

be admitted again, without the usual ceremony of election, and paying all fines he may have incurred from the time of his last attendance.

X.

All the cash belonging to the company, which may be in possession of the Clerk, shall be applied to such purposes as the company may direct; and the Clerk, upon a new election, shall deliver over to his successor in office, all the books and papers belonging to the company, together with the cash remaining in his hands, with a correct state of the funds and of the fines due from each member; and any member or members refusing to pay his or their fines for the space of three months after the annual election, unless rendered unable by misfortunes, shall be excluded from the company.

XI.

And the President for the time being, shall have it in his power, on the request of any seven or more members, to call a meeting of the company, at which all the members are bound to attend, under the same penalties and forfeitures as are stipulated for absentees from quarterly meetings; and the expences of all and every meeting shall be sustained in equal proportions by the members present, excepting the Clerk for the time being, who, in consideration of his services, shall always be exempted from such expences.
