NORTH BRITISH STATION HOTEL, EDINBURGH.

August 28th, 1926.

Dear Sir Arthur,

As you will see from the above address I am now in the "Land o' Cakes". After spending nine days in London and seeing less than half the places we wanted to see, we came north by easy stages, visiting Cambridge and the Cathedral cities of Exeter, Lincoln, York and Durham, <sup>on the way and</sup> brushing up my British history by actual contact with the places where the events which we had read about actually took place. It is a great education. I shall read it all again with a
