THE NEW KIDNEYS

of Those Destroyed by Fifty Years of Kidney Disease.

Wonderful Cure in New Brunswick by Dodd's Kidney Pills—Had Submitted to Surgical Operations without Resulting Relief—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

N. B., April 9.—It is safe to never before have the people of this town so thoroughly and interested in a question of health as they are to-day. This affair was brought about by the publication of the wonderful recovery of a man named G. J. Worden, of the Civil Court, through the use of grand medicine, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

There is no exaggeration in saying that Worden's case is the most remarkable ever heard of here. He was well up in years—aged seventy—when he was taken and tormented by the disease. Several doctors attended him, and performed a number of operations on him, hoping thus to cure him. They failed.

Worden was very ill. Kidney had tortured him for a quarter of a century. All efforts to cure, or relieve, were fruitless. He lost hope. There was no more hope. Dodd's Kidney Pills were brought into the case. They were tried—they went to work at once. He was cured.

WAR NEWS.

LONDON, April 4, 4.40 a. m.—No news has yet been received of the expected battle between Gen. French and the Boers. There is now but a remote prospect of the recapture of the guns. This, however, is regarded as quite trifling as compared with the political effects of the disaster. As the Bloemfontein correspondent of the Times remarks, Commandant Oliver's strategy in re-occupying Ladysmith and Tloko N'chu was bold and even brilliant. Most of his force is composed of Free States; and the advantage gained by them will have a most disturbing effect on the mind of the Free State population.

The impossibility of affording complete protection, for the moment, to all farmers in the south and southeast sections of the Free State, is recognized at Bloemfontein. Men who surrendered under the proclamation of Lord Roberts are now being punished for the reliance they placed in the ability of the British to protect them. As the correspondent further remarked, "this is a hard fact and every possible effort will be made to help them; but consideration for the suffering repentant delinquents at the hands of their fellow countrymen cannot be suffered to prejudice the military plans of Lord Roberts."

The Daily Telegraph which takes a more humane view, says: "It is just as important to protect those burghers who have trusted in our power and surrendered all means of defending themselves as it is to win victories against those who are still in arms."

The Daily Chronicle, whose Cape Town correspondent joyfully predicted that the war would be over in three months, says: "In order to re-establish our position in the Free State we need a brilliant success won on the scene of our latest reverse."

It is announced from Springfontein that the censorship has again curtailed the despatches. Therefore important developments must be impending.

The British public is reluctant to believe that an American led the Boer forces which attacked the convoy.

The Daily Chronicle says: "Reichman may be, like some other Americans, in sympathy with the Boers. He may even have specifically stated the Boer command, although this would have been exceedingly improper. But we cannot think he would take the command without previously resigning his American citizenship."

There is little news from other points. Making was still besieged on March 30; and there are rumors that Gen. Buller is preparing to advance.

LONDON, April 4.—Mr. Spencer Wilkinson, discussing the attack on Col. Broadwood's detachment in the Morning Post, says: "The attack was well planned and well executed. Col. Broadwood, however, skillfully evaded the stroke aimed at him. Possibly Lord Roberts had retired his infantry with a view of encouraging the Boers to advance and to continue their attack. Probably nothing would suit him better than that they should attempt to move toward the railway or to attack in the direction of Bloemfontein. He is collecting reinforcements and orders in order to be in readiness for a general of the general advance and he will not be drawn away. If the Boers venture too near they will receive punishment."

LONDON, April 4.—The Cape Town correspondent of the Times, telegraphing Monday, says: "Apparently there was not a man ahead of the convoy with orders to look out, but the escort trotted quietly behind and only discovered that something was wrong after half the convoy had been captured."

The correspondent of the Times at Lorenzo Marques, telegraphing, says: "It is reported here that all the Rand mines closed down last Thursday. British workmen and their countrymen in other parts of the republic are being expelled wholesale from the Transvaal."

"On the other hand, the Boers are so demoralized that it is impossible to induce many, now on furloughs, to return to the front. They are generally adverse to defending Biggarsburg and are divided with reference to the wisdom of continuing the war. President Kruger has prevailed on Mr. Steyn to make one big dash before surrendering."

LONDON, April 6.—The War office has received the following despatch from Lord Roberts, dated Bloemfontein, Thursday, April 5: "Methuen telegraphs from Boshof (in the Orange Free State, a little northeast of Kimberley) as follows: 'Surrounded General Villhois Marcell and a body of Boers to-day. None escaped. Villhois and seven Boers killed, eight wounded, fifty prisoners. Killed—Capt. S. Boyle and Williams, both of the Yeomanry, and two men of the Yeomanry. Wounded—about seven men. The attack lasted four hours. The corps behaved very well. Our force was composed of Yeomanry, the Kimberley mounted corps and the Fourth battery of artillery."

From Pain To Health.

A CHIPPEWA LADY TELLS A STORY OF SUFFERING AND RELEASE.

Suffered From Heart Trouble for Years—Her Misery Further Aggravated by Kidney and Stomach Trouble.

From the Star, St. Catharines, Ont. In the village of Chippewa, and along the Niagara frontier, there is probably no better known or respected resident than Mr. and Mrs. David Schabel. Both are of German descent and display much of that old-fashioned hospitality so often found in the fatherland. To a correspondent of the St. Catharines Star, who recently called at Mr. Schabel's home Mrs. Schabel related the following story: "Years ago my physician told me I had heart disease. I have been troubled at intervals with palpitation and severe pains, and sometimes my heart would almost cease to beat. I would become dizzy, restless and frightened. At other times I slept badly and had troublesome dreams. I lingered in this state until last winter when exposure to cold affected my kidneys and completely prostrated me. The spring came, when my complaints were further aggravated by stomach trouble. I lost my food and could realize that I was daily growing weaker. My physician's treatment would sometimes slightly benefit me, but again I was worse than ever. Finally, after all hope was apparently gone and a large sum of money had been thrown away for medicines that did me no good, a friend strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Two boxes of which were brought me at the beginning of the summer of 1899. I used them and to my joy noticed improvement. I continued the use of the pills faithfully until I had taken eight boxes. I am now able to attend to all my household, feeling entirely cured. I have never had better health than I am now enjoying, and since discontinuing the pills have had no symptoms of the old complaints. I feel that I am under life-long obligations for the benefit I have derived from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and will continue to praise them when opportunity offers."

Dublin's Royal Welcome.

DUBLIN, April 5.—Queen Victoria yesterday was received with an enthusiasm exceeding that which marked her recent appearance in London and which will high exalt the vaunted glories of the jubilee. The Lord Lieutenant has been taken at his word, and the whole country has risen superior to political prejudices. Not a single circumstance marred the royal entry into Ireland's capital. In fact the most optimistic loyalists expressed themselves surprised at the warmth of the greeting. The extent of Dublin's orderliness can be gauged from the fact that the police made no arrests during the entire day, and although about one million persons crowded the narrow street, only a couple of accidents occurred.

Until midnight the crowds surged through the thoroughfares watching the illuminations, but at one a. m. Dublin was as quiet as any quiet town. All along the line of march from Kingstown to the vice-regal lodge were stretched 7,000 troops, chiefly militia. These had little to do, and instead of creating the hostility that the military sometimes creates they were at various points the subject of wholesale kissing and hugging by the women, who after catching a glimpse of the royal procession could not find any better way to express their enthusiasm and excitement. Nine-tenths of those in Dublin yesterday had never seen the Queen before, and they characteristically expressed themselves upon her appearance as "My, but she's grand." When she passed all bowed their heads. On every side it was admitted to be a great day for Ireland, the loyalists saying under their breath: "Pity it did not come sooner," and the nationalist partaking sufficiently of the prevailing enthusiasm to subordinate political consideration, which officially and by the Queen's own declaration had no part in the greatest day in the history of Ireland.

LONDON, April 5.—The Times, commenting editorially upon the reception Her Majesty has met with in Ireland, says: "The hearty and generous welcome, unbroken by any discordant voices, which the Queen has received in Dublin, stands out all the more conspicuously in view of the dastardly attempt upon the life of the Prince of Wales. The Irish people will rejoice that political passion does not take the form of enthusiastic anarchism. In their hearts they will be glad to know that evil traditions of former days have gradually died out. While venomous denunciations of Great Britain are being spread broadcast over the continent, it would perhaps be prudent and dignified for those in the highest places in the state to refrain from putting themselves in the way of insult or something worse. These sentiments of the Times represent pretty accurately the tone of the editorials generally."

Kendrick's Liniment is always satisfactory, never disappointing.
