the Eddy company.

A visit to the warehouse in Front-street quickly shows one that matches are by no means the only manufacture of the company. While the matches that originally won Eddy fame are piled up around beyond number, so also is all manner of woodelware, such as palls, tubs, washboards, pans and bowls. The company manufactures what is known as indurated fibreware, made from wood pulp. This is light, thin and strong and is rapidly displacing wooden, crocking and metallic ware. In time it is bound to have the market to itself, so many are its advantages. The company does an extremely large varies being exercised to get none but experts in every department.

The judges in the various classes are being applicated, and every care is being exercised to get none but experts in every department.

The lowest rates of the year will prevail on all lines during the Exhibition.

branch of the business that is regularly municiplying.

A large stock in all the lines is kept at the warehouse in Front-street, and while the reporter was present yesterday a very large carload of indurated fibreware was being unloaded—these goods having made a decided hit in the Toronto market. Mr. Waldron invited the reporter to see if he could break a milk-pan or find any other fault with the goods coming in, and added that lif we were going to say anything about the warehouse to state that he would cheerfully welcome visitors to the city during the exhibition and afterwards, and show them through, whether they were extensive buyers or not.

The E. B. Eddy Company, during the 40 years visitors to the city during the exhibition and afterwards, and show them through, whether they were extensive buyers or not.

The E. B. Eddy Company, during the 40 years of its existence, has created a valuable name for the merit of its goods, and, as always happens in such cases, new firms arise and seek to profit by the feputation of the old company. The Ottawa Citizen recently came out strongly on this point in defence of the Eddy company. We quote a few sentences: "Imitations of and substitutes" for Eddy's matches are, from time to time, attempted to be imposed upon the public, the imitators by these means or imitations expecting to impose upon the public a 'substitute,' which is always an invior and unreliable match, Eddy's matches voing a thoroughly established reputation over others, thus making the name of the proventive matches and the proventive matches and the matches an the public a substitute, which is always an in-ferior and unreliable match. Eddy's matches having a thoroughly established reputation over all others, thus making the name of the proprie-tor, the brand of matches and the city of Hull known through every city, town and village from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia. We call attention to this matter in justice to a firm which has done so much to bring this district into
