The Story of the Twenty-Ninth

(BY LIEUT.-COL. T. NANGLE, C.F.)

(By Lieut.-Col. T. Nangle, C.F.)
During the war it was constantly remarked that the "Twenty-Ninth" possessed a "Unity" or "Divisional Spirit" unequalled by any other formation; a spirit that was constantly fostered by those in command from General to "Sub." This esprit de corps was always apparent but in action it became the very soul of the Division and its greatest fighting asset. Ours was the first to wear the Divisional sign and the only one entitled to its own "Badge of Honor."

Some years have elapsed since the Armistice but the Twenty-Ninth lives in its organized Association. At first this included in its membership only a small proportion of those who served in the Division. Now local branches have been formed in various centres in the United Kingdom and in other parts of the Empire. These local branches have their own Honorary Secretaries who deal with all branch details and funds, arrange entertainments, etc., but are linked together by the Honorary Secretary of the Association. In short there is now a Parent "Twenty-Ninth" Association with London as its headquarters and many independent "Twenty-Ninth" Associations with local by-laws. Twice a year the Committee of the Association meets in London and any decisions arrived at are referred to the general meeting at the bi-annual dinner and are ratified by a show of hands. On the 30th November it was decided that as the historian appointed to write the history of the Division had been prevented by ill-health from doing so, the work was to be taken out of his hands. General de Lisle, who commanded the "Twenty-Ninth" for nearly three years offered to write the accounts of that period of his command provided Generals Hunter Weston and Cayley would assist to the extent of the period which each commanded the Division. This proposal was received with enthusiasm, more so, as it was definitely stated that this work is to be a human document and not a military history. It will have as its title "The Story of the Twenty-Ninth," and will contain just a bare outline of historical events into which framework will be inserted stories of brave deeds and other items of interest which should not be allowed to pass into the regions beyond recall. "The Story of the Twenty-Ninth," if it fulfills its objects should be a book of intense interest to all connected with the Division as well as to the general public, and one that can be given boys of the next generation as an example to show how the sons of our great Empire defended its liberty in the great World War. This result, to which the Authors aspire, can only be reached if all ranks and all units send in detailed stories of brave deeds which should never be forgotten. Stories of V.C.'s are now recorded in detail but those of D.S.O.'s, M.C.'s, D.C.M.'s, M.M.'s and the innumerable brave acts that were never reported or rewarded are the stories that are required. I understand the official Regimental History is now being written under a contract made by Mr. John R. Bennett, sometime Minister of Militia, with one F. A. MacKenzie who, I understand is now residing in Moscow where he is writing the history. Mr. MacKenzie had afternoon tea at Headquarters Mess on two occasions during the war. I feel sure the outcome of his labors will be of great interest to the First Battalion, and also will be of great historical value; but we, as members of the Regiment owe it to our Dead Comrades and to Newfoundland that the honored place we held in the most famous of British Divisions should not pass into oblivion. But besides our own history we must also have our place in the "Story of the Twenty-Ninth." Only those who were through the mill know the price we paid and we owe it to posterity that that price should be recorded. There are hundreds of stories connected with the Regiment which should be recorded and it is the duty of those who know them to pass them along to me. Those stories fall into two classes:

(a) Deeds of heroism and gallantry.
(b) Tales of wit and humor.

I now make an appeal to all ex-soldiers to send me short stories of their own adventures or of the gallant deeds of others which they witnessed; also items that appealed to their sense of humor. During the past four years I have collected a mass of material from War Office Records, from notes of General Officers Commanding, newspaper files, and contemporary war histories. But to make our history and the story of the Twenty-Ninth a success it is absolutely necessary to have that personal touch which will make the reader feel that he is reading the story of red blooded men, not the manœuvring of pawns in the huge game of war. If you are a busy man and have not time to write please drop into the G.W.V.A. office and your story will be taken and edited.

Hurrah for Kilbride!

Cashin, Linegar and Hunt Receive a Hearty Welcome ---
Will Add to the Big Majority that Will Down Coakerism on Polling Day.

The demonstration given Messrs. Cashin, Linegar and Hunt, by the people of Kilbride last night, was the most remarkable ever given in this settlement to any candidates. Practically every voter in the village turned out besides many from the Topsail Road and surrounding sections. The candidates were first met at Waterford Bridge by this great assembly and in a torchlight procession all marched to the Kilbride Club House, a mile further along the road. Along the route the houses were all illuminated whilst bonfires blazed on the hillside. The demonstration was unique. On reaching the place of meeting, the candidates were escorted to the platform amidst enthusiastic cheering. On motion of Mr. P. Dooling, Mr. Sam Walsh was appointed Chairman. Mr. Walsh thanked the audience, and in a short speech outlined the object for which the meeting was called. The Chairman then called on Sir Michael Cashin.

A "SPECIAL ELECTION" DODGE.

Sir Michael was given a right royal welcome and in his opening remarks noted that it was now thirty years since he first had the pleasure of addressing a meeting of voters at Kilbride. Lord Morris was a candidate at that time and the Chairman was the late Andrew MacDonald of revered memory. Sir Michael referring to the Squire's Manifesto of unfulfilled promises said, to-day he has no Manifesto and is going to the country on his "special election" without a policy, and nothing to offer but a Humber Deal, that is kept in secret. Sir Michael referred to the challenge he made to Squires to come out, and to, but which has not been answered to date. Sir Michael dealt at some length on the carnival of squandering that has dominated the present Government, throughout their three and a half years of office. He spoke of the matter in which taxation had been doubled, the loss on our railway of five and a half millions, the useless expenditure on roads that were never used such as at Badger and Deer Lake, the salt, fish and sugar scandals, and the numerous other scandals that are the only records of the Squire's Administration. Reference was made to the unemployment and emigration that is so rampant in our country. Sir Michael dealt with the fishery regulations which caused so much ruin and destruction. Mr. V. B. Bennett in his Manifesto given to the country last week, told this story of the bungling and incompetence of the Government. He, Sir Michael, was backing Bennett's Manifesto, because it was an honest and straightforward attempt to rescue Newfoundland and he felt that there could be only one verdict, after weighing both sides of the story and that was to vote the straight ticket for the Bennett candidates, Cashin, Linegar and Hunt.

LABOR CANDIDATE ON THE GOVERNMENT'S DUTY.

Mr. Linegar was given a big ovation. He made many friends in Kilbride in 1919 and 1920. In a short speech he spoke of the conditions of to-day, brought about by the negligence of the Government. The duty of the Government to-day was to come out and give their story of what they have done in three and a half years, and on that record they must be prepared to stand or fall. When they visited Kilbride in 1919 they did not tell the people they were out to line their own pockets at the expense of the taxpayers, but they doubted and trebled their salaries no sooner were they elected. Mr. Linegar spoke of the Bennett Manifesto and the men in the party who were fully capable of carrying out their duties in a business like manner, and he was convinced that by the return of the Bennett party could Newfoundland be rescued.

WHAT THE SPECIAL ELECTION IS COSTING.

Mr. Hunt, while this was his first visit to Kilbride in a political capacity, was known to all and received a warm and enthusiastic welcome. He dealt at some length with many phases of the Squire's Administration of the past three and a half years; he paid particular attention to the 23 promises that yet remain to be fulfilled. The Government now come to the country and have the face to ask the intelligent elector to vote for a Humber Deal, that only Campbell and Squires are supposed to know anything about. Not one man in Kilbride to-day could say he was better off than in 1919, owing to the manner in which our revenue has been handled and taxation increased. This election is costing over $500,000 squandered to return if possible an incapable Government, who had proven worthless when on trial. Mr. Hunt referred to the Menace of Coakerism, to which was due much of our ill, and he called upon the voters of Kilbride to rise in their might and put down this menace once and for all. If you vote for Squires you vote for Coaker, and Coaker means ruin and madcap schemes. In conclusion the speaker appealed for the straight ticket for Cashin, Linegar and Hunt. Before the meeting adjourned Sir M. P. Cashin proposed a vote of thanks to the Chairman which was unanimously carried and after hearty cheers for Bennett and Better Times, Sir Michael Cashin and colleague, the meeting concluded with the National Anthem. Kilbride will give Cashin, Linegar and Hunt a ninety per cent. vote on polling day.

Girls Guide Movement.

ENJOYABLE EVENING SPENT AT COLLEGE HALL.

A large audience attended the Girl Guide's display in the Methodist College Hall last night. Promptly at 8 p.m. the Third St. John's Company Girl Guides paraded for roll call and salutation of the flag. Lady Allard yes, the Island Commissioner accepted enrolments. A short address followed, in which Lady Allard outlined the ideals and principles of the Girl Guide Movement. The address was listened to with rapt attention and created a profound impression on its hearers. Several scout games were indulged in as well as exhibitions of ceremonies in connection with Guide Life, and a short concert was given by the young people. A sketch "Kingfishers to the rescue" was admirably portrayed by Misses Wilson, Robertson, Bennett, Soper (2) and the Kingfisher patrol. Folk dances were also pleasingly done and the entire entertainment was a great success. The accompanists were Miss H. Oats, L.T.C.L. and Mr. Gordon Christian, L.R.A.M. The affair concluded about 10 o'clock with the singing of the National Anthem.
