POETRY.

Mothers.

One mother, once, when her encircling arm Grew powerless to shield her child from harm, Wove a frail basket of the trembling reed, And, strengthening it with loving art, she laid Him helpless, thus, beside the river's brim, Trusting that God would keep and care for him. Since then all mothers, taught by her have known God's care is larger, better than their own. They weave their trembling faith into an ark, And strengthen with their prayers the tiny bark, And trust their growing children thus to Him Who saved the lad beside the river's brim. —Mrs F. L. Ballard.

STORY.

The Engineer's Story.

Did you ever hear of a railroad president acting as fireman on an engine? Well, I know of one who did, and if you've got time to listen to it, I'll tell you the story now while I smoke this cigar you were kind enough to give me. It was along in the summer of '85 that I was firing on a single track, one-horse road, that runs up from Junction City, through the woods to Georgetown, a matter of a hundred and ten miles. The road was mostly owned by a man named Theford—William B. Theford—who was president and superintendent all in one. I had been firing on the road for two years back; all the time with one engineer, Bob Hunter by name, and a finer man never lived. I suppose it would be natural for me to speak well of Bob, anyhow, for I was clean head over ears in love with his pretty daughter Molly; and was only waiting for a bit of raise in my pay to make her Mrs Jim Martin. Though I didn't see any chance for that raise where I was, I didn't like to leave and go on another road, for that would take me away from Molly. One day Bob says to me: "Jim, ain't you and Molly never going to get married?" "Just as soon as I get my raise," says I; "but I don't see how I'm going to get it here." "Why don't you go and ask Billy?" says he. You see Billy was what we always called Mr Theford—behind his back, of course, for I warrant you we were mighty polite to his face. "He won't do anything for me," says I, "for you know either one of the cleaners up to Georgetown would be glad enough to jump into my place, and he ain't a-goin to give me a raise just to please me." "Well," says Bob, "it won't do any hurt to try it." So next day I washed up and went to the company's offices and asked for Mr Theford. After a few minutes he sent word for me that he would see me, and I went. There he sat—a large, heavy built man, with large side-whiskers and a pair of gold-rimmed eyeglasses on his nose. "What is it, my man? I'm very busy," says he. "So I up and told him what I wanted." "How much are you getting now?"

THE HOUSEHOLD.

The best of tea makes but an indifferent concoction unless the water is fresh. Anything mixed with water requires a hotter oven than anything mixed with milk. Beets should be boiled one hour in summer; one hour and a half, or even two hours, if large, in winter. Apples will not freeze if covered with a linen cloth, nor a pie or custard burn if in the oven with a dish of water. When several cups of tea of equal strength are wanted, pour a little into each cup and then fill in adverse order. The tea first poured from the pot is the weakest of the decoction. All vegetables should go into fast boiling water, to be quickly brought to the boiling point again, not left to steep in the hot water before boiling, which toughens them and destroys color and flavor. Paper may be perfumed by laying a perfumed sachet with the sheets and envelopes, or dry sachet powder may be sprinkled in the box, laying an extra sheet of paper between the box and paper. There is nothing that removes impurities from floors, etc., so rapidly as boiling hot soda and water, applied with a long-handled scrubbing brush and rinsed off once with clear water and dried with a clean cloth. When the skin is bruised it may be prevented from becoming discolored by using a little dry starch or arrow-root merely moistened with cold water and placed on the injured part. This should be done at once. If black dresses have been stained boil a handful of fig leaves in a quart of water and reduce it to a pint. A sponge dipped in this liquid and rubbed upon them will entirely remove stains from crapes, bombazines, etc. The practice of rubbing the face with vasoline or other cosmetic sometimes makes the hair grow where it is not becoming. Camphor applications, like other irritants or stimulants to the skin, will cause superfluous hair. RECIPES. SLICED ORANGE.—Pare and slice a dozen oranges, grate a cocoanut and shred a pine-apple. Fill a dish with alternate layers until it is full. Pour over them sweetened sauce and serve. GRAIN CAKES.—Cream together four eggs, two teaspoonsful brown sugar, five tablespoonsful rye flour, three tablespoonsful wheat flour, two tablespoonsful cornmeal and a little salt, adding milk enough to make a thin batter. Bake on hot griddle as you would pancakes. YANKEE POTATO BALLS.—Boil potatoes until very done, season and mash the same as for mashed potatoes. Press into a teacup enough of the potato to fill it, turn carefully out into a buttered pan. Repeat until the pan is full. Beat an egg, rub over each dome-like cake and place in oven until turned a golden brown. SPANISH CREAM.—Soak half a box of gelatine in one quart of milk for half an hour, then put it on to boil. Have ready the yolks of four eggs and one cup of sugar well beaten together and when the milk and gelatine boils add these two ingredients. Beat the whites of eggs to a stiff froth, and when the custard is taken off the fire add the beaten whites and pour into a mold to cool. express. I have written in reply that I can recommend such a man, one James Martin, who will report for service September first. The pay will be one hundred dollars a month. I may add to you privately that I shall never apply to you for the position of fireman. Good-day, sir." That's all there is to my story. Molly and I were married, and went to Chicago to live. I took the new train, and have brought her in on time every trip I've run; so you see I've a pretty good record with the company. I've never seen Billy since and I don't believe he wants to see me; for Bob told me the last time I saw him that they all called the old man "Martin's Fireman," that he knew this, and naturally didn't like it. There's my mate signalling for me now, sir, and I must go. SHILOH'S VITALIZER is what you need for Constipation, Loss of Appetite, Dizziness, and all symptoms of Dyspepsia. Price 10 and 75 cents per bottle. Sold by Geo. V. Rand. Is it Another Fraud. We are constantly receiving inquiries from all parts of the country asking, "Is this true?" "Will you do what you claim?" or "Is this another humbug?" We are not basing our claims for public patronage upon new and unestablished articles for which there is little or no positive evidence of value but upon old standards of merit, one of which, has been in use over eighty years, generation after generation of families in the last four-score years have vouched for it. We a-k no one to take our word as a guarantee of value—we have many letters on file in our office from people who have used and sold our goods in years gone by, telling of results as wonderful as any known. We should take pride in showing them to anyone interested. The simple remedy, Johnson's Anodyne Liment, has probably saved more lives and afforded more relief to the suffering than any other known remedy. It is used and recommended by all classes of people—the high and the low, the rich and the poor, the educated and the ignorant. All who become acquainted with it, experimentally, are amazed at its wonderful power, and are loud in its praise ever after. It is marvelous how many different complaints it will cure or relieve. Its strong point lies in the fact that it acts quickly and effectually. This whole page would not suffice to enumerate one-quarter of the diseases and ailments—the broken, splintered and mutilated limbs; bent and stiffened limbs; jabs, bruises, old sores, ugly cuts, burns, scalds, etc., which this Anodyne Liment will positively alleviate or cure. What is the trifling cost of a bottle or a half dozen of this Anodyne, compared with the worth of a human life? Less not a moment, but let every family be supplied. It is used as much internally as externally, many do not know this. No matter how well you know this medicine it will pay you to send to I. S. Johnson & Co., Boston, Mass., for a pamphlet, free, telling how to use the liment economically. A tea-spoonful properly used will often do more good than a half bottle as some people use it. King Leopold, of Belgium, speaks and writes English with ease and accuracy. He never lets a Sunday pass without writing an autograph letter to his friend and ally, Queen Victoria. the home trip at a little station three miles from Georgetown, so we had plenty of fuel aboard to make the run with. "Can you do it?" says he. "Remember, it is a hundred and ten miles and it is 8.30 now, so you have only two hours and a half to make the run that generally takes double that time." "I can do it," says I, "if you will just jump aboard, pull off your coat, and do just as I tell you." No sooner said than done, and in ten minutes we had the old engine on the turn-table, turned her around, and were off. If the road was rough when we ran at our usual speed, that night, making double time, it was just awful. As we flew around the curves it seemed as if we should lose the track at every turn of the drivers, and the poor old machine rocked and swayed so that, used as I was to it, I could hardly keep on my seat by the lever. If it was hard on me, what must it have been to old Billy? I could hardly keep from laughing in his face as I watched him, and heard him groan as he handled the heavy sticks we used for fuel. The heat of the weather, added to that of the furnace and the unusual work, made him look as if he was in a Turkish bath. The water ran down his face, his stiff white collar hung down on his shoulders like a wet rag, and his beautiful smooth shirt bosom looked as if some one had thrown a pail of dirty water over him. His hands were torn and cut, from hauling the wood, and take it all together, he was the most unlikely looking railroad president I ever saw. Once in a while I had to shout at him to lay the wood more even in the furnace, and would tell him he would get the knack of it in time. Whenever he tried to rest I told him we were losing steam and if he wanted to catch that train, he must get up on the work. If I had thought to hitch a car on when we started, we could have run much smoother; but it was too late to think of that now, and so, on we rushed, now through woodland, now past grain fields, lurching first to one side and then to the other, until I expected every minute to land wrong side up in the ditch. However, luck was with us that night, and we pulled up at Junction City at just eleven. Poor old Billy could hardly climb down from the cab, but he managed to gasp out: "Come to my office at two o'clock next Sunday." I learned afterward that, finding the Chicago train was behind time, he hunted up a clothing store and rigged himself out so as to look like a civilized man, which he didn't when he left me. I managed to find a fireman who was willing to make the run back with me and I finally got home at three o'clock, and finding the cleaners sobered up, got to bed as soon as possible, for I was clean played out. I told Bob about my trip next day, and thought he would die laughing to think of old Billy playing fireman. But all he said was: "I'm afraid that'll settle your hash, Jim, for he'll find out you worked him more than was needed." The next Saturday, at two o'clock, I reported at the president's office, wondering whether I was going to be rewarded for my extra work or kicked out for my impudence. When I entered the office, there sat the old man spick and span as ever, and showing no signs of hard work. "Well, young man," said he, "you helped me out the other night, but I wouldn't go through the same experience again for ten thousand dollars. At the same time, I think you were trying to get even with me for not doing as you asked me to about your salary, and I have concluded that this road can dispense with your services." At this my heart went down into my boots, for I can tell you it isn't an easy thing to get a new job when you can't bring a recommendation from your last place. Then he went on to say: "I have a letter here from the superintendent of the Chicago and Western, asking me if I can recommend to them an engineer who has a sharp eye and cool head, to run their new fast night express. I have written in reply that I can recommend such a man, one James Martin, who will report for service September first. The pay will be one hundred dollars a month.
