Western France, where he studied the Gregorian chant under the tuition of world-renowned Benedictine monks for a month. Upon completion of this study he visited for a week in London before sailing from Southampton for home on the Empress of Scotland, which reached Quebec on Saturday.

During a visit to Naples, Rev. Father LeBlanc saw Miss Anna Malenfant, renowned singer of Moncton, who he said is doing exceptionally well there and is under the tuition of one of the most prominent teachers in Italy. He also saw Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Dandaneu, formerly of Moncton, who now make their home in Naples.

RECEIVED BY POPE.
Another former Moncton boy, who is studying at the Angelico University is Rev. Father Cahill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cahill, of this city.

Rev. Father LeBlanc during his stay in Rome had also many times been received in public and private audiences by His Holiness the Pope at St. Peter's. In the two years he had spent in Italy Rev. Father LeBlanc said that only once did they have snow and that was last January, when there was a two-hour fall. This was the first snow experienced there for seven years.

Other New Brunswick priests who studied with Rev. Father LeBlanc in Rome were Rev. Father MacDonald, of the Cathedral staff, Saint John, and Rev. Father Milligan, of Fredericton.
