November 3, 1955

Dear Roger:

I am very pleased indeed to have your letter of November 1st, and to know that you are able to get back to work on the book. Am not finding the least fault with you for getting in on some other articles in the meantime, but your book is that which interests me principally from this on.

You have selected two splendid men in Mr. George Drew and Davie Fulton. I do not like being too positive, especially in respect to Mr. Fulton, whom I have known only a short time, but am disposed to think that you got probably the two best.

Spadina was wonderful news. As a matter of fact, it was not capitalized by the Press as it should have been. The Ottawa Journal was splendid, the Globe & Mail was somewhat casual and the Telegram was simply awful. They treated one of the biggest turn-overs in our history as less important as a new picture of Princess Margaret, and had no editorial at all.

Yours sincerely,

Arthur Meighen/d
