LOYD GEORGE OPENS FIRE ON TORY MEMBERS
Former British Premier Starts Off Election Campaign in London.
REITERATES HIS POLICY
Declares He Stands First and Last To Serve His Country.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(By Associated Press).—Former Prime Minister David Lloyd George started off his campaign in London today with a fighting speech to an enthusiastic meeting of the coalition Liberal members of Parliament here, throwing down the gauntlet to the Conservatives, whose attack upon the late government, he declared, left no alternative but to "spread the war." The little Welshman stood by his Manchester speech of a week ago last Saturday, reiterating his declared intention to support any party or government pursuing a policy of peace, economy and steady progress, neither revolutionary nor reactionary.

"We are confronted," said Mr. Lloyd George at the outset, "with a very important decision, affecting not only the future of the country but the future of the world."

Cider Bought At Strathroy Church Bazaar Found To Have Wicked Kick

STRATHROY, Oct. 25.—Cider seized by provincial officers in the hotel of Edward Upton was found after analysis to be too strong, but Magistrate Trueman quickly found the defendant not guilty on a charge of "keeping for sale," when it came out that the cider had been brought to the hotel from a church bazaar one day before the seizure. Hence for the crown was given by Officers Stratton and Barr, the latter being merely the future of those here and those who support them in the country, but a decision which affects the interests of the country itself. That is a more important matter for us all.

"One chapter in the history of the politics of this country is for the moment closed. A new one is opened. What is printed on that page will depend largely on the attitude we adopt."

He counseled calmness and courage, and asserted the interests of the country must come first. "I have seen parties destroyed by personal resentments," continued the former prime minister. "I have seen parties rendered impotent by personal resentments. I have seen their judgment deflected, and for that reason they are not making the contribution they ought to to the well-being of the people, for whose prosperity we are deeply concerned. We will not make that mistake whatever happens. We will consider the issue to which we are deeply attached first. Its interests must be deepest in our hearts; its interests must be highest in our concern."

Great Britain First.

"Great Britain first; any party, even our own second, and even last. Now, that is our policy. We have stood for national unity—that is, unity of all men, all creeds, parties and sections—for the purpose, first of all, of winning the war and afterwards of restoring the world to its after-war difficulties."

It was not his fault, declared Mr. Lloyd George to his hearers, if party faction had arisen and unity had been for the moment broken. The war had been won and the country was getting through its troubles in peace gradually, and throughout the world re-establishment and success was being accomplished.

"Our credit is being built up in a way that amazes the whole world," continued Mr. Lloyd George. Trade was beginning to turn, unemployment was going down. In fact, success was becoming so manifest that some people thought it time to seize the profits. Factions had been formed, and the success of the coalition had made some of the ablest, most experienced and most honorable men in the Conservative party say: "This isn't jannock" (provincial English for "fair play").

"I can understand," he continued, "a revolt of under-secretaries. I can also understand for the reason indicated why the wiser heads of the party did not join in the revolt."

"The present may look prosperous and promising. The future is dark and difficult, and the wiser men hesitated, were reluctant, apart from the fact that, as Lord Balfour said, 'These things, gentlemen, don't do.' They are not to be found in the discussions of the cabinet," he continued, "and I have looked at the speeches delivered as an indication of the policy of the new government, and I am still more perplexed."

He thought it hardly worth while breaking up the great national combination that had achieved so much in war and peace, and in order merely to substitute Lord Salisbury for Lord Balfour as lord president of the council.

Mr. Lloyd George asserted that conditions here were tranquil and that he had seen conditions abroad worse than now. The Geneva pact had been kept in letter and in spirit and peace reigned along the whole disturbed area from the Baltic to the Mediterranean.

The ex-premier credited the coalition with settling the trouble between Turkey and Greece, "by strong and firm action, which showed that Great Britain meant to have peace on terms honorable to our country, and which would be one of security for the world." To have peace, he said, one must be strong. Great Britain was not going to extend her responsibilities, "but she must not be afraid of her responsibilities. A Britain that goes to the councils of the world afraid of her responsibilities is a Britain that will cease to count from that moment."

After declaring that he stood by his Manchester speech for support of neither revolution or reaction, but of any party or government working along the lines of peace, economy and steady progress. Mr. Lloyd George said that in order to follow the traditional policy of the country "we must stand for moderation in treatment of foreign affairs, and work with allies to the best of our power, but not abandon the great British policy for which this country has always stood. We must not be tied behind the chariot of any other land."

Wants U. S. In League.
On the question of reparations, Mr. Lloyd George said, there must be no attempt to impose upon Germany any payment beyond her capacity. "And what is her capacity?" he asked. "She should pay."

"I do not stand for a policy that

TWO CONVICTED AS MURDERERS

Nick Thomas and Harry Rutka Found Guilty At Welland.
Both Will Be Sentenced For Crime At Court Opening Today.

WELLAND, Oct. 25.—Nick Thomas of Port Colborne, and Harry Rutka of Thorold, were found guilty by a jury today after two hours deliberation, of the murder of Adam Solton of Thorold, on Aug. 20 last. They will be sentenced by Chief Justice Meredith tomorrow morning.

Adam was found dead on the lawn in front of his home and Tony was found dangerously wounded and was treated for some weeks at the hospital in St. Catharines.

Giving evidence today, Tony said he was at home on that Sunday evening and his brother Adam was with him. Harry Rutka and Nick Rutka called shortly before 8 o'clock. They stayed in the house for a while and then went outside, Adam with them. Not long after he saw them fighting on the street. The three visitors had knives and his brother was unarmed. He rushed for the house and Thomas attacked him. He did not know what they were quarrelling about, as they had not started before they left the house.

Tony's wife, Nellie, said she also saw the fighting. She thought there had been trouble for some time over whiskey.

Giving evidence in his own defense, Thomas admitted that he had gone to Solton's house accompanied by Nick and Harry Rutka, but claimed he took no part in the fight, except to hit a man in the mouth who had slapped him. He then hurried to the station and taken a train for Hamilton.

SLAIN COUPLE USED SIGNALS
Pastor and Choir Singer Employed Care in Telephone Conversations.

Alleged Eyewitness of Murder Fails To Identify Leading Characters.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 25.—The Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were conscious of being spied upon for some time prior to their murder, according to new evidence unearthed by investigators today.

Mrs. Mills, Opie, whose telephone was frequently used by Mrs. Mills, testified that the couple were so afraid of answering decoy calls and being trailed into making damaging admissions that they had signals and countersigns which were exchanged over the wire before they dared talk freely.

For instance, when Mrs. Mills got Hall on the telephone she always whistled a few bars of "Just Like a Gypsy" before talking. Then she listened for an answering signal.

Presumably Hall whistled some other tune, but Opie did not recall it. He was agreed upon, so each could be sure of the other's identity.

During the last days before the final tragedy, Mrs. Mills often threatened suicide, according to Mrs. Opie. The looked and talked about not being able to "find a way out" and said she would drown herself in the canal.

Mrs. Jane Gibson, alleged eyewitness of the murder, has been unable to identify any of the leading characters in the case, it was learned today. Confronted with various suspects and asked whether she recognizes any resemblance to the man and woman whom she says she saw commit the murder, she shakes her head.
