Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Jan. 11 .- London O. H. Juniors went down to a 1 to 0 defeat at the hands of the local youngsters here tonight in an en-gagement that brought forth better play than was expected on the rough Thhe game was a rattling good one from star tto finish. In the first period the puck was held at the London end of the ice for 16 minutes. Penalties were for minor offences and were evenly divided.

The second period was merely a bombardment of the London goal till Jemmett, Woodstock's star, skated the full length of the ice, wove through the whole London defence and scored unassisted the one and only goal of the game, as pretty a piece of work as has been seen on the local ice. goaltenders as the local team found

Both goaltenders were good. London team seemed to consist no difficulty in reaching a position to shoot at him, and only for his fine work the score would have been big Milton Pascoe, local defence man, got cut in the head in a mix in front of the goal, but gamely continued. The Woodstock team has won its first four games and should be there or thereabouts at the finish.

Granting of Waivers on "Long John" Scott Emphasizes Jinx.

New York, Jan. 11 .- The granting of waivers on "Long John" Scott of the New York Giants emphasizes the hoodoo which has followed world's series heroes, particularly those under the management of John J.

in the winning of the 1922 pennant, Scott was the pitching hero of that series which his team won from the Yankees. Other Giants who have een turned loose afterward includ "Casey" Stengel, whose bat won the Giants' only two games of the last series, and Johnny Rawlings and Jess Barnes, who made their records

How safe would you feel if you had a two-run lead with Rube Waddeli or Walter Johnson pitching? The same thing goes for Young, Walsh and Faber. What do you suppose John McGraw, or any other manager, would give for a pitching staff like that today?

Ed Walsh, to my mind, was one of the game's greatest pitchers. He had wonderful control and terrific speed.

While the batter was waiting on the pitcher lightning flashes showed through the cloud, followed by heavy thunder, and the crowd in the bleachers started for shelter.

The storm burst just as the batter swung on the ball. He hit it squarely on the nose. Everybody could hear the crack, but in the growing darkness we could not see the ball. In fact we could barely make out the wonderful control and terrific speed.

Now, there is a ball club to which the fine points of the game are second nature. All a manager would have to do would be lay out a system. He could depend on every one of them knowing what he was talking about and working it out to the best advantage.

How Safe Would You Feel?

As some of you may know, neavy rain clouds and the smoke from the various industrial plants and factories occasionally make it dark in Pittsburg long before the hour of sunset. On those days the ball games are very gloomy affairs. I have known of a game being called on account of darkness long before 4 o'clock.

How Safe Would You Feel?

The way that team could field flelders. A dark, black cloud came though, they wouldn't need to be such terrible hitters.
