MAKES STATEMENT
Provincial Detective Goes Up to Interview Miss Lou Jones.

Owen Sound, Aug. 20.—Miss Jones, the young lady who suffered from a vicious assault one week ago, has recovered her senses, although she is yet in a critical condition.

It is generally understood that she has made some statement concerning the identity of her assailant, but the police have decided to divulge nothing with reference to the case.

On Saturday morning Acting Deputy Attorney-General Dymond sent one of his detective staff to take her deposition.

So far, all she has said concerning the attack is that someone jumped out upon her and dragged her from the road. The authorities profess themselves to be in the dark and say there is no basis to their knowledge for any supposition that "sensational disclosures" may be expected. It is, however, believed that the tramp at present under arrest is not the guilty man.
