"GET A MAN A JOB" WORKERS' BUSY DAY

Unemployed Rush to Register, But Offices Only Registry for Jobs Open.

The "Get a Man a Job" Campaign had a busy day yesterday. Unfortunately at some of the local offices many of the unemployed have been rushing to register. This is not what was intended.

Many citizens who have been registered at the civic bureau. Large numbers are also known to the clergy and other workers of the city.

The Neighborhood Workers' Association have opened an entirely new office at 100 St. Nicholas street. The office is open to all unemployed workers who wish to get a job.

It is also hoped that the public will realize their own local tradesmen. Nothing efficient will be done with the unemployment problem by laying off one man and taking on another.

Sham Battle Shown at the Photodrome. One of the most interesting motion pictures ever exhibited in Toronto is the chief attraction at the Photodrome, where the sham battle fought on the banks of the Humber on Wednesday is being shown.

The picture in itself is interesting, but when it is considered that the manoeuvres only took place 20 hours before being shown at the Photodrome, every credit must be given for the magnificent work of the cameramen.

The second contingent of the Canadian overseas forces are shown in all the different actions of warfare. Signaling with flags, answering being signaled back from a hill a considerable distance away; the men at dinner, the artillery at work, showing the mechanism of the large 18 pr. guns, and "Just a Song of Twilight" help to make a particularly fine picture.

The program at the Photodrome is particularly bright for the last half of the week, for, in addition to this military picture, there are several others, including "The Girl at Morans" and "When Lions Escape," a three-reel drama.
