

A WOMAN'S HEALTH NEEDS CONSTANT CARE

When the Blood Becomes Poor Disease Speedily Follows

Every woman's health is peculiarly dependent upon the condition of her blood. How many women suffer with headache, pain in the back, poor appetite, weak digestion, a constant feeling of weariness, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, pallor and nervousness. Of course all these symptoms may not be present—the more there are the worse the condition of the blood, and the more necessary that you should begin to enrich it without delay. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are beyond doubt the greatest blood-building tonic offered to the public today. Every dose helps to make new, rich red blood, which goes to every part of the body and brings new health and strength to weak, despondent people. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are valuable to all women, but they are particularly useful to girls of school age who become pale, languid and nervous. Thin blood during the growing years of a girl's life usually means a flat-chested hollow-cheeked womanhood. There can be neither health nor beauty without red blood, which gives brightness to the eyes and color to the cheeks and lips. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do all this, as is proved in thousands of cases. Mrs. Wm. Rowe, Carlaw Ave., Toronto, says:—"I have received so much benefit from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that I feel it my duty to recommend them to others. I was about completely prostrated with anaemia. I had no appetite, was terribly weak and subject to fainting spells. I suffered greatly from dizziness, and the various other symptoms that accompany a bloodless condition. Remedy after remedy was tried, but to no avail until a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Before completing the second box, I was again enjoying splendid health, and have since remained in that happy condition."

GRATITUDE OF A HUN.

Prisoner's Testimony of His Splendid Treatment in England.

No greater contrast to the letters which come from Germany than our heroes imprisoned there can be imagined than the following letter addressed by a German prisoner in England to his "Dear Mother"—my dear children and my dear mother—in Germany, says the London Sketch. "I have hitherto not been treated as a prisoner," he writes, "but have received nothing but love and care for my wounds. 'Everything is done for me to relieve my pains; in fact, everything that can be done for a wounded man. Therefore, my dear ones, respect our enemies. 'I always had a great deal of falling into English hands, but now that fate has overcome me I have learned better, and I see no trace of anything but tender love on the part of my former enemies. 'I have a splendid dinner every day, plenty of meat, and potatoes, beautifully cooked. 'They give me almost too much, but for the sake of good manners, I eat till it is all finished. 'Tea does not suit me, so coffee is specially prepared for me. Could a wounded prisoner ask for anything better? 'Do you, therefore, show nothing but kindness towards our wounded enemies, particularly Englishmen."

POSTUM

Made of wheat and a bit of wholesome molasses, it has rich color, aroma and taste, yet contains no harmful elements.

This hot table drink is ideal for children and particularly satisfying to all with whom tea or coffee disagrees.

Postum comes in two forms: The original Postum Cereal requires boiling; Instant Postum is made in the cup instantly, by adding boiling water.

For a good time at table and better health all 'round, Postum tells its own story.

RECORD WORK IN SHIPYARDS. One Has Launched a War Craft a Month Since War Began.

In the shipyards of Great Britain, where fleets are born, there has been tremendous activity since the commencement of the war, and the effort to provide the navy with all it requires has been stupendous.

James Bone gives a picturesque account of the wonderful work that has been accomplished. "When we speak of German's industrial inventiveness and resource," he says, "we are apt to forget that she neither discovered the application of steam as a motive force nor did she invent any of the great devices by which nations have been brought closer and time and space have been telescoped. The German navy exists only as the result of British inventions."

"Now, in the great world-struggle all our shipbuilding resources of peace have been tremendously expanded for war. One yard alone has launched a battleship, cruiser, torpedo boat destroyer, or submarine every month since the war began. One famous marine engine shop has produced 1,000 horsepower of machinery every day since the beginning of last year."

"Wonderful engine shops, up to a thousand yards in length, of cathedral height and spaciousness, splendidly lit, with railways linking up every part of the organization, have sprung up in many parts."

It's easier for trouble to find your address than it is for good luck. "Did you ever realize anything on that investment?" "Oh, yes. 'What did you realize on it?' 'What a fool I had been.'"

CANCER DUE TO MEAT.

London Physician Advises Fruit Diet to Kill Disease.

"Every death from cancer is a death from suicide, because cancer is a self-imposed disease due to a persistent defiance of dietetic and hygienic laws," is the opinion of Dr. Robert Bell, president of the British Medical Association for the Reduction and Prevention of Cancer.

After a close study of the disease for nearly forty years, Dr. Bell is convinced that cancer is curable without operation.

"I have not operated upon a cancer patient since 1894," he stated, "and since that time have had some remarkable cures."

Dr. Bell maintains that the alarming growth of the disease has responded with the great increase in the consumption of meat and that a frugal diet will maintain the purity of the blood and blood cells and make it impossible for cancer to develop.

HEALTHY BABIES SLEEP WELL AT NIGHT

A well child sleeps well and during its waking hours is never cross, but always happy and laughing. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers, if your children do not sleep well; if they are cross and cry a great deal, give them Baby's Own Tablets and they will soon be well and happy again. Concerning the Tablets Mrs. Chas. Diette, North Temascaming, Que., writes:—"My baby was greatly troubled with constipation and cried night and day. I began giving her Baby's Own Tablets and now she is fat and healthy and sleeps well at night." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Deceiving Them. A submarine commander has but one means of judging the speed of the vessel to be attacked—by noting the size of the bow wave thrown up by the intended victim. The correct-ness of the estimate means either a hit or a miss. To deceive the submarine in this manner British ship-owners have devised the clever ruse of painting a huge bow wave on the sides of a ship, rendering it extremely difficult for the underwater craft to judge the speed accurately.

A New Steam Philosophy. "Papa," said the hopeful youth, "can you tell me what is natural philosophy?" "Of course I can," said papa, proud and relieved to find that there was at last something he could tell his offspring. "Natural philosophy is the science of cause and reason. Now, for instance, you see the steam coming out of the spout of the kettle, but you don't know why or for what reason it does so, and—" "Oh, but I do, papa," chirped the hope of the household. "The reason the steam comes out of the kettle is so that mamma may open your letters without your knowing it."

EXHIBIT OF WOOL.

Canadian National Exhibition Will Feature It.

Through the wool display of the Dominion Live Stock Branch, Ottawa, which will be presented at the Canadian National Exhibition, farmers will be given a splendid opportunity for obtaining a thorough knowledge of the sheep and wool industry of Canada. The exhibit has been prepared by T. Reg. Arkell, chief of the Sheep and Goat Division of the Branch, who will be in charge with Mr. James A. Telfer as demonstrator. The object of the exhibit will be to explain the various classifications and grades, and to show how wool may be handled in such a way as to secure the best advantages to both the producer and buyer. In order to command the highest market prices, wools should be presented in a carefully folded and packed condition and should contain as little foreign matter as possible. Actual demonstrations in grading and sorting will be given daily by wool experts. One of the most interesting and instructive features will be samples of wool in both the greasy and scoured condition, showing the injurious effects of using insoluble paints, which are difficult to remove, rather than the standard dipping fluids for marking purposes. Samples of wool that have been tied with binder twine will show how the sisal fibre becomes incorporated into the wool with the consequent defect in the finished product. The injurious effects of shearing wool while damp or permitting it to become damp while in storage, will be shown, together with the damage caused by the incorporation of straw and chaff into the fleece.

1,400 NURSED BY SWISS. French and German Prisoners on Neutral Ground.

The work of bringing back to health and activity the hundreds of sick and wounded war prisoners who are not so hopelessly wounded as to be eligible for repatriation is described in despatches from Switzerland.

It is in this healthy country, among the kindly people of the various health resorts, that many of these prisoners who have been transferred from the crowded prisons of Germany and France are being nursed back to health.

They are still prisoners, of course, and will remain so until the end of the war, but their chances for recovery in Switzerland are far greater than in the necessarily uncomfortable quarters in France and Germany.

The arrangements for the sending of wounded prisoners of war to Switzerland were originally made between Germany and France and Germany and Belgium, but negotiations for a similar agreement between England and Germany have been nearly completed.

About 1,400 sick and wounded prisoners have already been sent to the health resorts of Switzerland, 500 Germans and 900 French. The French contingent, which includes 100 officers, has been quartered at Montana, Montreux, Interlaken, Willerswill, Meiringen and Brienz, and the Germans are near Lucerne and Davos.

The guarding of the prisoners is simplified by an agreement with the Governments of the soldiers that all who manage to reach home will be returned to Switzerland. The camps are under the supervision of sanitary officers of the Swiss army medical department. Non-commissioned officers chosen from among the prisoners are entrusted with the maintenance of discipline among the men. It is probable that, so successful has been the experiment, the number of prisoners in Switzerland will be greatly increased.

The sick and wounded men are selected at the various prison camps in Germany and France as cases sufficiently serious for transportation to Switzerland by medical commissions composed of two Swiss medical officers and a physician of the country in which the soldier is held. These commissions, of which there are twenty, move from camp to camp selecting the worst cases. Supervision over their work is exercised by a superior commission of three French and three Swiss physicians at Lyons, or three German and two Swiss at Constant. The judgment of the inferior commissions is very rarely challenged, however.

YOUNG FOLKS

The Disobedient Rabbit.

On the edge of the wood, and not far from Farmer Brown's, lived two little gray rabbits with their father and mother. One was named Greedykins and the other Goodboy. Greedykins was a source of great worry to his mother, because he liked to eat things that he ought not to eat.

Now Goodboy was different. He loved his mother so well that it made him happy to do the things that pleased her; and so Goodboy had a sunny disposition and was well and happy, but Greedykins was cross and often ill.

All day long the two little rabbits played under the trees and among the bushes, and sometimes they could go as far away as Farmer Brown's pasture. It was such fun to play in the grass and hunt for clover!

One bright, sunny morning Father and Mother Rabbit called Goodboy and Greedykins to them, and said, "We must go to see your aunt and little cousins who live over the hill, and we may be gone some hours, for we cannot walk in the road, lest bad boys throw stones at us, and it takes much longer to go through the fields. Now, be good children." And looking severely at Greedykins, mother said, "Be very careful what you eat; do not touch anything that you are not sure of."

Both rabbits promised to be good, and after they had watched Father and Mother Rabbit out of sight they ran back to their play.

But after a while they began to feel hungry. "Let's go over to Farmer Brown's and get some of those delicious carrots that we had for dinner yesterday," said Goodboy.

"That will be fine," said Greedykins, and so they started.

After eating all the carrots that two little rabbits could eat, Greedykins saw a round, smooth green thing growing close to the ground.

"It looks good to eat," he said. "You must not touch it," replied Goodboy. "You know what mother told you."

But Greedykins had already begun to nibble. "Oh, it is so good! I am sure mamma would not mind about this."

Greedykins nibbled as fast as he could, nor listened to a word that Goodboy said. At last the round, smooth green thing was all eaten, and they started for home.

But they had not gone far when Greedykins began to cry with pain. Goodboy tried to comfort him and to help him home, but it was of no use. Greedykins could do no farther, and he rolled on the ground in misery. Goodboy was obliged to leave him and run home.

Father and Mother Rabbit were just crossing the field.

"O mother!" cried Goodboy. "Greedykins is ill, and I cannot get him home!"

They hurried to where Greedykins was, and found him just where Goodboy had left him, meaning and looking about. Between them they managed to get him home, and after putting him to bed Father Rabbit went at once for Doctor Carrot.

A large brown rabbit who lived all alone in the hollow of a great tree.

Pretty soon in came the doctor, of whom all the rabbit children were afraid, because he was so gruff and gave such bitter medicines. He looked at Greedykins all over, and then said, "As I thought, he has been eating something green. A week in bed and this medicine three times a day, will make him well." Then he looked at Goodboy over his glasses so sternly that poor little Greedykins cried harder than ever; but Doctor Carrot went on: "Young rabbit, this is a very serious case. The next time you see anything round and smooth and green, let it alone. And with that he stalked out of the house.

The week following was a hard one for Greedykins, who had to stay in bed and take the bitter medicine, and could have nothing to eat except gruel. He could see Goodboy at play, and he thought, "Oh, if I had been good, like my brother, I should not now have to stay in bed and take this awful medicine."

It was a hard lesson for Greedykins, but he learned it well, and remembered it all his life.—Youth's Companion.

The Weight of Numbers. Malachi O'Rourke, a familiar character in Chicago, had occasion to appear before a police magistrate to answer a charge of larceny. After hearing the testimony of two witnesses, who said that they saw Malachi take the goods, the judge said: "Well, Malachi, I think you are guilty."

"An' what makes your honor think that?" asked the Celt.

"These two men, who say they saw you take the goods."

"An' is that all?" asked Malachi, in surprise. "Why your honor, I can bring 200 men who will swear they didn't see me take the goods."

But It's There. Jinks—"How did you get that paint on your trousers?"

Spinks—"I didn't. I got the trousers on the paint when I sat down."

Aunt—"You've counted up to eight nicely, dear. But don't you know what comes after eight?" Elsie—"Bedtime."
