

precept and more example, which though reticent of speech is yet eloquent in testimony for good or for evil. So, whatever be our lot or circumstances, whatever our joys and sorrows, our losses or crosses, we may with confidence look ahead, and our great compensation will not be lacking—
“She hath done what she could”; and again,
“Well done, good and faithful servant: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord.”