ONE day, at the table of Cardinal Richelieu, Bautrin, seeking to amuse him, inquired of one of the strangers present:

"Monsieur, excuse me, but how did they value asses in your country when you set forth?"

The retort was an excellent one:

"Those of your weight and size were priced at ten crowns."

"Shall I help you to some tomatusses?" inquired a young exquisite of a venerable physician, as he set opposite him at a hotel table.

"No, sir, I thank you," replied the learned savant, "but I'll trouble you for the potatusses, if you please."

A GENTLEMAN having written a letter, concluded it as follows: "Give everybody's love to everybody, so that nobody may be aggrieved by being forgotten by somebody."

An Indianapolis clergyman has preached a sermon on frizzled hair.

An old maid's love letter is called a romance of the middle age.

In Garibaldi's novel somebody dies in nearly every page.

ROCHESTER has a youthful violinist—Miss Ella Winn—only seven years of age.
