He stated the object of the meeting, which was to select a candidate to contest the county for the dominion parliament in the present election. Before proceeding to nominate a candidate a resolution of confidence in the conservative party and their veteran leader, Sir Charles Tupper, was passed by the meeting. The onvention also expressed deep regret that the best interests of the party necessitated that Hon. Geo. E. At least 23 stats were safe in Quebec, and if the maritime provinces did their part the party would certainly win. At the conclusion of Mr. Foster's speech committees were selected to arrange the work of organization. The friends of the conservatives in the city tonight are jubilant over the selection of Dr. McLeod. On the other hand the government managers are at a loss what to think. The nomination of the respected doctor has fallen like a wet blanket and cast a gloom on their hopes of success. A meeting of backers of the latter concern is being held this evening, and resembles a funeral more than anything else.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at St. Dunstan's church at 5 o'clock this morning, when Lieut. Arthur P. B. Nagle of the R. C. R. I., only son of Lieut. Col. Nagle of the 30th regiment, Halifax, was united in marriage to Florence Shaw, youngest daughter of the late Capt. Sunliffe Powys of the 2nd Cheshire regiment, Halifax. The eremony was perform.d by Bishop Casey in the presence of the immediate friends of the happy couple. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Percy Powys, and was unattended. The groom was supported by Lieut. Fairell of Halifax. After the wedding breakfast was partaken of they took their departure on the stmr. this morning Mrs. Lynch, widow of the guillotine, but Fevrot inspired the late Denis Lynch, was united in marriage with Philip Sullivan, a wall known Cross Creek farmer. Bishop Casey performed the coremony. Miss Effie McMahone acted as bridesmaid and the bridegroom had the assistance of Harry Crotty. Miss Mabel McKeen, daughter of John McKeen of this city, and W. Thomas Murchie, manager of the Phoenix mill, formerly of Calais, are to te married at the bride's home tomorrow evening by Rev. Wilard MacDonald.

in some above the ordinary. The cattle show was not quite as large as usual, but the animals shown were in fine condition. The horse exhibit was fair and that of sheep about an averege. Poultry was good and there was a particularly fine exhibit of roots and fruit. There was scarcely as much grain shown as usual, but the quality was fully up to the average. Among the cattle exhibit were two very fine Durham bulls, one, Arthur's Milker, bred by Arthur Johnson, Ontario, owned by Job Stiles, and the other, Baron Hilhurst 7th, owned by Chesley Smith. The former took first prize. Both animals, it is understood, are for sale. The display of home manufactured articles, fancy work, etc., was much smaller than usual. A few good specimens, however, were shown, among which might be mentioned a very handsome oil painting, by Miss Ida Peck of this village. Dinner was served in the basement of the hall by the ladies of the Baptist church. Following is the prize list. CATTLE Three-year-old Steers-Job Stiles, 1st; John Russell, 2nd.

BACK FROM AUSTRALIA.

Jamés Cummings, a former resident of St. John, arrived here Thursday from Australia, where he has been living for over a score of years. While in this city Mr. Cummings was a furrier, having his shop on Sydney street, near St. Malachi's hall. His father was the late M. A. Cummings, veterinary surgeon, and later station agent at Rothesay. After leaving St. John Mr. Cummings went home to Scotland and was married. He then came across the ocean again to Portland, Me., which city he left on the outbreak of the American civil war. Australia next included him in its citizenship. He settled in a small place outside of Melbourne, where his home is at present. Mr. Cummings speaks glowingly of the sister colony and its advancement. In coming to this country again Mr. Cummings touched at Capetown, but saw no Boers. The only really interesting item in connection with the steamer's call at that port was the fabulous price of coal, £5 per ton. In consequence of this the steamer was coaled at Teneriffe. Mr. Cummings is the guest of his cousin Hugh Crawford, Garden street, and is being warmly greeted by his old time friends .- Star.

IT NEEDS A NAME.

A. Gordon Leavitt has another natural history specimen, for which it has proven so far impossible to find a local habitation and a name. It is a skull picked up on the Nova Scotia coast in a splendid state of preservation. In length it is wixteen inches, the greatest breadth ten inches, and the height at the back reaches eight inches. In shape the skull is somewhat peculiar, the upper jaw is long, two holes run down from the upper portion to the roof of the mouth, showing that the original owner was a "blower," like a whale or porpoise. The brain cavity is an exceedingly large one. Moss that has grown in the upper jaw shows that the skull is a very old one, as moss never commences to grow on a bone until all the oil is excluded. There has been considerable speculation as to the previous character of the animal. It has been called many hard names, and still there is room. It occupies the place in the present owner's affection made vacant by the sudden demise of the great antedeluvian coon cat .---Star.

ALGOMA ELECTION.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 17 .- The election in Algoma will be held November 12, five days after the general election. The conservative candidate has not been chosen yet, but will be either A. C. dared denounce him. His capture took place during a desperate fight, in which he and three of his gang sought to escape from the police. A detective was killed. Fevrot is now held for trial, but declares that he will escape. Fevrot's father acquired rapid wealth in the sale of leather and was known as a merchant Auguste, his only son, and prince. Julie, his only daughter, two years younger, received the best education. The girl, now dead, was a fine vocalist, and Auguste always managed to keep up his practice on the 'cello. One day he fell in with young criminals, who mistook him for one of their stamp, and took him upon a night expedition. The plan failed and two of the gang were caught, Fervot himself barely escaping. A week later it was he who led the thieves against the same safe, and this time the undertaking was successful.

"The business attracted me from the first," he says, and one factor that added special relish to the calling was that he often took tea or dinner in the very mansion he had planned to rob. When his time for military service came he was alrealy pretty well recognized in the profession.

While in the army he retained control of some dozen skilled housebreak. ers and directed their movements. Twice, under his instructions, they looted the treasury of he regiment When discharged he took a trip to London to work under some expert English burglars. "Wonderful fellows they are, these Englishmen!" said Favrot to a questioner.

From the time he "eturned from London, where he worked a year, he has remained in Paris, where he had under his orders at one time or another almost every French criminal who is prominent. Fevrot occupies the very cell where Colonel Picquart lived nine months during the Dreyfus agitation. During the preliminary examination before the magistrate he made the following statements:

"My share of gains in our operations I distributed among my best men to promote intelligent endeavor or employed it in the relief of the women and kids of pals who had been pinched To make money is not my aim. But life is monotonous unless there is risk in every moment. I love excitement. Why did not I become a soldier then? Yes; I might have been a uniformed mercenary, killing savages when they resisted the desecration of their temples, or I might have become like a famous explorer working with arson and rifle when whisky failed to accomplish my ends. But there is something repugnant in doing criminal work under the protection of the flag. As for the conquest of the North Pole, I couldn't think of that-the mere idea of condensed food, even with the walrus steak and fish oil to lend variety, simply turns my stomach. So that was out of the question.' When asked if he had ever committed murder, he replied: "If I had killed

I would not tell you, for my love of excitement does not go so far that I wish a trial for murder. Nor is climbing the guillotine steps one of those emotions I have on my programme." Sch. Bahama, Capt. Anderson, from

ANNAPOLIS.

Sir Charles Tupper Made a Pleasant Visit to St. Andrew's School.

ANNAPOLIS, N. S., Oct. 17.-Yesterday morning St. Andrew's school was honored with a visit from Canada's 'grand old man," and a very enjoyable morning was spent by all pre: ent. Sir Charles Tupper was received on the verandah by Mr. and Mrs. Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Mills, Mrs. Owen, Mrs. Ritchie and other leading Annapolis people, and the weather being exceptionally fine, the boys paraded on the lawn, and went through the manual, bayonet exercise and physical drill with guns, then stood "at ease" while Sir Charles spoke to them. Sir Charles pointed out how English schools and colleges had long been famous before all others for physical training, combined with sound and accurate scholarship, which fast accounted for British excellence in the field whenever occasion arose. He was glad to see a school here conducted on these lines and tought by English university men. He congratulated the boys on their appearance, their school and beautiful surroundings, and expressed his belief in the great future before St. Andrews when it should become more widely known. The boys then gave three cheers for Sir Charles and machel off, and shortly afterwards the veteran statesman left for the station en route for Digby. A large crowd was on the platform to see him off, but the St. Andrew's schoo! cry was quite audible in the midst of the general cheering.

P. E ISLAND SAMSON.

Little Harber, Lot 46, Kings Co., P. E. Island, has a son now living in Providence, Rhode Island, that is a "terror." He is a pile driver, and has beaten all records in that business. An exchange says :

"While the building of the long ocean wharf at the Narragansett pier shore resort which at the Narraganeett pier shore resort was in progress about two years ago, he found it necessary one evening to discipline some of the men who were making too much ado about the erection of an engine plat-form. Pushing eight men to one side, Mc-Kinnon went into the job with his coat off and put the 2,700 pounds of logs and flooring into place.

and put the 2,700 pounds of logs and flooring into place. "At Darlington last year, where he had the contract to destroy 2,900 old fashioned ten-ton dump cars, he lifted the trucks of one of them on a wager of $50, and threw them on to a sandbank over his head. "In a labor riot while constructing the Queen's docks he is credited with whipping ten men single handed. He is only 32 and about 185 pounds in weight, all bone and sinew."
