say, a shilling the box." "Well, that's different," answered the scrupulous one. "An' as you're so pressin' I'll pay yo cash for three boxes!"

LORD'S DAY ALLIANCE.—Owing to yesterday's storm it was arranged that the proposed Lord's Day Alliance service will not be held for two weeks. Announcements to that effect were made in the Churches yesterday.
