If the natural adaptability and the intrinsic beauty of the old Inch Arran beach were developed it could be converted into an ideal watering-place for summer colonies, and there is positively no doubt but what the enterprise would bring in a splendid revenue to both the promoters of the undertaking and the whole town of Dalhousie. Will such a project ever be undertaken or will this famous old spot on the North Shore be allowed to remain in disuse?

This is a question which is sometimes asked by citizens but more frequently by visitors to the shiretown. As time goes on, those who are most familiar with this particular nook on the Bay Chaleur coast line gradually regard it with less interest, and it is only when some outsider stirs the eloquence through its beauty voices his volunitive praise that those living in proximity to the famous old beach even meditate seriously on its possibilities as a summer resort. Yet these possibilities do exist, and in no small measure. And it is much to be regretted that no aggressive move has been made in recent years to develop the natural resources of this famous old beach spot.

All other citizens at least will remember the old Inch Arran Hotel, the huge and famous old structure that in later years before its destruction by fire, was owned and operated by Mr. J. E. Dean of this place. And with this memory citizens can recall the scenes of activity about this delightful summering place and the consequential benefit derived therefrom by merchants and the town as a whole. How welcome would be the return of this old time activity and incidentally the prosperous stir and the money it would naturally bring.

There is no reason, so far as we know why the Inch Arran as a summer resort cannot be revived. The old hotel is gone but the same boys and waves still lap the shore, the bathing beach, the same fresh evening breezes freighted with that exhilarating, salty tinge of the sea, the same old time fishing, the same visitors cheeks with a soft, caressing touch; the same luxuriant green foliage, brightened by all the multi-coloured hues of nature's array of flowers still cheer the landscape and the same friendly sun still pours down its warm rays, bringing the visitors face with the lustrous tint of health. Across on the farther coast the same blue-tinted hills in all their majestic grandeur still tower among the passing clouds and impress the mind with an awesome sense of vastness and the watching eye with an infinite touch of beauty. And the same gentle afternoon wind scented with the perfume of new mown hay and wild flowers stirs in the tree tops and mingles with the wailing and voices wafting the visitor away in soft slumber with its dreamy seductive music.

Winters and summers have come and gone in unnumbered changes and decay, but this old beach spot itself or its adaptability as a salubrious, quiet, restful summer resort have not suffered in the least. Its many features for exploitation are as attractive as ever and simply await the efforts of an enterprising person or persons to inaugurate initiative and a certain amount of business ability.

Neither of two plans might be adopted. A person with faith in the potential possibilities of the Inch Arran as a successful watering place might now take a big summer hotel. What possibility there is to lease or buy land on the shore we do not know, but there are several ways of arousing interest and eliciting co-operation. In the event of a shortage of capital, a joint stock company could be formed and the project put on a solid and satisfactory basis. Another very important part of the enterprise would be an adequate advertising campaign. Such schemes are annually devised by those interested in tourist travel through the United States and in different parts of Canada. It has been proven that Canada and her scenic beauty and many unequalled privileges for tourists has never been more internationally famous as she deserves, and men directly interested in attracting tourist trade are beginning to see this mistake. On a smaller scale this is true of the province and in a lesser degree, of our own county of Restigouche.

The other plan for the development of the Inch Arran into a summer resort is the idea of a sort of summer colony, where those who wished to take advantage of it could rent or lease summer cottages or lease a lot and build a suitable bungalow for themselves. It is just possible that this latter plan may appeal to the present owners. The portion of the beach which could be utilized in such a way comprises probably six acres more or less. The beach, or water frontage must approximate to 900 feet in length. The area of the beach itself is about 600 feet at the widest point. It is said that a small portion of the premises is somewhat of a damp nature but through proper drainage this could be easily eliminated.

Access can be had to the southern or Gallop property by means of Hamilton Avenue while the Dean property is bordered on the northern side by the Inch Arran Road. A street run-

NEW BRUNSWICK WATER POWERS

Fredericton, N. B.—The Province of New Brunswick, shown by a recent general survey, possesses an annual water-power equivalent to 1,300,000 tons of coal. The Province contains no extensive coal areas and most of the coal for domestic and industrial use is imported. The Provincial Government has determined on a policy of water-power development and already the construction of the first paper mill is well under way. It is regarded as an essential of the power development policy that the forest resources of the Province be kept clear of fire. The chief use of harnessed water-power will be the manufacture of forest products.

Happenings of The Week

The lighthouses went into operation on Tuesday night for the first time since early in the winter of 1922.

Thursday was observed as Ascension Day by special services in the Anglican and the Roman Catholic churches.

The minimum rate for electric light is one dollar per month, beginning May 1st.

Hon. C. H. LeBlanc received a despatch on Saturday announcing the birth of a son to his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Colton, at the Maternity Hospital, St. John, N. B.

Garden lots in the town are being ploughed and preparations are being way for extensive cultivation of the soil this season.

It is reported that the Dalhousie Lumber Company's big saw-mill will start operations this week. After a two year's shut down, the opening of this large mill should prove a boon to the town.

A large number of logs belonging to the lumber companies of Dalhousie, went adrift in the recent spring freshets and are being washed up by the tides along the shore. Logs belonging to the Dalhousie Lumber Company are stamped with a green "D" on the end; the Sydney Company's logs are stamped with "B.C." and three white spots.

Dalhousie enjoyed its warmest day of the season on Tuesday. The thermometer in the early morning registered only thirty-nine degrees, and the air was quite chilly, but after the sun arose, the temperature increased steadily until the high level of sixty-eight degrees was reached at 2 p.m. The day was clear, bright and sunny with little if any wind.

FEAST TO THE REV. J. A. HART

Pupils of Dalhousie Convent Give Brilliant Entertainment.

Dalhousie, May 16th.—Tuesday being the feast of Rev. J. A. Hart, who has been in charge of the R. C. congregation of Dalhousie during the last four years, the pupils of the convent gave a very enjoyable entertainment in the hall of the convent.

There was a large audience, and sitting near Rev. Father Hart, were his conferees, Rev. R. Robichaud, Upperville, and Rev. A. Melanson, G. Elmer, M. Barthe and Messrs. W. Cragg, G. Doyle and J. Thivierge.

Miss Beatrice Arsenault, daughter of Alderman Arthur J. Arsenault, of Dalhousie, read the following address, on behalf of the pupils and two little girls presented a lovely bouquet and valuable gifts to our devoted pastor, Reverend and Dear Father:

We are happy very happy, to be able, on this beautiful day, to express our gratitude to you, Reverend Father, for your many kindnesses to us, for your good and salutary advice.

Alas, we seem, at times, to profit so little by them. Yet the seed which you now so profusely and so laboriously sow cannot fail to grow under the rays of the Divine Sun and one day you will reap, in Heaven, the fruit of your labors.

But we feel we cannot thank you as we should or as you deserve, so we beg Almighty God to return in numerous graces what you do for our spiritual welfare. We ask Him to leave you long, yes very long in our own Dalhousie to continue the good work begun since four years.

As we know how feeble are our prayers we beg Saint Albert, your dear patron saint, to join his supplication to ours and to obtain for you all that your generous and benevolent heart may desire for yourself and your beloved parishioners.

Would that it was given you to read our inner thoughts, and to see the sentiments which now animate our hearts! You would see for yourself how eagerly we seize this opportunity of feasting you and by so doing give you evident proofs of our sincere gratitude.

May these flowers, which we beg you to accept, Reverend Father, speak to you of our love, and of our ardent wish that you may enjoy many returns of this happy day.

"Long live our dear Father Hart!"

Rev. Father Hart in well chosen words thanked the pupils, and spoke encouraging words for the good education. He was followed by Rev. J. A. Hart.

who both referred to the splendid work done by the Rev. Sisters of Dalhousie Convent and they both congratulated the people of Dalhousie on their good fortune in having such a progressive institution of learning in their midst.

The singing of the National Anthem concluded the programme of the happy event.

OBITUARY

Clarence Delaney.

On Friday, April 27th, there passed away after an illness of several months at home and at the Hotel Dieu, Dalhousie, Clarence Delaney, son of Alderman John B. Delaney of the Dalhousie Customs House. The deceased young man was in his twenty-second year, was taken ill after being an employee for several years in the railway station of the Canadian Govt. Railways.

He had rendered splendid service. All that could be done by his family, doctors and nurses was done and despite all efforts he passed away quietly at the Hotel Dieu, Dalhousie, where he had received skillful medical assistance and the tender care of the reverend Sisters in charge of that institution. The funeral service took place on Sunday afternoon, April 29th from his home on Victoria Street, to the R. C. Church where service was conducted by Rev. J. A. Hart.

The large number present, despite the inclemency of the weather, showed the respect in which the young man was held. The pall-bearers were J. Allan LeBlanc, Austin MacNeill, Leon Sansom, Andrew Wallace, Harry McEvev, and Walter Shaw. His grief-stricken parents, brothers and sisters have the sympathy of the whole community in their sad bereavement.
