Whilom in. Heaven above, strange battle raged, And pride was at the bottom of the strife ; For Satan this unboly warfare waged, And staked upon it everlasting life : Freedom of speech-be oried my motto be, And ye who His foul tyranny do spurn, Advance-a leader brave behold in me. For in my breast, fierce bate and envy burn And gone I have so far, that back I may not turn.

They fought and fell, - but it is not my theme To paint the prowess of Almighty arm ;-How He with vivid lightning's lurid gleam Hurl'd them from Heaven's high roof in wild alarm, Pursuing swift with hot and pieroing sting-(The sting of deep remorse that dieth never) He them into hell's gloomy cave did fling And drenched their very souls in fiery river, Where they the teeth shall gnash for ever and for ever

What other angel this that cometh next? Unfrock'd he seems - his hat is wide awake, Host marvellous he seems at pounding text : (He studied at the school on Fiery Lake). On Fridays, he partaketh of beef steaks : On pope and priest he venteth forth his elime ; A woman, sooth, unto him he did take, (The proper word will hardly suit my rhyme) With her, instead of Holy Books he passeth off his time.

SNAKY he comes like his great sire of yore And balches forth a vasty sea of lies : Give not to priests your hard earn'd dollars more-They don't like me the filthy trach despise. Solemn he looketh round with goggle eyes-I have some thirty nice young men in store Whom I will teach to fight the pope, he cries, Had I another thirty thousand dollar prize.

Ye priests anointed of the Lord-rejoice, For auto you our Master thus hath spoken (And well you've listed to His kindly voice) I give you of my truth this sureat token-Let not your peace of mind be ever broken-Whan wicked men revile, he ye right glad, Nor by their sland'rous tongues be e'er provoken, For trials such as these the prophete had ; In Heav'n you shall not mourn, or ever more be sad

Oh! ye, to whom this spirit from the deep-SHEARY of step into your garden came, Perchance to full you into careless sleep, Then steal from you the Holy Catholic name, Be on your guard, how weak excuse you frame, To go and hear his silly senseless prate, -For he an angel be withouten sname-His only joy-the dismal joy of hate-Which you forsooth can daily witness in his mate.

CONCERTS AND READINGS. Your Council have always in view the popularizing of the Institute, and the fraternizing of the frish element as much as possible, organized during their term of office, three concerts and readings, which were decided successes in literary and musical merit, as our citizens testified by their warm eulogy and numerous attendance Here again, we have to thank Mr. Gagnon, and the ladies and gentlemen who have on frequent occasions, with personal inconvenience and sacrifice to themselves, contributed to render those reunions so instructive and agreeable.

Your Council desires your particular attention to the interior appearance and condition of the Hall. On assuming office, we early drew the notice of the Committee of St. Patrick's Church to the matter, and petitioned to have the same painted and the roof repaired. We would therefore recommend to our successors this important subject, and not to lose sight of it before the same improvements be effected.

Your Council, while on this needed amelioration, would also recommend the advisability of having the Institute incorporated with a view of carrying out its internal government more sys tematically, and to endeavour to build a St. Patrick's Hall, on the joint stock principle.

LITERARY AND MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT.

Two Literary and Musical entertainments were also given in the Hall of the Institute, by the clever pupils of the Christian Brothers' Academy [under the tuition and direction of the good Brother Potamian], which were gems in their way, for national sentiment, correct elocution, and rendition of dramatic composition. Nothing could more clearly demonstrate the high culture and intelligence attained in this excellent school.

THE STERIOPTICON.

There has been only one exhibition with this really beautiful work of art during the season owing principally to the paucity of views. You Council, therefore, would suggest that a small sum invested in the purchase of more views would amply repay the expenditure, and gain deserved appreciation for the Steriopticon, which up to the present it has failed to attain.
