SIR JOHN FRENCH AT FRONT WITH BRITISH TROOPS

Commander-in-Chief Left With First Detachment But No News of Movements Is Being Printed—The Situation in England.

(Special Cable to Daily Telegraph and Montreal Gazette.)

London, Aug. 14.—The Daily News military correspondent says: "The fog still hangs as thick as ever over the various possibilities of the war. If we have learned nothing else from the Japanese lesson of secrecy which the Manchurian war taught us, at least we have learned that we must know individually about the movements of our expeditionary force we move to ourselves. Not a single word of news has yet been published by any English newspaper nor the slightest clue given of movements now in progress. We know that an expeditionary force is to join the armies of our allies on the continent, but that is all we have been told. The direction in which Sir John French and his troops have gone, or will go, is a profound public secret and will remain so till strategy gives place to tactics and our soldiers come face to face with their opponents on the field of battle. "With the almost complete cessation of news from the front, speculation, of course, is rife and sometimes wild in character, as for instance the suggestion of an amateur 'military expert' that a German force invading Liege is in serious danger of capture by a Belgian army which is moving forward to attack them. This sort of speculation needs only passing reference. "Meanwhile advantage of the respite from the avalanche of confidential despatches has been taken by the London newspapers to examine the situation here at home."

GOVERNMENT TO CONGRATULATE.

"Without desiring to halloo till we are out of the woods," the London Daily Chronicle says, "we cannot help feeling that the country and the government deserve some congratulations on the way in which the international difficulties of the country are being met. The financial difficulty of the country seems to be well in hand. Emergency steps have been adopted which look conservative by comparison with the measures taken in Belgium."

"The government is proposing a variety of measures. The main policy is to obviate rather than relieve distress. In a majority of the trades employed it is likely to be fairly brisk. Public machinery and private initiative are working together in a sensible and patriotic way. The worst foe to any community situated as ours is, is panic, and the strongest ally, confidence. Not last, but confidence, of course, but quiet confidence, whereas the people are determined to go about their rise and feel sure if they do they can rise superior to circumstances."

STILL SOME FEAR OF UNEMPLOYMENT.

While editorially the Chronicle takes this optimistic view of its parliamentary correspondent writes: "Employment of labor and commercial men at the end of the week unemployment on a gigantic scale will be upon us. On all sides factories and works are being shut down in the Birmingham area and in the western areas of South Wales thousands of men already are out of work."

"Sir Alfred Mond estimates 300,000 persons are engaged in trade with, or employed in the manufacture of goods exported to Germany. The abnormal activity of other industries stimulated by the war will compensate for some of this loss, but when all abatements have been made the unemployment directly arising from the war will be very considerable."
