Britain Answers Germany

"If the combined fleets of Great Britain and France can prevent it, no commodities of any kind, except those now on the seas, shall henceforth, until the conclusion of the war, reach or leave the shores of Germany." This is Britain's answer to Germany's submarine blockade and attack on merchant shipping as declared by Premier Asquith in the House of Commons on March 1st.

he added, referring to the western front. "Neither has there, been for the purpose of the Dardanelles operations, any weakening of the grand fleet. The enterprise was carefully conceived, with distinct political, strategical and economic objects." The Premier said that the operations against Turkey again illustrated the close co-operation among the allies.

St. Dunstan's Cathedral

The financial statement in connection with the rebuilding of St. Dunstan's Cathedral, was read to the congregation on Sunday last by Rev. Dr. McLellan. Sunday was the second anniversary of the date of destruction of the Cathedral by fire. The fire commenced on the night of the 7th of March 1913, shortly before midnight. Reviewing the work accomplished by way of reconstruction in those two years Rev. Dr. McLellan pointed out that the progress made was simply marvellous, and in the highest degree creditable to the congregation of St. Dunstan's. In these two years $70,000 had been paid into the building fund and we now had a Cathedral unsurpassed, so far as the exterior is concerned, by any in the Dominion of Canada. We have also the basement church, in which the congregation now worships, finished and furnished in a manner superior to any basement church in the Dominion. This was a record of which the Cathedral congregation might well be proud. Following is the financial statement.

Table with 2 columns: Item, Amount. Revenue Account, 1914—Total amount of Contributions $25,489.00. Expenses, ordinary, 1,061.06. Balance available for building purposes $24,428.00.

Asquith said that the objections of the Germans in both cases was murder and wholesale destruction of property and undefended towns." He described the German campaign against British shipping as grotesque and puerile and said that it was a perversion of language to call it a blockade.

Dominion Parliament.

Ottawa, Mar. 3.—Mr. Stevens of Vancouver resumed the budget debate. He maintained that the objection was wrong in its contention that business conditions had not been affected by the war. The declaration of war had been followed by the closing of the Stock Exchanges of the world, and business had suffered its consequences. Mr. Stevens pointed out that, after the declaration of war, the United States, a neutral nation, had held a meeting of Congress, at which a war budget had been passed to counteract the fall in revenue. He resented the statement that the government had no longer the confidence of the people. Never had the people of the country more confidence in their government and their premier. Mr. Stevens recalled the Liberal criticism of the government's naval policy, and of Mr. Winston Churchill. Where, he asked, would Canada and her commerce be today, if it were not for the British navy? He was proud of the manner in which the government had met every situation since the war began.

Stevens Resumes Budget Debate

Ottawa, Mar. 3.—Mr. Stevens of Vancouver resumed the budget debate. He maintained that the objection was wrong in its contention that business conditions had not been affected by the war. The declaration of war had been followed by the closing of the Stock Exchanges of the world, and business had suffered its consequences. Mr. Stevens pointed out that, after the declaration of war, the United States, a neutral nation, had held a meeting of Congress, at which a war budget had been passed to counteract the fall in revenue. He resented the statement that the government had no longer the confidence of the people. Never had the people of the country more confidence in their government and their premier. Where, he asked, would Canada and her commerce be today, if it were not for the British navy? He was proud of the manner in which the government had met every situation since the war began.

Mr. Oliver Wilcox, of North Essex, rose to state that although it was too near the time of adjournment for him to commence his speech, he would like to refer to certain statements made by the member for West Kent as to the fact that there were no farmers in the government, and the inference that there were many in the opposition. In this regard, Mr. Wilcox would like to refer to that accomplished farmer from St. John, Hon. Dr. Pugsley, who had at great length the other day expounded, proclaimed and enunciated the value as an insecticide for the preservation of fruit trees of—"squid." What was squid? asked Mr. Wilcox; why, an animal with eight more legs than the hon. member for St. John. But squid under the tariff, was a little lend imitation of the animal used by fishermen as bait, and it was with this spraying mixture that the member for St. John would seek to preserve the fruit trees. A young member of the government had ventured to assure him of his mistake, and the result was that Dr. Pugsley had immediately left the House, and had all reference to the matter struck out of Hansard. This was a fair sample of the arguments submitted. There was another. That consisted of the harangue to which the House had listened for two hours yesterday, as to the load which the government proposed to place upon the back of the horny-handed son of toil, the farmer, by the imposition of an extra seven and a half per cent. of duty on fertilizers. Well Mr. Wilcox had looked up the Canadian importation of fertilizers, and had found that this immense, this crushing burden, would amount to $4,625. Mr. Wilcox then moved, amid general laughter, the adjournment of the debate. The House adjourned immediately afterwards.

Ottawa, March 4.—Hon. Wm. Pugsley's Squids has put his party in wrong again, and the upshot of the latest venture will probably be the retirement of Professor Shortt, chairman of the Civil Service Commission. Professor Shortt is a political partisan of an extreme type. That was why he, when a lecturer at Queen's University, was given the appointment by the late government. He gives public lectures now and again just to keep his hand in. One Sunday evening he addressed a local club called "The People's Forum." It is a socialistic outfit which embodies half the cranks in town. In the course of his speech he let loose on the present government and the civil service, declaring that since the present government came into power in 1911 there had been 2,000 dismissals, and 20,000 appointments to fill their places. The affair would not have received much notice had not Mr. Pugsley referred to it in parliament in order to get a crack, as he thought, at the government. Hon. Robert Rogers was on his feet in an instant and described the statement of Professor Shortt, as "dishonest, dishonourable and untrue."

Mr. A. B. McCoig, of West Kent, who followed, expressed his approval of the rural mail routes, established in his country. He spoke of the methods now pursued by the government in dealing with outbreaks of hog cholera. He referred to arm-chair farmers, who were giving advice to the real agriculturists, and stated that the present administration "was" composed of doctors and lawyers. He objected to the slaughtering of a whole herd of hogs because of one case of hog cholera therein, and quoted from a United States agricultural bureau report, dated 1909, to show that the hogs could be treated with a serum to prevent the infection.

Mr. Dewitt Foster, who had entered the chamber, asked Mr. McCoig to repeat his statements about the hogs, he, Mr. Foster, had purchased. When Mr. McCoig obliged, the member for Kings said there was absolutely no truth in this, or kindred statements. The hogs had been chosen by two export veterinarians, and had proven so that when they arrived at Val-sartien, that they were at once distributed. Mr. Foster recalled the time of the South African war, when, he said, the same horse was sometimes sold four times in Kings county, and the horse might have been as old as the member for North Cape Breton (D. D. MacKenzie), at that. Then it had been alleged
