Fishermen Discontented.

Notwithstanding the highly colored picture presented daily by the personal organ of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, with the accompanying legend of good times and general prosperity thrown in, fishermen are not accepting the Advocate's explanation of good things to come as a really trustworthy promise, nor can they be led to believe that the Fishery Regulations are anything but a barrier and obstruction to trade. In St. John's to-day are some hundreds of toilers who are staggered by conditions which present themselves to their notice. Keen observers of the trend of the times, these men are now witnessing personally the collapse of their season's endeavors. They do not have to be either told or shown by the Opposition press that their one-time friend and adviser has deserted them and reneged. They now know for themselves how great is the defection of their former advocate, and how base the betrayal of their interests by the President of the Fishermen's Protective Union. Traitor to his former followers, he cannot longer hope to beguile them by his specious argument and cajoling tongue. They have seen him as he is, have regarded him as disloyal to themselves and are now appraising him at his real value, without the fictitious enhancement of bygone days and deeds. The veneer has been rubbed off and the man appears in his true to nature role.

There has been much talk among the outport men now in the city, during the past week, of organising a demonstration as a protest against the manner in which the fruits of their toil are being sacrificed to benefit certain interests. These men have expressed strong opinions on the way in which they have been treated, and are entirely disgusted with the idiosyncrasies of Mr. Coaker. They have repeatedly called at his office but their visits have proven futile. They cannot see—or are not permitted to see—the All-Highest. Their personal protests have been disregarded and they now are unanimous in sentiment that the time is ripe for organization into a popular demonstration. The spirit to carry this on was never more strong among fishermen than at present, and it only needs initiative on the part of schooner masters and crews to successfully carry to a conclusion one of the greatest processions ever seen in St. John's. The spirit of such a move would amply prove the unpopularity of the Fish Regulations amongst the fishing community, and it would undoubtedly tend to direct vice regal attention to the antagonism which has developed against the present advisers of the Crown's representative in this dominion. There is no way out of the difficult position into which the fishermen have been placed, other than that of popular protest, generated through the medium of a mass meeting, and no time should be lost by the leaders of the toilers in bringing this to a head. As a matter of fact this project has been received with considerable favor from some of those who are yet friendly disposed toward Mr. Coaker, and numbers of fishermen have been advised by these friends to go ahead. But—an ulterior motive was at the bottom of their desires—and that was the sinister suggestion made to some Bonavista Bay fishermen that they incorporate into their resolutions a condemnation of the Opposition press. This suggestion, we need scarcely say was repudiated with scorn by the toilers, who see, in the press opposed to the Government, their best friends, as having shown them the real facts of a real situation, and given them many thoughts meet for reflection. Considering the present situation we venture to advise the many visitors now in the city with fish to sell, that a gigantic demonstration organized on a proper basis, and conducted by capable leaders, will have more effect in relieving the present stringency, caused by the Fish Regulations, than any thing else that may be contemplated.

Bakeries Stock Up.

Owing to accumulating stocks and poor sales the biscuit bakeries are now running short time, and it is feared that if trade conditions do not brighten that many of the employees will have to be paid off. So little baking is to be done that the management of two of the concerns in order to keep their men on have given them work outside their trade and each day during the past week the bakers may be seen painting, cleaning and whitewashing the premises in which they are employed. Of course the St. John's "Daily Puzzle" and the White Nape Advocate will say this is not a sign of the times but is in anticipation of the homecoming of the Premier, Hon. R. A. Squires.

Church Parade.

To-morrow afternoon the C. L. B. Cadets will hold their 29th Anniversary Church Parade. The battalion will form up at the armoury and will attend Divine Service at St. Mary's Church. After the service if the weather is fine, the battalion will probably parade around town before returning to the armoury. At 8 o'clock to-morrow morning there will be a communicants parade, also at St. Mary's. It is hoped that the afternoon parade will be a record turn out.

Three Fish Laden Schooners

TOTAL WRECKS AT ENGLEE.

The following message was received this morning by the Fisheries Department from Mr. J. D. Fitzgerald, J.P., Conche: "Schr. Ad. Mildred, master, Robert Bragg, fish laden, was lost at Englee; crew safe. Schr. Chips, master, M. H. Roberts, fish laden, lost at Englee; crew safe. Schr. J. A. McLean, master, Wm. Cross, fish laden, lost at Englee; crew safe. Terrible tale from west; these schooners are total wrecks."

Rock Cut 18 Feet Deep.

The work of digging the cut for the new water line to supply the Jensen Camp, Model Farm and Lunatic Asylum is progressing under the direction of Mr. Geo. Quigley. Some fifty men are now engaged blasting; the work being very tedious, owing to the hard nature of the rock. An immense amount of blasting has to be done in many places. The rock cut is 18 feet deep, and the whole extent of the blasting to be done is about 500 feet. The water pipes have nearly all been conveyed to their destination. How many thousands of dollars more than the estimate, the work will cost is not known.

Meeting Places in St. John's.

Up to a few years ago there used to be say half a dozen well known meeting places in St. John's; Rawlin's Cross for one, the General Post Office is another. Don't you remember pacing to and fro up and down the sidewalk waiting for A— or B—, or Aunt Mary or Uncle Ned? They never seemed to be punctual (bless them), or if they were by any chance that happened to be the one occasion on which you were late and had to waste time in explanations and apologies as to the cause of the delay.

There were other places too, in different localities, at which the conditions were the same, and the wonder is that the pleasure of meeting was not marred more than it was by pains and penalties endured in the process.

There's another meeting place now though, and the cold gusty conditions of the other places have gone into the times of forgetfulness, and long may they stay there. This meeting place is situated in the East End of Water Street. The building is light, airy and warm, there is always plenty to see, and if one is kept waiting (and one must allow for accidents) the time passes quickly and pleasantly.

Of course you know the place—everybody does. It is The Royal Stores. "I always meet my friends at The Royal Stores," a lady said to me the other day, and as I wandered through the store one afternoon, looking about me, I began to understand why it is one so often hears that remark. To begin with, there is the general atmosphere of the place. It's an atmosphere of friendliness, of bright, cheerful energy. In the second place there is no need to waste time at The Royal Stores. Suppose you find yourself with half an hour to spare, it's too early for your appointment, but come to The Royal Stores and the time will fly all too quickly; you may rest in the Gramophone Parlor, listening to the latest music, or you can visit the spacious Showrooms and examine at your leisure beautiful afternoon and evening gowns, blouses, &c., and when the time arrives, you can meet your friends, feeling warm, happy and in the best of tempers. It is one of the ideals of this Store to be regarded as a social as well as a shopping centre. How near the ideal come of fulfilment can be judged by the frequent repetition of this sentence, "I always meet my friends at The Royal Stores."

THE GLEANER.

Wonderful Progress.

Editor Evening Telegram

Dear Sir—I was very much surprised on looking over the papers yesterday evening to see a clipping from the Western Star in which it said that the trucks recently shipped to the South Branch Coal Mine were now in operation and that they were delivering coal to the station to the amount of 14 tons per day.

As a native of the West Coast and where I have visited lately I wish to say that it was currently reported during my visit there, and I think the report was correct, that up to a short time ago there were two engines and two pumps at work and they failed to keep the little shaft free and another engine and pump were installed, and at the present time there are now three engines and three pumps going full blast night and day, making to all appearance one last and desperate effort to see the bottom of the well.

It is also currently reported that up to the present they have not raised coal enough to drive the engines and that men are kept continually cutting wood to keep the fires going.

I have also seen in the papers that three more trucks have arrived to carry coal from the mine to the railroad, and that they will proceed there shortly.

How long are the people of this country going to listen to such dope? A short time ago we were told that a Mr. Hatch cut a 4 ft. seam of coal at Howley, the correctness of which is questionable. If the public is to be measured out such information why doesn't Mr. Hatch give us something over his own signature. If it is taking three pumps and an army of men to take the water of the South Branch Coal deposit, how much over $20.00 per ton is this coal costing the Colony?

$500,000 was sanctioned at last year's Session of the Legislature and this money has to be paid by the residents of this Colony, in return for which, if coal matters were handled right, coal could be landed in St. John's at from $10.00 to $12.00 per ton. Seeing the people have to pay for this, how long are they going to stand for it? Talk about sugar, this coal racket has sugar and codfish beaten a thousand years.

Yours truly,

M. G.

Young Women's A.B.C.

A meeting of the Young Women's Adult Bible Class of George Street, will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. in the Minister's Vestry. Mr. Hemmeon will be the speaker, taking for his subject "A Young Woman's Ideals." A solo will be rendered by Mr. Leonard Mews. All visitors will receive a hearty welcome.

The Dispute.

We don't care whether people Wrangle over St. John's mud or the different kinds of eggs, as no doubt the League of Nations will gladly act as Arbitrator, and award contestants a slice of Turkey. However, if you get into argument, we would like to suggest that you Marconi us for a bunch of our beautiful Chrysanthemums and "Say it with Flowers."
