St. John—South End.

The death of Mrs. A. F. B. Moren (nee Miss Johanna Hazen) which occurred on Friday last, has caused much sorrow in society circles, both in this city and Halifax. Just two years ago Mrs. Moren left St. John a happy bride, but after residing in Halifax for one year was obliged through failing health to return, and has since resided with her mother, Mrs. Wm. Hazen, Chipman Place, where her death occurred from that dread disease consumption.

Mrs. Moren had passed the summer at Sussex, hoping the dry air at that place would prove beneficial. She returned to St. John just three weeks before her death, only to fade away at the early age of 21 years. The funeral which took place from her mother's residence on Monday afternoon was attended by a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives, and if anything was wanting to testify to the esteem in which she was held, the numerous floral offerings with which the casket was entirely covered, spoke for themselves.

The chief mourners were her husband, Mr. A. F. B. Moren of Corner's Office, Mr. Arthur P. Hazen, (Montreal), Mr. Ward Hazen and Mr. Hugh Hazen, brothers of the deceased. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Bowyer Smith, Harry B. Robinson, B. Frith, Walter Clarke, W. J. Starr, and J. Gillis Keator. The three first mentioned being the ushers at the marriage of the deceased just two years ago.

The bride who entered the church with her brother, Mr. A. W. Macrae, was most becomingly dressed in a travelling dress of electric blue, and to match. She was attended by her sister, Miss Violet Macrae. Mr. P. G. Harvey, of the Bank of Montreal, acted as best man.

One of the most brilliant gatherings that have taken place in this city was that which assembled at the cathedral of the Immaculate Conception on Tuesday evening to witness the nuptials of Mr. Louis Edmund Barbeau of Montreal, only son of Mr. Edmund Barbeau, and Miss Agnes Josephine Dever, fourth daughter of Hon. James Dever of this city.

Long before the hour fixed for the ceremony (which was 7 o'clock) crowds collected both in and around the cathedral, showing the keen interest that was manifested in this important event. Only those who were fortunate enough to secure tickets of admission were allowed to enter the cathedral, the number of guests being so large as to completely fill all the pews of the church.

The bride, entered the church with her father, followed by two pages Master de Bury son of Count de Bury and Master McAvenny son of Dr. McAvenny, who carried her train. The bridesmaid was Miss Gertrude Dever and the maid of honor was Miss Helen McAvenny.

The bride looked very charming in her rich bridal gown of heavy cream brocade with a court train of green satin falling from the shoulders. Orange blossoms in her hair, tulle veil and a handsome bouquet completed this elegant toilette. The bride was the gift of the bride's sisters. The only ornament she wore was a beautiful necklace of sapphires, the gift of the groom.

The costumes of the two little pages were much admired and consisted of white brocade with red and gold, each carrying a silver heeled cane, the gift of the groom.

The bridesmaid looked remarkably well in a dress of pale pink bengaline trimmed with black tulle. Insertion with a large lace train and pink tulle feathers to match.

As the bridal party walked up the aisle they were preceded by seven ushers, Col. Tucker, Captain Leod, Frank Curran, J. E. Barker, and W. B. Barker. Mr. E. Kettle Jones did the honors for the groom.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Casey, assisted by Rev. Father O'Neill.

After the nuptial knot was tied the wedding party, who numbered nearly 300, drove to Senator Macrae's residence, Chipman's Hill, where a reception was held and a most sumptuous supper partaken of, after which the bride changed her dress for a travelling costume, which was of navy blue cloth made with an Eaton jacket, trimmed with gold braid, a tulle train, and a hat to match, trimmed with white wings.
