

- Retentiveness, 77, 80 ff.; distinct from memory, 81, 189
- Rhythmizing, 227-30; and tempo, 228
- RIBOT, TH., on depersonalisation, 364; on moral inventors, 395 fin.; on heredity, 423 nn.; on temperament, 437 n., 453 n.; on logic of sentiments, 456; on character, 465 f.
- RICHT, C., description of feeling, 254 n.
- RIVERS and HEAD, Drs, their experiments on nerve division, 148 n.
- ROGET's Thesaurus referred to, 253 n.
- ROMANES, G. J., his use of 'recept,' 105 n.; referred to, 250
- RUSKIN, referred to, 256, 296 n.
- Same, ambiguity of the word, 332
- SCHOPENHAUER, on the primacy of will, 20; on altruism, 393; on freedom, 464; referred to 468 n.
- SCHUMANN, F., criticized, 317 n.
- SCHWARZ, H., on choice, 402 n.
- Selection, subjective, 50 f., 79, 139, 140, 180, 244, 280, 312, 391, 409, 415 n., 416, 425, 469; natural, 280, 415 n., 417, 418, 453
- Self, 35 fin.; pure S., 35, 361 ff., 370, 377 ff.; empirical S., 35, 361 ff.; as sensitive, 364 f.; as imagining, 365 f.; as thinking, 368 ff.
- Self-consciousness, 371-6, 383, 384, 392; and conscience, 395, 404, 407, 463
- Self-conservation, principle of, 246, 278, 462
- Self-interest, 392
- Self-sacrifice, 397 f.
- Sensationalism—see Presentationism
- Sensations, not subjective states, 47, 61 n., 104; differentiation of, 78 f., 108-15; simplicity of, 78, 169; indirect evidence of complexity, 114; characteristics of, 78, 105-8, mutual relations of these, 106 f.; definition of, 102 ff.; 'general' S. as distinguished from 'special,' 111; S.-complexes, 113, 134; quantitative continuity of, 115 f.; extensivity of, 116 f.; intensity of, 118 f.; protensity of, 119 f.; qualities of, 120-35; of sight, 120-6, white and black, 120-3, colours, 124-6; of sound, 126-33, simple tones, 126 f., clangs, 127 f., timbre, 128 f., consonance and dissonance, 129-32, noises, 132 f., speech, 133; of the lower senses, 133-5; kinaesthetic, 136
- Sense, 'internal,' 15; and Understanding, 292-5
- Sentiments, 456-60; the 'logic' of, 456 f.; as dispositional, 457 f.; distinguished from feelings and emotions, 458 f.; and Gesinnungen, 458 n., 459
- SETH, J., referred to, 469 n.
- SHAND, A. F., referred to, 439 n., 458 n., 460 n.
- SHERRINGTON, C. S., 105 n., 275
- SIDGWICK, H., quoted, 396 n., referred to, 403 n.
- Signs, see Local, Temporal; natural and conventional, 287 f.
- SIGWART, C., on impersonal judgments, 306; on the differences between individuals, 420 n.; his Logic quoted, 315 n.
- Similarity, association by, 187 n., 191 f., 196
- 'Skeletal tone,' 53
- SMITH, ADAM, on conscience, 369
- Social factor, 33 f.
- Social Medium, Social Environment, etc., 384, 389, 418, 419. (Cf. Intersubjective Intercourse)
- Solipsism, implications of, 30
- Somatic Consciousness—see Coenaesthesia
- SORLEY, W. R., referred to, 403 n.
- Soul, Aristotle's conception of, 3; his three kinds of, 3, 6; a metaphysical term, 35 fin.; Huxley on, 37
- Space, perceptual and conceptual distinguished, 144 f., 149, 319; tactual perception of, 151 ff.; 'spatial reference,' 152 f.; visual perception of, 153-61, among Invertebrata, 156, among Vertebrata, 156-61; occupation of, 163
- Span of prehension, 223
- Specific energy of nerves, 109 n.
- Speech, internal, 239. See also Language
- SPENCER, HERBERT, on subjective and objective psychology, 13; on self-consciousness, 38; on voluntary action, 51, 52; his 'automatic association,' 82; on the transformation of neural processes, 100; on primitive sensation, 108; on spatial perception, 146; on voluntary muscular antagonism, 163; on the difference between impressions and ideas, 168; on the successional character of experience, 197 n., 221; on gracefulness, 259; on 'inconceivability of the opposite,' 349 ff.; on absolute beginning, 409 n.; his appeal to biological analogies in psychogeny, 410; on individual development, 467 n.
- SPINOZA, on distance as imagined, 215 n.; his 'substance' distinguished from subject, 382; referred to, 470
- STEINTHAL, H., quoted, 186 n.; onomatopoeia, 292 n.; on apperception, 311 n.
- STERN, L. W., on psychical present, 214 n., 223 n.; on differential psychology, 433 n., 437 n.; 444 n.
- STEWART, D., quoted, 458
- STOUT, J. G. F., on implicit and explicit apprehension, 96 n., 297 n.; his use of 'primary meaning,' 143; of 'impressional association,' 186 n.; on forms of apperception, 309 n.; his use of anoetic, 317