The first of the season arrived yesterday at Chatham yesterday.

"BARKER'S" is a very friendly review of some of Professor Roberts' stories, by T. G. Marshall, M. A., appears in "The Week" of this issue.

Rev. Mrs. McKelvey of Chatham has had the degree of D. D. conferred upon her by Dalhousie University. We join in congratulating her on the honor.

The certificate of Miss Ayer's Saranacilla was verified by living witnesses.

The Rev. "Justice Ambrose" arrived in Chatham from Summerside, P. E. I., yesterday morning. She brought a good number of books, and was the first to visit in the afternoon.

Mr. Roberts' handsome steamer, "The Advance," is expected to arrive here about this time.

The Rev. Mr. McKeown has been running several days and looks as fresh and trim as ever.

The Rev. Mr. McKeown has been running several days and looks as fresh and trim as ever.

Miss McKelvey's new steamer will probably be launched today. She will be taken to Millerton at once, where the boiler and engine will be put in the house built for her.

The World, with good reason, finds fault with the mistakes and other evidence of wretched taste displayed by the Liberal News in dealing with its contemporaries.

The Rev. Mr. McKeown's sermon at the New' service is a graduate of the World, and is not pronouncing what he taught.

The Obedience of St. Luke's Church last Sunday at 11 o'clock, in full regalia, headed by the Chatham Cornet Band, and followed by the Rev. Mr. Watson of Douglasville on the cardinal principles of the order—Friendship Love and Truth. There was a large choir present and the music formed an agreeable attraction.

The Rev. Miramichi has been so much in demand since the opening of navigation, owing to the necessities of the other boats, that it is feared she will have to stop in her cabin for a short time after she begins to run on the river route.

Funeral—Senator Adams has returned from Ottawa and, his many friends will regret to learn that his health is not satisfactory, although he is better than when he arrived. He had a return of his old trouble last before leaving Ottawa, which was aggravated by the return journey.

Mr. D. T. Johnson, now of Bathurst, was in town on Tuesday.

Hon. Albin Klotz was in town yesterday.

Shelburne at St. John's—Halters is not a good name for a glazier's name, and it has been tried by the family of Mr. Andrew Irving, Dunstable, and found to be too strong. It was used by mistake, but the members of the family, and their friends, had to go to Sunday evening, were made ill by it. Mr. Irving was so sick that he sent for a physician—World.

Drowned at Bathurst—On Tuesday morning about ten o'clock two men named John Brown and James Chamberlain were crossing the ice on the Nepisiquit river at the east side of Bathurst town. The ice being in a rotten state both men broke through. Brown managed to get out, Chamberlain however, was unable to do so and drowned. The deceased was about eighteen years of age and a native of Bathurst.

Funeral—The remains of the late John F. Jernale were brought from Campbellton last and taken to the Commercial Hotel, the residence of his daughter. The funeral took place in the afternoon and was very largely attended. Rev. Thomas Johnson conducted the services at the Commercial Hotel. The pall-bearers were Messrs. R. R. Call, John Morrison, J. O. Fish, (Advocate).

Be CALM—Our young lady friend—the Liberal Herald—appears to be very gregarious. It refers to the unoffending ADVANCE, by name, as well as directly, and to the editor by name with a freedom that is quite characteristic of those who conduct and inspire it. It seems to be a virtuous hedge, behind which all the scribbling trash of the country may sling their quills as if they were those of the "fretful porcupine." We hope it will in due time improve in temper, tone and taste. It ought to show a better example than it does at all these respects.

The Rev. Mr. McKeown's sermon was struck by some heavy frost on the night of either Saturday or Sunday as she lay at her Chatham wharf and the iron work was twisted from port to starboard as much as 45 degrees. Capt. Ballouk ran the boat with the injured rudder-stick unrepaired on Monday forenoon, as the mishap was not discovered until steam was up on Monday morning, and the necessary readjustment was made on Monday afternoon by shifting the collar-connection just above the main deck and making new bolt-heads. In future the steamer will, no doubt, be head-up-stream when the ice-trains are in the river.

the same model, and each having an engine and screw exactly alike, driven by the current from a storage battery set nearly a mile in the hold of each. In one of the boats, however, a groove had been cut in the side at the water line, beginning at the stern and extending to a point opposite where the forward would stand, and gradually tapering off. This groove, which was about an inch wide when it was at full speed the bow was lifted from the water and the resistance of the vessel materially lessened. At a signal the boats were started, and the little vessels had gone but a few feet when the one in which the grooves had been cut began to gain perceptibly on the other, the bow being raised from the water as the speed increased. The tank in the boat with the groove was full, and the faster of the boats covered the distance in forty-three seconds, while the other required one minute and ten seconds to make the same distance. The importance, for they show that if this system can be applied to the big steamships a full day can be saved in crossing the Atlantic without any additional expense in building.
